Nickerson Trial Will Test Army Role

FORT McPHERSON, Ga. —The Army has ordered Col. John Nickerson Jr. to stand trial on charges of turning over to unauthorized people classified information on development and use of guided missiles, particularly the Jupiter missile, which was fired with some success from the Missile Test Center at Patrick AFB, Fla., on March 1.

Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, Third Army commander, accepted the report of the pre-trial investigation which found that there was sufficient evidence to warrant court martial of Col. Nickerson on two charges and 15 specifications.

The general charges are that Col. Nickerson violated Articles 92 and 134 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice. He is alleged to have turned over to news and industry representatives at least three separate documents.

These include a memorandum from Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, dated Nov. 8, 1955, to the service secretaries on "Management of the IRBM No. 2 Development Program"; one from Air Force Secretary Donald A. Quarles to Mr. Wilson, dated August 14, under the title "Adjustment of Army-Air Force Differences," and a 12-page study written by Col. Nickerson on "Considerations of the Wilson Memorandum" (last November 26's paper on assignment of roles and missions between the services).

Announcement that Col. Nickerson, a 1938 West Point graduate, would stand trial came just three days after the Army achieved the first "successful" firing of an intermediate range ballistic missile. The IRBM is defined as a surface-to-surface missile with a range of about 1500 nautical miles.

The Jupiter missile fired at Patrick AFB was, according to reliable reports, a "true missile." This was explained as meaning that it was a complete, single unit, not one put together from components or other whole missiles.

The idea is that last September 26, the Army fired a "Jupiter test bed" designed to test a number of components of the Jupiter IRBM but which was parts of other missiles put together to make something that would fly. It could not be tactically employed. In that firing, the point of impact of the final stage was more than 3000 miles from the launching site.

In Friday's test of Jupiter, the missile exploded within minutes after launching. It was said that the safety destructive charge went

Learns Lesson

A FORT BLISS (Tex.) lieutenant will pause to think, next time he feels it necessary to spur his men to top performance. Last week, Lt. Harold E. Stubbs, commander of "D" Btry, 1st Bn., USATC, an anti-aircraft training unit, took his men out to the range to fire their weapons. All the men were Reserve Forces Act trainees, winding up six months of training, and this was their final trip to the range. In order to get the best out of them, Lt. Stubbs offered to do 25 push-ups for every drone target plane they shot down. Hardly were the words out of his mouth before the battery brought down two of the targets. An adjacent battery bagged a third. Picture at right shows Lt. Stubbs beginning his ordeal.

Army to Test 'Know-How' Of Men in Several Fields

By MONTE BOURJAILY Jr.

WASHINGTON—A composite scoring system to be used for many "personnel actions" involved in an enlisted military career is being developed by the Army. The MOS proficiency test, announced in December, is one of several sources for this composite score.

No date has yet been set for the first tests to be given. Tests are now being developed for MOS's in three major areas of concern to the Army. These are for MOS's "considered critical from the standpoint of procurement and training," MOS's in which the Army is either short or has too many men, and MOS's in which "there is evidence of malclassification in the field," the Army says.

In the overstrength fields (those in which, for example, promotions are now frozen in the top grades), the results of the test will probably be used first to determine who should remain in the fields and who should be required to go to school to learn a new trade. In these fields, some reductions may also follow.

Some tests will be mandatory, some voluntary, depending on the purpose for which they are given. Where the Army must reduce the number of men in a particular field, the tests are likely to be required. In those fields where the Army needs men, possibly in fields in which there are promotion opportunities, the tests are likely to be voluntary.

The Army said it must learn whether a man knows how to do his job after he has been in it.

Calendar Girl Entries Mount

The number of entries was mounting this week as Army Times' Calendar Girl contest moved toward a March 22 deadline. But the Calendar Editor looked up from his work long enough to issue a warning: too many pictures of pretty girls were coming in which were printed on soft (matte) paper. A hard, glossy finish was better for newspaper reproduction, he pointed out.

The contest to choose Army Times' "Miss April" is the first of a monthly series. The winner's picture will be published on the paper's calendar appearing in the final March issue.

All friends, sweethearts, wives of Army men and Army civilian employees are eligible—whether they're entered by others or enter their own full-figure photographs. Each picture should be accompanied by this signed statement: "I have no objection to the publication of my photograph in Army Times."

Address all entries to: Calendar Editor, Army Times, 2020 M St. NW, Washington 4, D.C.

Civilian Pay Raise 'Must' with Cordiner

WASHINGTON — The Cordiner committee has recommended steep and "immediate" pay raises and a series of related benefits for government civilian employees.

They are separate and distinct from the military proposals. The latter this week were still not whipped into the group's final report.

Meantime, however, a "task force" has been appointed to monitor the military changes through the government bureaus and Congress.

The civilian proposals, which may not get Administration backing, would boost GS-7 through GS-18 pay an average of 15 percent. The raises should be laid on immediately, the committee has said, in order to retain and attract high-grade workers.

The other recommendations include:

- In-grade flexibility in appointing new employees. Now newcomers start at the basic rate in a grade. The proposal would allow

Contestants Split $5000

The names of winners of the first of six "Spot Cash" contests now running in Army Times will be announced in next week's issue. Each month, several winners share $5000 in cash awards. See the "Spot Cash" entry blank this week.

3 More Divs. Go Pentomic

WASHINGTON.—Three more divisions—the 1st Infantry, the 1st Armored and the 25th Infantry—have joined the 101st Airborne in reorganizing under the new Pentomic structure.

All but the 101st began their reorganization last month. (The 101st began last summer). The Army, however, has not been permitted to release information except locally on these changes until this week.

Unofficial reports are that two more divisions—the 3d Infantry and the 4th Armored—will adopt the Pentomic structure within a month. By July 1, half of the Army's 17 tactical divisions now appear likely to be in the process of changing over to the new Pentomic structure.

Units of the newly reorganized divisions are being identified under the "Combat Arms Regimental Plan." Infantry formations are numbered "Battle Groups" or Armored Rifle Battalions which are identified with "Historic Regiments." Likewise, there are tank and artillery battalions, also numbered beginning with 1st, also members of regiments. Reconnaissance units are squadrons identified with historic cavalry regiments.

At Fort Riley, Kans., the re-named units of the 1st Infantry Division are: 2d Battle Group, 2d Infantry Regiment. (There is also a 2d Infantry Regiment, the parent unit, a part of the 5th Infantry Division at Fort Ord, Calif. This unit is minus Company B which has become headquarters of the 2d Battle Group at Fort Riley.)

Other units of the 1st: 1st BG, 16th Inf; 1st BG, 18th Inf; 1st BG, 28th Inf; 2d BG, 28th Inf. (The 28th Infantry, minus Co. B, is a part of the 8th Infantry Division in Europe.) Also part of the 1st Infantry Division: 1st FA Bn (HKT-How), 5th FA Regiment; 1st How Bn, 7th FA; 1st Sq., 4th Cav (The Division Reconnaissance Squad-

Army Deactivates Last Airborne RCT

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky.—The last Airborne Regimental Combat Team in the U. S. Army faded into history last week with the deactivation of the 508th ARCT here.

Quietly, without fanfare, the unit which received the Distinguished Unit Citation and the French Croix de Guerre with Palm for its very first action in War II ceased to exist.

Schools Command, which has been the main function of the 508th since August 1956, will continue to operate some of the 101st Abn. Div.'s schools for an indefinite period. The command will gradually phase-out, to be disbanded when need for it no longer exists.

Originally designated "508th Parachute Infantry Regiment," the unit was activated on Oct. 20, 1942 at Camp Blanding, Fla. It participated in four campaigns in Europe during War II and, attached to the 82d Abn. Div., parachuted into Normandy on D-Day, June 6, 1944.

In September of the same year the 508th dropped near Nijmegen, Holland, in Operation Market-Garden and distinguished itself further in subsequent action.

AFTER SERVING in the occupation of Germany as honor guard at Frankfurt for G/A Dwight D. Eisenhower, the 508th returned to the States to be inactivated at Camp Kilmer, N. J., Nov. 25, 1946.

Redesignated the 508th Abn. Inf. Regt., the unit was activated again April 16, 1951 at Fort Bragg, N. C. It became the 508th Abn. RCT in August of the same year at Fort Benning, Ga.

After 17 months at Fort Campbell the 508th gyroscoped to Japan to replace the 187th Abn. RCT, thereby becoming one of the first units to participate in Operation Gyroscope and one of two to gyroscope entirely by air.

Serving one of a planned three-year tour in the Far East, the unit returned to the United States during June and July 1956. It and the 187th later became the hard core around which the "pentomic" 101st A Div., was organized at Campbell.

Army Revamps Active, Reserve Basic Schedules

WASHINGTON.—A revamped schedule of basic training required subjects for both the Regular Army and Reserve components is detailed in a newly released Army publication.

The program was reshuffled and improved, Army spokesmen said, as a result of government-sponsored human resources studies and the lessons gained by the testing last summer of active Army and National Guard personnel by Continental Army Command.

The changes are ordered in Army Training Program 21-114, dated Nov. 26, 1956. This publication supersedes ATP 21-114, dated Nov. 2, 1954.

A total of 43 hours is added to the Reserves' schedule of required subjects, raising the program to 132 hours. However, the Army said the schedule merely indicates subjects which are to be emphasized within the overall training requirement.

The active Army's total required hours remains at 352. (Twenty hours of administrative processing are not included in the new publication.)

In the Reserve schedule 50 hours are added in 13 separate subjects, one hour cut from one subject and three subjects totaling 15 hours completely eliminated.

The active Army has added 78 hours in 10 subjects, cut 23 hours from nine subjects and eliminated eight subjects totaling 50 hours entirely.

4th Armored Opens Gyro Enlistments

WASHINGTON—Enlistments and reenlistments for the 4th Armored Div., now at Fort Hood, Tex., are open to men who want to volunteer as Gyroscope members for the division's overseas movement next year.

The Army said it would encourage enlistments for a period of four or more years so that those volunteering could train with the division in the States, then complete the overseas tour with it. However, the Army will not turn down three-year enlistees.

The 4th Armored Div. will take the place of the 2d, which is now in Germany. It will be reorganized under the pentomic structure before it goes overseas.

Authority for enlistment or reenlistment in the 4th Armored is DA Circular 601-2.

THE WEEK IN CONGRESS

(Through Monday, March 4)

COAST GUARD: Senate approved 383 officers and warrants for permanent appointments in the Coast Guard.

NAVY: Senate received nomination of Thomas S. Gates Jr. to be Secretary of the Navy, replacing Charles S. Thomas, who resigned.

LAND: House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee approved a clean bill to restrict Defense authority to withdraw land from the public domain.

MISSING PERSONS: Brooks subcommittee of House Armed Services Committee scheduled hearing on HR 2404, Defense-sponsored bill to make the Missing Persons Act permanent and broaden its coverage.

HOUSING: House Banking and Currency subcommittee heard John M. Arrington, Chief of the Family Housing Division, Office of the Assistant Secretary for Properties and Installation, ask for a year's extension of the Capehart housing deadline.

POST OFFICES: House passed HR 4815, making permanent the Post Office Department's authority to establish postal stations at military bases. Temporary authority under which such stations are now operated expired March 10. Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee approved S. 913, an identical bill.

NURSES: House passed HR 2460, Defense-sponsored nurse career bill.

DEGAUSSING: House passed HR 4898, allowing the Navy to sell degaussing equipment to owners of merchant ships. STEVEDORING: House passed HR 2797, allowing the services to furnish stevedoring and other terminal services to commercial vessels without requiring advance payment for such services.

ARMY: Senate received nominations of numerous officers for appointments in the Regular Army in the grade of lieutenant.

BRIEFINGS: Senate Armed Services committee heard briefings from the chiefs of staff of the services in closed session.

Capehart Contract Let for McClellan

MOBILE, Ala.—Two contracts for Capehart housing construction at Fort McClellan, Ala., were signed Feb. 28, it was announced last week by Col. Harold E. Bisbort, Mobile district engineer.

The largest, for $1,640,500, was signed with the Southern Construction Co., Augusta, Ga., to build 100 family housing units. The second, $58,921, was awarded to Hodges and Co., Anniston, Ala., for construction of off-site facilities to serve the housing project.

The housing contract calls for 100 two- and three-bedroom units in 23 duplex and multiple dwellings, and all onsite work in connection with their construction. The buildings will be modern in style, or frame construction with various exterior treatments of wood shingle and wood siding with brick veneer trim.

Venetian blinds, ventilating fans and television facilities will be installed, and concrete terraces laid. All rooms except baths, kitchens and general storage areas will have hardwood block flooring.

Off-site work will include water, gas and sewer lines. Work on both housing and off-site contracts was to start this month.

Col. Bisbort said he expects to issue invitations in the near future to bid for construction of 200 additional Capehart units which have been authorized for Fort McClellan.

Vehicle, Weapon Orders Awarded

WASHINGTON — Three Army Ordnance contracts totaling nearly $45-million have been awarded for production of vehicles and weapons Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker announced this week.

A contract for $17,120,000 for production of the M-56 self-propelled 90mm gun was awarded to the Cadillac Motor Car Division General Motors Corporation. Production of the M-56 is expected to begin in January, 1958, at the Cleveland Ordnance Plant.

Chrysler Motors received a contract for $8,352,000 for the production of 2900 one-ton cargo trucks (T-137). Work will be done at the Dodge Truck Plant, Detroit.

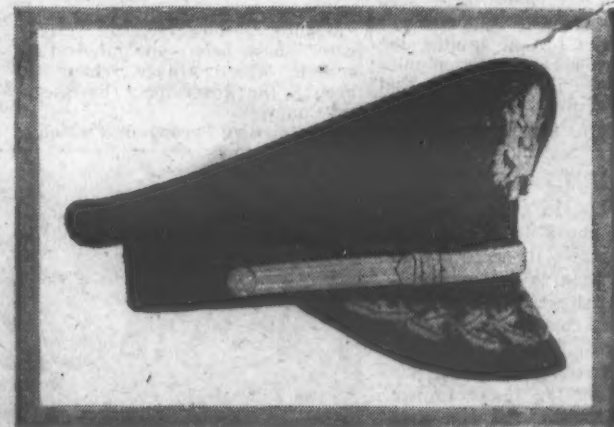

Reo Motors, Inc., Lansing, Michigan, was awarded a $19,288,280 contract for production of 3245 2½-ton cargo trucks (M-35).

Abn. Troops Hike 94 Miles, Make Tactical Air Landing

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky.—A wet but triumphant Co. B, led by Capt. Charles H. Hale, entered the gates of Sewart Air Force Base at Smyrna, Tenn., last week to complete a grueling 94 mile cross-country march from Fort Campbell to an air-departure point south of Nashville.

After their arrival, the 501st troops were loaded in C-119s to make a tactical parachute jump onto Yamoto Drop Zone. But as the planes reached the drop zone, they were waved off because of bad weather. The planes then airlanded the troops and equipment (aboard C-123s) and the company completed its tactical mission from the Campbell air strip.

A rousing 101st Abn Div. Band number, "When the Saints Go Marching In," greeted the 175 paratroopers of the 501st Abn. Inf. Combat Group, as every man jack trudged the last mile to the final overnight bivouac alongside the runways of the troop carrier air base after five days of walking.

Shrugging off a steady rain that grounded their airborne resupply, the "Screaming Eagle" parachutists heated combat rations for their noon meal, then struck out on the last ground leg of their tactical "special mission" problem.

"Getting people for kitchen police, which meant riding the mess truck to prepare meals en route, was a real problem," said Hale. "Every man wanted to be able to brag that he personally had walked every mile of the march to Sewart."

As the combat loaded airborne infantrymen, shouldering bazookas, machine guns and individual weapons, passed the Army band and reception committee, Lt. Col. Willard Young, Group deputy commander, observed that "this is just the beginning for the 501st. Every company in the 'Geronimo' Group will make a similar cross-country move with a parachute jump at the beginning or the end of the operation."

Col. Harry W. O. Kinnard, group commander, is giving each company commander considerable latitude in planning his own company problem, it was noted.

"AHHHH..." says Pvt. Edward L. Back, a B Co. paratrooper, as he gets some hot coffee and footpowder from company aid man Sgt. Jose A. Martinez. The men of the 501st company walked 94 miles from Fort Campbell, Ky., to Sewart AFB, Tenn., last week, and then flew back to Campbell. Other companies of the 501st Combat Group will make similar road marches. B Co. was greeted at the entrance to Sewart by the 101st Abn. Div. Band playing "When the Saints Go Marching In."

No Wings for Malfunction, He Goes Back to the Farm

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky.—"Please don't make my dog a paratrooper" was the plea of a Ringgold, Tenn., woman whose large red canine had followed the marching paratroopers of B Co., 501st Combat Group, when they passed her farm on the first day of their five-day march. Her letter was addressed to the Sewart Air Force Base commander.

The woman had read a report in a newspaper that one of the troopers, Pvt. Lee R. Kilgore, planned to "jump" the dog in a general purpose bag. She noted with some alarm that the self-appointed mascot of Co. B had been renamed "Malfunction." Small wonder, then, that she requested that her dog be returned to her by less spectacular means.

"We'll send him back by one of the kitchen trucks," company commander Capt. Charles H. Hale said. "We hate to lose him, though. He has been a great morale booster."

On the Blue Band Wagon

WASHINGTON—The Army has added a sixteenth band to the 15 previously authorized to wear the new blue bandsman's uniform. It is CONARC's 50th Army Band.

Changes to the basic circular on who may wear the uniform and how it is to be supplied also provide that the uniform will include a pair of shoulder knots. In overseas areas, when requisitions are filled, a sample uniform will be sent by the Quartermaster General so that local tailors will have an example, as well as the pattern, to follow.

$100-Million Tank Purchase Planned

WASHINGTON.—The Department of the Army last week announced plans to purchase an additional 900 medium tanks in the immediate future for approximately $100-million.

The Army said contract negotiations for procurement of these additional tanks are now under way with all prospective producers.

PICTURES THAT 'SELL'—No. 1

Let Camera Tell the Story, Not Kill It

WHETHER you're shooting pictures for publication or simply for your personal album, you're after results—the best possible.

Good pictures catch an editor's eye, and a good one in the album is a source of lasting pride.

As a help to service photographers, and particularly those taking photos intended for publication, the Times this week is starting a series of pictures showing some of the most common faults, and how to correct them.

There will be no salon art, no one-in-a-life-time shots that fall to the lucky. All will be of typical military activities—presentations, parades, formations, maneuvers or just men at work. They will stick to the routine of service life, the sort of events covered in perhaps 75 percent of the photos reaching the Times' picture desk each week.

But in each case, while the subject matter may be routine, one photo will have that extra something that sets it apart. In most cases, this extra "oomph" will be readily apparent, whether you take pictures or just look at 'em.

THIS series, incidentally, is the work of an Army photographer-writer, MSgt. Edward W. Chabot. He is stationed in Raleigh, N.C., covering the state as a photographer and information supervisor for Headquarters, North Carolina Military District.

His assignments at times include all services, Regular and Reserve, as well as many activities of civilian-military nature. His pictures have appeared in many of the nation's newspapers and magazines, including several in Life.

As Chabot says, "I never miss a chance to snap a picture, military or otherwise."

His experience shows in the first picture examples here, which emphasize a basic rule, "Get with your subject!"

At the end of this series, Chabot will summarize his suggestions to military photographers, telling how he works and how he meets the problems in this specialized field.

MORE FLASHBULBS are popped for this typical military photo—the presentation handshake—than perhaps any other. And above is the usual result. People stiff, grim; unnecessary background, either cluttered or showing a wide expanse of blank wall; and too often including other persons whose only apparent connection with the ceremony is to be "looking on."

HOW MUCH BETTER this photo tells the same story! Someone got an award, someone presented it, and both are relaxed, looking as if the ceremony was a genuine pleasure and not an ordeal. The award and the people directly concerned are the center of interest; there is nothing else in the photo to distract attention. Just a little thought for composition makes all the difference.

1st Bn., 9th Inf. Wins Alaska Ski Firing Run

FORT RICHARDSON, Alaska.—The 1st Bn., 9th Inf., took first place in the second annual U.S. Army Alaska ski firing patrol event Feb. 23 at Ladd Air Force Base.

Fourteen teams were entered but only 11 teams finished the 10-mile run. The teams represented major posts and units throughout Alaska.

Led by 1st Lt. Robert E. Wharrie, platoon leader of Co. A, 9th Inf., the winning patrol made the run in 125 minutes, 30 seconds. Their total score, including 18 misses on the firing range, was 143 minutes, 30 seconds.

Members of Lt. Wharrie's team included SFC Bobby G. Gragg, Co. A, Sgts. Robert J. Griffin and Marvin D. Anderson, both of Co. C, and PFCs Gerald D. Van Beek, Co. D, and Howard Banta, Co. A.

Second place in the event was won by Special Units, 9th Inf., led by 1st Lt. L. W. Oblock, with a total time of 134 minutes, 46 seconds, and a total score of 158 minutes, 46 seconds.

The total score for each group was computed from a combination of the time on the course and the number of misses on each target. For each miss on the silhouette rifle range, a minute was added to the total time.

The third place team, 3d Bn., 9th Inf., had the lowest number of misses on the three ranges with 13. First Lt. E. W. York was the leader of the patrol, which finished the course with a total score of 166 minutes, 40 seconds.

Col. Kenneth G. Pavey, CO of the 9th Inf., received the trophy for the winning regiment at ceremonies following the competition. Team leaders of the top two groups were given engraved plaques, and team members received individual medals.

THE TEAMS MET at Birch Hill Ski Lodge, the starting point, Saturday morning. Each team was briefed by its patrol leader and starting positions were assigned.

The fastest man in each patrol was put in the front of the group as a pace setter.

Each patrol member, including the officer in charge, carried a 15-pound rucksack and a weapon. Team members carried an M1 rifle and the patrol leader, who did not fire, was equipped with a carbine. Packs were weighed before and after the race.

All equipment was marked by officials at the starting point to insure that the same equipment was used throughout the event.

THE RUN BEGAN with a mile-long climb at an angle of from 30 to 45 degrees. From the top of the climb, the patrols went through dense brush for another mile. A sloping downhill run followed.

On this hill the skiers sometimes reached speeds up to 35 miles per hour before the trail ran into brushy terrain. In order to cut speed on the downhill run, some of the skiers placed ski poles between their legs and sat on them. Others angled the tips of their skis together and "snowplowed" down the hill. Several right angle turns were included on the downhill run.

Four check points were placed along the trail to radio the time each patrol passed. The winning team reached the five-mile check point in 55 minutes, 15 seconds.

THE THREE FIRING ranges were located near the finish line. Each patrol member, with the exception of the leader, was issued 24 rounds of clipped ammunition prior to start of the race.

The members fired on silhouette targets ranging from 100 to 300 yards from the firing point. After the firing part of the event, the trail again entered brush and small trees. Timing did not stop until the last member passed over the finish line.

Seven teams from Fort Richardson were entered in the event but failed to take any top place awards. The patrol from the 68th AAA Group did not run as the leader, 2d Lt. James F. Herbert, suffered a broken left arm in practice. Contest rules did not allow an enlisted man to substitute for an officer as patrol leader.

Tests Prove Copter Jump Feasibility

FORT BENNING, Ga.—The feasibility of parachute descents from the H-19 helicopter has been definitely established through a series of tests conducted at Fort Benning by the Infantry School's Airborne-Air Mobility Department.

The experiments concluded last month were under the direction of Capt. Joseph E. Collins, project officer, who termed the operation a complete success.

The project was given to the Benning department after preliminary investigation by military personnel and research scientists at the Army Airborne-Electronic Board at Fort Bragg, N. C., attested to its safety.

With the feasibility of the operation proven on paper, it was the task of the department to test the theory under tactical situations.

IN FULL COMBAT garb, five infantrymen made several test jumps from a 37th Medical (Helicopter) Detachment aircraft, piloted by 1st Lt. Darwin E. Yoran.

Jumping from a sitting position, the parachutists left the helicopter in three-second intervals above the Fryan Drop Zone. At the time of the jump, the aircraft was traveling at about 40 miles an hour at an altitude of 1500 feet.

According to Air Mobility Group officials, these experiments have proved that jumps are practical in combat situations where terrain roughness and other disadvantages may prohibit the helicopter from landing. The tests revealed the value of the H-19 in combat, especially in night operations where jumps are imperative to land personnel with a minimum of noise. The noise of the blades is increased when a helicopter lands.

Orientation jumps from this aircraft are being made to acquaint more members of the department with the operation.

Capt. Collins is assembling the data gained by the experiments and will forward it to the department of the Army in Washington, D. C., for dissemination throughout the armed forces.

PARTICIPATING IN the jumps were Capt. Collins, SFCs William Weekly, and Robert J. Benoit, and Sgts. William E. Davis and George O'Brien.

Benefits Enhance Dix NCO's Prestige

FORT DIX, N. J.—The program to enhance prestige of NCOs here has been bolstered by the announcement that master sergeants and sergeants first class, will no longer be required to carry the armed forces liberty pass when they leave the post.

Post headquarters said these NCOs will need only their DOD identification cards as pass papers during off duty hours in the local area.

Other measures instituted at Dix as part of the prestige program are: (1) bachelor quarters, with housekeeping service, for master sergeants; (2) special training periods for all sergeants, held separately from lower grades; (3) and dining facilities for sergeants, separated from lower grades.

'Hard Times' Exercise Ends at Fort Richardson

FORT RICHARDSON, Alaska—Exercise Hard Times, largest maneuver ever held on Fort Richardson, has ended and troop commanders and the maneuver staff called it a great success.

There was one note of tragedy, coming in the closing hours of the exercise. An Air National Guard Saber jet, flying close support missions for the U. S. forces, crashed at Clunie Lake.

The pilot, Capt. Richard Otto, was killed. First Lt. Thomas E. Suddeth, executive officer of the 12th Tank Co. attached to the Aggressor force, was injured when struck by a piece of flying debris from the crashing plane.

This was the only accident of the six-day winter maneuver.

EXERCISE HARD TIMES got under way when the Aggressor force took to the field. Commanded by Lt. Col. J. A. Findley, commanding officer of the 2d Engineer Bn., the force was made up of the 2d Engineers, (minus one company) the 12th Tank Co., and one company of the 813th Engineer Bn. stationed on Elmendorf. For purposes of the maneuver the force was provided a mock-up of an Honest John rocket and launcher to deliver an atomic punch.

Aggressor moved to the far edge of the military reservation near Clunie Lake.

THE NEXT DAY, a Thursday, U. S. Force was ordered into dispersal positions. Col. Earle L. Lerette, commanding officer of the 23d Inf., had at his disposal the 23d, reinforced by the 37th FA Bn. Btry. B of the 82d AAA Bn. (self-propelled), one company of engineers and a model Honest John.

Friday morning the mock war started in earnest. Aggressor made an "airborne landing" at Campbell airstrip at 0630. The 1st Bn., 23d Inf., reinforced by the 23d Tank Co. and backed up by the entire 37th AFA Bn., and the Honest John firing simulated conventional high explosive, engaged the Aggressor force.

The Infantrymen rode into battle on skis, traveling some 8000 yards cross country skijoring behind tanks. Although the U. S. forces had superior firepower, the battle for Campbell Air Strip lasted until 1500 Friday before Aggressor was overcome.

MEANWHILE Aggressor had attempted another air landing at Otter Lake. This was originally planned as an actual drop, to be made by members of the 553d Quartermaster Co. (Aerial Supply), but the weather closed in at the last minute and the "drop" was made by truck.

The "airborne" Aggressor hit the lake at about 1020 Friday, to find he 3d Battalion, 23d bivouacked all around the lake. The paratroops were picked off as they hit the ground. The abortive attack was over within 30 minutes, the Aggressor force wiped out.

Saturday Aggressor made his major move, this time with more caution. He made a major airborne landing in the vicinity of Birchwood at 0600. U. S. Forces were ordered to defend the Eagle River line, and, since Aggressor had an atomic capability and was therefore stronger than the U. S. Force, Col. Lerette was given provisional battalions from Fort Richardson and the U. S. Army General Depot, Alaska.

The provisional battalions were turned over to the U. S. force at 0800 Saturday, and were on the move almost immediately. The General Depot battalion was moved into the center of the line.

The Fort Richardson battalion, under the command of Lt. Col. George R. Cole, deputy post commander, took up a blocking position.

Faced with this beefed up U. S. force in strong positions, Aggressor brought his atomic weapon into play on Sunday. He had only one shot allowed him, and he placed it carefully. It took out a good deal of the U. S. force headquarters and staff, and elements of the reserve battalion.

SUNDAY TOO, Aggressor tried another small airborne landing behind the U. S. force defensive line. The 553d Quartermaster Paratroopers floated down onto the Fort Richardson golf course to find themselves caught between the fires of self-propelled AA guns of the 82d AAA Bn., and the rifles of H&H Co., 1st Bn., 23d Inf. The rest of the battalion quickly joined the fight, and the Aggressor force was quickly wiped out.

By early Monday Aggressor had destroyed the bridge across the Eagle River in the flats near the Knick Arm, the highway bridge had been destroyed earlier by atomics and the Aggressor had moved his major forces in from the Birchwood area to a strong line on the heights overlooking the river.

But U. S. forces had been given two atomic warheads for their Honest John, and they used them early

Monday. At 0445 the two missiles were thrown against Aggressor at 30-second intervals. Ninety-five per cent of one Aggressor battalion was destroyed, 75 per cent of the adjoining battalion. Fifteen minutes after the blasts the U. S. forces kicked off in a three-pronged attack, two of the task forces reinforced with armor. The depleted Aggressor was quickly overcome, and the "war" ended about 1500 Monday.

Lt. Col. Findley, Aggressor commander, said it was one of the best training exercises he had ever been on, and his men played Aggressor with abandon.

WIN $30,000 "SPOT" CASH CONTEST

First Prize . . . $1500
Second Prize . . $500
Five Prizes . . . $50 each
Ten Prizes . . . $25 each
250 Prizes . . . $10 each

Now win $$$ in a field you know more about than anyone else—you've studied aircraft recognition. Now put that knowledge to work. "Spot" planes for "spot" cash in Lever's new $30,000 contest.

Wives! Get your husband and youngsters in on this contest. Make it a family game. Pool your skills—Win spot cash.

GIVEN AWAY EVERY MONTH FOR SIX MONTHS
OVER 1600 CASH PRIZES

FOLLOW THESE EASY RULES:

1. Match up plane silhouettes with names from the list given.

2. Send in as many entries each month as you wish together with your name and address. Use entry blank given below or a plain sheet of paper. Attach to each entry blank the box top, label, or can serial number from any three different Lever products, shown or listed below, that you have purchased at your exchange or commissary.

3. Entries for third contest must be postmarked no later than April 5, 1957 and received no later than April 15, 1957. There will be another contest each month for three months.

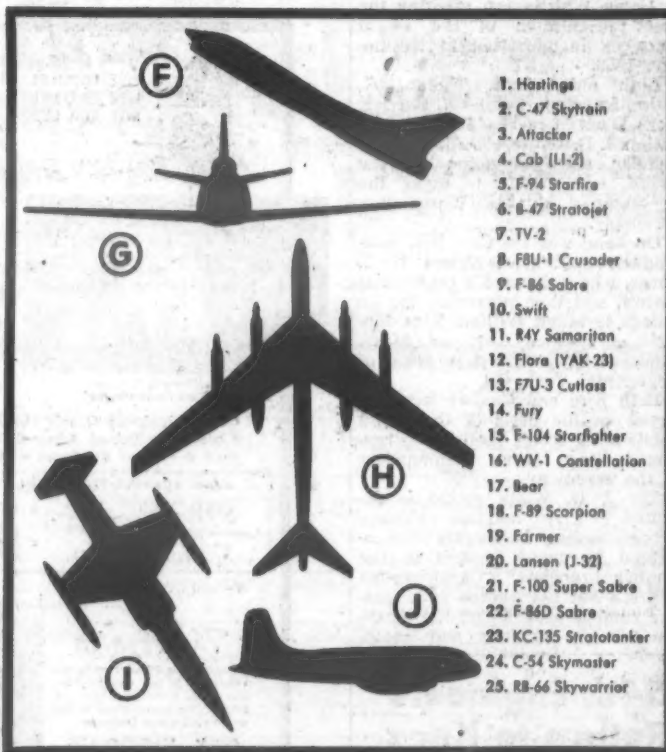

4. Contest is open to all members of the Armed Forces, their families, and all persons holding PX or Commissary Cards. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the number of planes correctly identified.

In the event of ties, entrants will be asked to submit a 25-word statement on the importance of plane spotting. Such statements would be judged on their originality and aptness. Should a tie still exist, duplicate prizes would be awarded.

5. Judges' decision will be final. Contest subject to all Federal and State regulations. Winners will be notified by mail.

Two 8th Cav. Captains Win 'Combat Leaders Award'

CARRIER

TOKYO. — Two Army captains, both former company commanders in the 8th Cav. Regt. were given the Gen. I. D. White "Combat Leaders Award" in ceremonies staged at Camp Whittington marking the first presentation of the award since its inauguration in November, 1956.

Both men, Capt. Thomas G. Quinn and Capt. Roland R. Carrier, were honored in absentia.

Gen. I. D. White, AFCE/8A commander and originator of the award, was unable to make the presentation at the Whittington ceremony.

On hand was 1st Cav. Div. commander, Maj. Gen. Edwin H. J. Carns, who witnessed a regimental review, and then presented the citations to MSgt. William Kim, topkick of Service Co., and MSgt. James C. Goelzer, first sergeant of Regimental Tank Co.

Both Kim and Goelzer were selected on the basis of their own outstanding troop qualities to represent their former commanders at the ceremony.

The I. D. White award is designed to give "tangible evidence of outstanding leadership demonstrated by troop leaders in the combat branches." Consideration is given but not limited to a leader's combat proficiency, the condition of his facilities and equip-

54th Engineers Return to Knox

FORT KNOX, Ky. — The 54th Eng. Bn. (Combat), a unit that saw action in two World Wars, is scheduled to move here next month after Gyroscopic duty in Germany. The battalion is presently commanded by Lt. Col. Frank A. Gleason, Jr., and is expected to report here on April 22.

It was first organized as the 42nd Eng. Bn. on Dec. 7, 1917 and redesignated the 20th Eng. Regt. the next day. The unit saw action in France during War I and in 1919 was demobilized.

Reactivated in 1940, the unit joined in landings in Africa, Sicily, and Normandy. The group also was used as infantry reinforcement in the Ardennes breakthrough in December, 1944.

ment, and the morale and aggressiveness of his command.

Capt. Thomas G. Quinn was cited for his leadership during the period April, 1954, to January, 1957. He came to the Far East in January 1954 and became Tank Co. commander in April that same year. Last month he returned to the United States for assignment to Fort Knox, Ky.

Capt. Roland R. Carrier received his award for the period March through December, 1956. He arrived in Japan in March, 1956, and was commanding officer of Service Co. prior to his rotation to the United States in December, 1956. His new assignment is recruiting officer, Butte, Montana.

YOU can't blame a guy for trying, especially SP3 William Favio of Fort Riley's 58th Med. Bn. Tired of getting down on his hands and knees to polish the floors of his unit, he suggested the idea of a remote control floor polisher and "Mechanics Illustrated" bought it for its "Inventions Wanted" column in the March issue. The Army, however, still remains noncommittal on the matter.

Once there was three fellows from Missouri named Charles. They later served at Fort Leavenworth as corporals. After serving a tour overseas, the trio returned to Fort Carson. This time as captains assigned to 2d Bn., 60th Inf. Regt.

There's one man in the Army who doesn't have to depend on friends for mail. He's Pvt. Gerald Hommel of the 47th Inf. Regt., Fort Carson, who has nine brothers and eight sisters . . . and plenty of mail. All his brothers have served in the armed forces, but his dad, according to Gerald, was "too busy building an Army to serve in one."

Pvt. Gerald Dellasandro of the 82d Abn. Div. Band, Fort Bragg, is a serious musician who holds a masters degree in music and has taught at the Cleveland Institute of Music. Prior to his induction, his students in something called a psycho-music program included schizophrenics, and Dellasandro was credited with hastening their mental improvement.

Schofield Barracks' PIO sleuths don't stop at a Rip Van Winkle, either. They've also unearthed a fruit "investigator" named WO Dick Tracy of the 25th DivArty's food service.

Have you ever wondered what happened to him? Last reports place MSgt. Rip Van Winkle (honest) as operations sergeant, 25th DivArty Hq., Schofield Barracks. A veteran of ETO and Korean combat, this Rip once participated in sustained action for 30 hours . . . and didn't doze once.

SP3 Clifton Taylor's letter on "My Vote-Freedoms Privilege" entered in the fourth annual letter writing contest sponsored by Freedom Foundation, won third place and a $100 check. In the 1955 letter writing competition the Fort MacArthur soldier was awarded the George Washington Medal and $100.

The last word in hospitality describes the gesture of six soldiers from Btry. D, 865th AAA Missile Bn., in Torrance, Calif. When a civilian attending an open house on the AAA site mentioned the fact that his brother, a patient at Harbor Memorial Hospital, needed blood, the six men provided it in the necessary amount.

A hopeful, but badly-informed Missouri electrician was a little late—about 16 years behind the times—when he wrote a letter to Fort Bliss asking for a job. He addressed the letter to the "CCC Camp," an outfit that went out of business around 1941.

"Wide, Wide World," a NBC television network production placed its mobile cameras on location at the White Sands Proving Ground site on March 3 for its live pickup of the Army's newest missiles in action.

There's a private at Fort Carson who's just Blaine Buffalo-head, a basic trainee in the 47th Inf. Regt. His buddies call him "Nickel" for short and "Stretch" when he's on the basketball court.

HOW DO YOU GROW AT ARMA?

Through diversification!

In our recent advertisements, we spoke of the growth opportunities offered by Arma. Almost immediately, perceptive engineers began writing us, asking for more information.

"How does an engineer grow at Arma—precisely?"

Our answer, in a word, is diversification. Arma offers one of the broadest programs of work diversification in the electronics field.

At Arma, an engineer follows a project from original design, right through final production. As a result, our engineers and scientists are exposed to many activities not usually found under one roof—areas into which they can grow, as their abilities and interests lead them.

Here are some of the areas—69 examples—in which Arma concentrates its efforts in:

MISSILE CONTROLS & GUIDANCE and FIRE CONTROL

Too Good for the Troops?

CONSIDERING the size of the defense budget, the average American might be hard to convince that most agents acting for the armed forces haven't maxed out in plenty to toss about with both fists. So when one of these agents comes around with hat in hand instead of a bankroll, perhaps it is not surprising that he should be met with the cold shoulder and the steely eye.

Such is the plight of Lt. Col. Mel Williamson, a "beggar" on behalf of servicemen stationed overseas.

As radio-television chief in the office of the Defense Secretary, Colonel Williamson is in charge of the 18 low-power TV stations the armed forces have set up in far parts of the world. Servicemen stationed in places like Thule in Greenland have little contact with the world they knew and the chance to watch some television shows has been a godsend to them.

The shows have to be on film, so Colonel Williamson asks the advertisers, net works and producers to lend him their kinescope recordings and films when they have no further commercial use for them. Most advertisers, who sponsor 154 of the 181 programs the armed forces would like to telecast on their stations, have granted permission for their shows to be used. Including commercials.

But at that point the colonel has to start begging. He has to get the actual film from the networks and the producers. And it isn't easy.

Here's what one big producer told Williamson in this connection, according to a recent interview carried by "TV Guide":

"Don't give me that stuff about Thule. The war's over. The Armed Forces pay for trucks; let 'em pay for film, too."

Unfortunately (and strange though it may seem, Mr. Wilson), the colonel has no budget for film. So he argues with the owners to this effect: after a kinescope recording, or an extra print of a film show, has served its purpose, it is of no use to anyone BUT the armed forces.

The result has been disappointing.

"I've watched them destroy 30 to 40 prints of a show I'd been begging for," he said. "I've been told by a network that there were no prints available of a show I wanted, and then heard one of the people who work on it admit there was a packing case full of prints in his office. I couldn't get one of them."

The picture has not been a uniform black. Desi Arnaz goes out of his way to provide prints of "I Love Lucy", "December Bride" and other shows he produces. The American Tobacco Co. makes a special kinescope recording of "Your Hit Parade" so that troops overseas can see the show promptly.

During one recent week, the radio-TV branch received just over a third of the 154 shows that had been cleared by advertisers. In the long run, this meant that troops in remote parts of Alaska (for example) wound up with only six hours of new material that week.

As Williamson put it: "Obviously, money would cure all our ills, but it seems sort of odd to have to pay for something that is going to be destroyed, as in the case of kines, or a print that has already seen its full life expectancy."

"Sort of odd" is an understatement.

Medical Center Decision

REDEVELOPMENT plans shaping up in Washington are forcing a decision as to whether the National Medical Library and the Armed Forces Medical Museum shall be relocated in the nation's capital or moved to another city. Several are interested in having them.

The library was established by the Army Surgeon General in 1836 and has come to be the largest library of its kind in the world, containing over a million volumes. The museum was established in 1863 and has grown until today it contains the largest collection of human pathological material in the country.

We believe that these two venerable national institutions should remain in Washington. They originated there and are most convenient to the public and to medical men interested in research.

Artillery Insignia

CAMP HANFORD, Wash.: Re the new artillery insignia recently shown in Army Times.

The officers of this battalion (and we are one of the oldest missile battalions around) do not like the looks of it.

In November 1956 I sent a proposed insignia (conceived by me, executed by Lt. Lucien R. Downing of this battalion) through AAA channels for consideration. No word on it, but we here believe that it not only looks better, but tells the story better, too. I am enclosing a copy. (See cut.)

You'll note that the insignia printed in Army Times does not lend itself to application of unit designation, while ours does.

Perhaps we can get more people interested in this and come up with a more pleasing solution. Maj. WERNER S. KOHLHAGEN, Comdg., 83d AAA Missile Bn. (Nike)

11th's History

FORT BRAGG, N. C.: Reference is made to the story on page 25 of your 16 February issue, titled "11th Cavalry Back in Europe," which said in part: "Their first tour of duty here was in the summer and fall of 1948."

Just to set the new personnel of the PTO section, 11th A/C on the right track, the following information is provided:

The 11th U.S. Zonal Constabulary Regiment and one of its squadrons, the 25th U.S. Zonal Constabulary Squadron (now known as the 1st Bn., 11th A/C and during War II as the 25th U.S. Mechanized Cavalry Squadron until its redesignation in July 1946 as a constabulary organization) moved from Regensburg to Straubing, Germany, in the spring of 1947, after very nearly freezing to death during the winter of 1946-47.

The two units "liberated" the "Fliegerhorst" in Straubing from the Army Air Corps, which had been using it as a fighter base. They then remained at that station until they were redesignated the 6th A/C and 1st Bn., 6th A/C, respectively, in the autumn of 1948.

In reference to the story's mention that all sentry duties then were performed on horseback—oh, my aching dog! Actually, sentry posts for the area of the "Flugplatz" were all walking posts, except for the train gate and the main gate, which were stationary posts. These were supplemented by either a jeep or horse patrol for the outer perimeter of the airfield. Occupation patrols were pulled on foot, in jeeps, on horseback or in M4 armored cars . . . I am taking the liberty of en-

Weighty Straws

CAMP HANFORD, Wash.: Very interesting statement by Rep. Harrison to the Citizens Committee delegates as quoted in Army Times February 16 issue: ". . . the Russians will get us unless the military continues its vital military and secret operations of moving picture studios, ice cream plants, tree and garden nurseries, dental repair shops, clothing factories, coffee-roasting plants, and jewelry repair shops."

This could be true!

Here are a few of the actions that I have experienced that are indirect pay cuts to the serviceman:

Payment of income taxes. Social Security (I understand that after the age of 65 if I am gainfully employed and earn over $100 per month I cannot collect Social Security).

No free insurance. No dependent dental treatment. Pet treatments abolished. Etc., etc., etc.

These "straws" are getting high on this camel's back and continuance of these cuts gradually making it financially more difficult for me to remain in the service.

Loss of experienced service personnel in this way could make this "cutting statement" a true one.

Who Should Get The Supergrades?

by MONTE BOURJAILY Jr.

"THE man who makes this outfit go," the captain in the Nike battalion said, "is not the sergeant major. It's the operations sergeant. He's the one who should get E-9 if the new grade structure is approved."

"My first sergeant is an 'old Army' man," the missile battery commander said. "He knows how to run a battery but it's my fire control team chief who is the key noncom. He should get an E-8."

The same type of comment is coming in from ordnance automotive maintenance units which want the shop foreman to have the highest grade, and from outfits of many kinds, where the man who provides technical leadership is being recommended for the top ratings.

Bourjaily

I was in a signal operations company in War II. Its first sergeant, when I joined the outfit, was a man who could do every job the unit had to do. What's more he did them.

If wire was to be strung, he went up the tree 40 feet to raise it above a building or over a road. The linemen in the company strung the wire at normal 15 or 20-foot heights.

If a hot line had to be connected in so that operations weren't interrupted, the first sergeant did the job. Where there was danger, the first sergeant took the lead.

He also kept the job sheets. He assigned projects for platoons and sections. He scheduled the time for job completions. If there was a slowdown, he came out to find the trouble and stayed to help if necessary.

The man was also the best turned-out soldier in the outfit. He wore his uniform proudly. He kept it clean, neat and in repair. And he did it himself, even when there were days of rain (in Germany in the spring of 1945) and mud and we were on the move, pulling into location at night after road marches of 50, 75 and 100 miles.

In addition, he checked the morning report that the company clerk filled out, helped individuals with personal problems and left the company commander alone to supervise, plan, and to keep up with what battalion headquarters wanted.

ONE ICY DAY, the first sergeant slipped on the roof of a building, fell and broke his leg. The company clerk became his replacement.

The company didn't exactly fall apart. The platoon sergeants kept things going. But the hours became longer. The officers were tied up in routine and details with which they weren't familiar.

This first sergeant, who was, I think, the best soldier I've ever served with, was not a career soldier. He'd been drafted in 1939 or 1940. He was not yet 30.

But here's the point—In 1957 he could do the job of the operations sergeants, or the chief of the motor repair shop, or the fire control team chief. He had been a technician, not an administrator, before he became first sergeant. And he was also the first soldier in his company.

THE FIRST SERGEANT of a missile unit has to be more than a paper-pusher. He's got to know the jobs in the unit from fueling to firing the bird. And he's got to earn and hold the respect of the men whom he leads.

The captain who wanted his operations sergeant to get grade E-9 was right that, as the leading noncom in the unit, the man should receive the highest rating. But that same man should be not the operations sergeants but the battalion sergeant major.

This is what seems to be so hard for both commanders and sergeants to understand. In an ordnance outfit, the top noncom must know the unit's jobs—all of them. And the man who qualifies must hold the top position—first sergeant or sergeant major.

In doing his job, he should be able to put to use his knowledge in the technical as well as the administrative fields.

AS THE NUMBER of specialists and technicians in the Army increases, these men must have as their enlisted leader one whom they can respect. The first sergeant and the sergeant major in units where this type of individual predominates must come from among them.

The old timers who haven't kept up also have their place in such units. They know close order drill; let them train the unit in that. But don't make them the unit's first soldier. They know regulations and administration. Make them personnel sergeants. But don't make them sergeants major.

Motor sergeants and operations sergeants have complained that they are being left out or overlooked in the proposal to make first sergeants and sergeants major E-8's and E-9's. This is not true.

The jobs will be open. In a five-year period they will be filled by qualified men—who must come from the fields in which their units operate. And then they must work to make their jobs such that their know-how will be used. That's part of what they will get the extra for.

MEANWHILE, the Army knows there are others besides sergeants major and first sergeant who deserve more rank. Enlisted unit advisers, operations sergeants, chief recruiters, and many other jobs can be so rated. They will be. But no such rating of jobs is likely to be done until, and unless, the new grades are authorized by Congress.

The job of examining 50,000 master sergeant positions to see which should be upgraded is too time-consuming to warrant doing it simply as an exercise.

Promotion to E-8 or E-9 shouldn't limit a man's assignment opportunity solely to being a first sergeant or sergeant major. This too is recognized. There are barely 1000 sergeants major in the Army. But there will probably be four times that many E-9 ratings.

With E-3 the lowest rating, for all practical purposes addition of two grades at the top will restore to the enlisted grade structure the seven grades it once had. That's part of the program.

It also calls for reviewing jobs that might deserve a higher rating and defining the jobs so that the right kind of men get them.

This is an idealistic program which can work. But it will work only if officers and men alike understand it and try to make it work.

Composer

CONDUCTING the Army Field Band in a presentation of his own composition this weekend was Capt. Samuel Loboda, assistant leader of the U.S. Army Band. The concert, presented during the annual convention of the American Bandmasters Association, was given at Carnegie Hall and the Syria Mosque in Pittsburgh. The original composition is titled "Dharma," a piece of oriental mysticism and introspection.

Army Suggests Fewer Visitor Ceremonies

WASHINGTON.—The Army appeared to be discouraging the practice of rendering ceremonial honors to visiting dignitaries at its military posts in Changes 4 to AR 600-25, issued last week. But though this is the intent, the wording is such as to leave the matter open. "All visitors are encouraged to decline routine honors unless the ceremony serves a useful purpose," says the regulation now.

Officials from Department of the Army will notify "the field commander that ceremonies will be dispensed with unless for compelling reasons they are desirable."

This language seems clear. But . . .

"If, however, notification of the impending visit omits a request to dispense with ceremonies, the field commander will accord the visitor the honors prescribed in these regulations."

Tests Will Gauge Men's 'Know-How'

The tests will differ from those given in schools. These latter test a man's knowledge of what he has studied. The proficiency tests are supposed to test his know-how about his job.

Some of the tests will be written. Others will be performance type with the man tested being required to do some part of his job.

Tests will rate not only technical know-how but also leadership, in the case of noncoms.

ARMY OFFICIALS said that they were aware that the ability to score high in a test of how well a man can do his job is not the only factor important in deciding a man's grade or assignment.

The opinion of the man's CO, his character, his motivation in choosing military service and for the job he's working in, his willingness to work as a "team member" and his seniority—all these must carry some weight, along with his MOS proficiency; in taking various personnel actions.

The test program itself must have a high degree of flexibility to meet the various demands for a test, and to meet the needs of military service and the Army in using the tests developed.

A PAMPHLET telling some of the thinking behind the new test program has been put out for distribution to one in every 18 enlisted men. This distribution is now taking place.

The pamphlet points out that tests will be of several kinds, that the uses to which the results will be put will be developed as they are used, and that the tests themselves will be modified as experience shows a need.

Men taking the tests will be told how they score. From this they will be able to learn what areas they are weak in, and how to improve themselves in other ways to develop professionally.

TESTS will be given at as low a level as possible. This may be at the unit level in some instances, at installation level in others. Each test will be administered on an individual basis. Announcement of a test will be made some months before the actual date, the Army said.

Tests which may be taken voluntarily can be used by men to find out whether they are qualified in an MOS once held but now secondary, or even to qualify for a transfer to another field entirely.

But those who may take a test will often be limited to certain grades. In other cases they may be given to find out if men are qualified in a school MOS in which they've never served, in a duty MOS for which they aren't trained, or in their primary MOS in which they have not been serving.

Army Tries Again to Give RO's Better Training

WASHINGTON—Army attempts to give enlisted men who hold reserve commissions a chance to take some kind of training as officers in order to maintain or increase their capabilities have run into an inter-service road block.

The Army last year drafted a proposed law to permit "dual status" training. Objections from other services, mainly the Air Force, prevented its submission to Congress.

The proposed law was re-submitted this year. It was again objected to. The Army has now gone back again in an attempt to give its 5000 to 7000 RO's a better chance at building a record on which reserve promotions, possible call to active duty, and wider training opportunity can be based.

The law the Army is asking for would give the service secretaries the right, within limits, to prescribe by regulation how an enlisted man could retain his permanent enlisted status while serving temporarily in his officer grade for training purposes.

This authority, as the Army sees it, would be used mainly to send individuals to school. There is considerable reluctance to use it for active duty for training or for unit training purposes.

In other words, men would not be able to join a reserve unit and draw drill pay, or the difference between commissioned and enlisted pay, for the night's training. Likewise, for different reasons, a man would not take off his enlisted uniform, put on an officer's uniform, and go on duty for two weeks' summer training.

Meanwhile, officials said, the best an RO can do now is to take whatever correspondence courses are open to him and be sure that credit for their completion appears on his records maintained at Department of the Army. This, plus the new efficiency rating for RO's which has gone into effect, is better than nothing when it comes time for the man to be considered for promotion.

Four Generals Get New Posts; Barriger Retires

WASHINGTON—The announcement of four new assignments of general officers and retirement of another general officer was made last week by Secretary of Army Wilber M. Brucker.

Brig. Gen. Sam F. Seeley, CG, Valley Forge Army Hospital, Pa., has been assigned to the office of The Surgeon General, Wash. D. C. He will report to his new post April 1.

Brig. Gen. Louis H. Ginn, Jr., surgeon, Fourth Army, Fort Sam Houston, has been assigned to Hq., William Beaumont Army Hospital, Texas. He will report to this post May 1.

BRIG. GEN. Joseph M. Colby, CG of Frankford Arsenal, Pa., has been assigned to the Ordnance Ammunition Command, Joliet, Ill. He will report to his new post in May.

Maj. Gen. C. Stanton Babcock, CG, 2d Armd. Div., since July, 1955, will succeed Maj. Gen. Cornelius E. Ryan as chief, Military Assistance Advisory Group, France, effective in June.

Maj. Gen. William L. Barriger, whose last assignment was as senior Army member, weapons systems evaluation group, office of the Secretary of Defense, was retired from the Army on Feb. 28 following 38 years service.

Letters to the Editor

being done in the present Congress to correct the injustice enacted by Title II of PL 810.

As brought out in your editorial, a Regular or Reserve officer on active duty may become eligible for retirement after finishing 20 years of active duty. Then, if he served for at least six months on active duty in a higher grade than the one in which he is retiring, he is automatically advanced to the higher grade.

The injustice, as you pointed out, is that an enlisted man who has served as an officer for six months, but less than 10 years, who wishes to retire after 20 years' service must wait on the retired list for a period of 10 years before he can be advanced to the highest grade held as a commissioned officer.

Why the 10-year waiting period is imposed on enlisted men and none for an officer is beyond my comprehension.

Perhaps those who are affected, and are interested, could assist in bringing about a correction of Title II, PL 810, during this present session of Congress by writing to their congressmen pointing out the injustice of the present law.

Cordiner Comment

SACRAMENTO SIGNAL DEPT., Calif.: If there was ever a time when military personnel should let their representatives in Washington know their feelings it is now.

The Cordiner Committee pay recommendations are a serious blow to the future pay, both active and retired, of enlisted men and officers below the grade of colonel, except that all warrant officers would benefit.

Eliminating longevity pay and substituting in-grade pay steps has merit but it is a long range pay cut as now recommended.

Space is too limited to go into detail, but anyone can take a pay table (AR 35-1310) and retired pay table (AR 35-1311) and compare it with Army Times' Cordiner Committee pay table and see how it will affect him over the long pull. Keeping in mind the present years in-grade before promotion and retired pay after 20 years for lower grades and 26 years for lieutenant colonel without in-grade pay steps.

Nurse Bill Is Delayed

WASHINGTON—Defense's nurse career bill probably will not be taken up by the Senate Armed Services committee for three or four weeks, it has been learned.

The measure, HR 2460, passed the House last week.

Most service nurses could expect to reach major or lieutenant commander during the course of their careers if the act finally becomes law.

While the Senate committee is delaying consideration because of other business, none of its members has expressed opposition to the measure.

Under the bill, Nurse Corps captains (lieutenants) would be eligible for promotion to major (lieutenant commander) after 14 years service, if fully qualified.

Promotions to lieutenant colonel (commander) remain on a best qualified basis—after 21 years' service.

The measure could mean increased retired pay for some nurses, for it would allow them to count all service creditable for pay purposes in figuring retired pay. Now they can count only active federal service.

Of interest to collectors may be a note Army Times received recently from SFC James L. Spole, who is stationed in Europe with Co. A, 3d Armored Cav. He listed "some places where a guy can get patches, and patch information." Here they are:

Book, "Insignia and Decoration of the Armed Forces," published by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D.C. Costs $1.

Book, "Trading Post," published every two months by the American Society of Military Insignia Collectors. Includes names of collectors and info on how to obtain insignia.

Book, "Insignias of the Armed Forces, U.S. and Foreign," published by The Patch King, PO Box 101, Madison Square Sta., N.Y. 10. Has price list and contains every conceivable patch from Hitler's bodyguards to the Chinese Aviation Cadets'. Price list and catalogue, 35 cents.

"Hearsin' Around With Tradition." It seems as though one tradition after the other has fallen at the flick of the pen in some comptroller's office, until one more doesn't seem to make much difference for discussion purposes.

Another way of looking at the result of this and other penny-pinching action which destroys the pride of our armed forces might be the remarks: "Well, my 20 is up in another year," or "When this hitch is up they can have my 16."

Gunpowder and flag poles cost money. What is next? Retirement? B.J.M., B.C.C., D.B.H., F.L.B., B.L.B., O.H., L.N.G., and W.J.H.

MONTEREY, Calif.: In your February 9 issue, I found an error in the book review titled "Last Great Running Sea Battle," by John M. Virden.

In the second paragraph of the review, Mr. Virden mentions the three British ships that chased the German pocket battleship "Admiral Graf Spee" into Montevideo Harbor, Uruguay. These British ships were cruisers, not destroyers as reported in the review.

More specifically, the ships were: the light cruiser H.M.S. "Ajax" 7,000 tons and 8-6" guns, the light cruiser H.M.S. "Achilles" 7,000 tons and 8-6" guns, the heavy cruiser H.M.S. "Exeter" 8,400 tons and 6-8" guns.

The German pocket battleship, Graf Spee, and the other two ships in her class were masterpieces of naval architecture and engineering. The "Graf Spee" displaced 10,000 tons and her armament consisted of 8-11" guns as the main battery, 5-5-9" guns as the second battery. She had a top speed of 36 knots and a fantastic 20,000-mile cruising radius.

Russia's Troubles at Home Could Drive Her to War

By GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT

We are now entering the most dangerous period of the cold war. It is dangerous because of two things that are happening at the same time:

(1) The Soviet Government is in deep trouble within its own borders and with its satellite states;

(2) New and very powerful weapons, against which defense is not yet well developed, are coming into its possession.

New weapons can affect our security in two distinct ways: as to their actual military value in war and as to the effect which their existence may have on Soviet top-level thinking and action.

New weapons in our hands tend to have an encouraging effect. Both effects are not necessarily based on what the weapons can actually do, but rather on what the Soviet leaders think they can do. We must remember, of course, there is no actual war experience to guide us in judging what to expect in war of an H-bomb or a long-range guided missile, or even of intercontinental bombing with piloted aircraft.

There is a dangerous margin here for wishful thinking.

A DISTINGUISHED British air commander, Marshal of the Royal Air Force Sir John Slessor, writes in his new book, "The Central Blue": "The moment for us to be really nervous and look to our most would be if a potential aggressor suddenly produced an aircraft or even some vital article of armament, far superior to anything in production on our side of the Iron Curtain."

For anything like that to happen from now on will be particularly dangerous, because of Soviet domestic and satellite troubles. The more threatening their troubles become, the greater will be their temptation to exaggerate the potential of any new weapon—to dwell upon the thought of how splendid it would be if they could just knock us out without paying too heavy a price, after which they would have plenty of time to deal with their home problems.

Wishful thinking on this order of magnitude may well harden into conviction—and determination to take a chance of winning a war rather than face the consequences of a crumbling home front. These consequences, as far as the present Soviet leadership is concerned, almost certainly include the cutting of their personal throats.

Therefore it is vitally important to us that we should not only keep as far in advance as possible in the development of new weapons (such as long-range missiles) and, if possible, seek to limit the development of space-flying missiles and bring them under international control, but also that we should get ahead with defensive measures against all present and foreseeable forms of attack.

SOVIET PLANNERS, however desperate, are not likely to launch attacks which have small chance of effecting a knockout blow. It is not only useless, it is dangerous to stab a man in the back, however well-tempered the knife, if you know he is wearing a shirt of chain mail under his coat.

Our defensive measures therefore bear directly on the problem of deterring the Soviets from launching a war to get out of their domestic tribulations. Even the quality of our civil defense has its place among these deterrent considerations.

All this has to be considered on a comparative basis. If they have a knockout weapon which we don't have, or if they are in better position to defend themselves against our knockout weapons than we are against theirs, the balance is weighted on the side of war to the degree that these differences exist—or rather, are believed to exist in Soviet minds.

There is one grim psychological difference between their viewpoint and ours which must also be remembered: We want peace, security and freedom from fear; they want world domination. We

No More Lost Keys

THE KEY to building No. 1329 at Brooke Army Medical Center, Fort Sam Houston, Tex., hasn't been misplaced recently—and there is good reason for it. MSgt. Warren L. Strawn, an instructor at the medical training center, got tired of losing keys so he had them attached to two-foot lengths of 2x4s. Pvt. Isaac J. Teich, above, had no trouble finding the key to the classroom.

would count their destruction very dearly bought at the price of a million American lives and a dozen of our cities reduced to radioactive cinders. They might well be satisfied to be the undisputed rulers of a maimed and atom-torn world.

Therefore we need to be sure of our margin of superiority in weapons power and in defensive capability—margins that must be the greater because we are unwilling to run risks which they might accept. If we hold our present lead in long-range missiles, for example, we will not use it except as a deterrent, unless we are attacked. If they were to gain such a lead, we would be in daily and hourly peril.

Perfect Safety Mark Scored by AAA Unit

ANDREWS AB BASE, Md.—The 601st AAA Gun Bn., at Andrews wound up the last quarter of 1956 with an accident-free record.

This record is in sharp contrast to the high incidence of accidents which have occurred in the area the 601st is based—Prince Georges County, Md.

SECOND OF A SERIES

How's Housing at Your Next Post?

THIS is the second article in a series of housing surveys conducted by Army Times.

Information which follows was supplied by post billeting and information officers in February. Readers should remember that conditions may change rapidly in many areas, particularly around universities, vacation resorts and places where large troop movements take place.

Posts appear in alphabetical order. More next week.

Dugway Proving Ground, Utah

TWO and three bedroom Wherry apartments are available immediately in Dugway's 400 unit Wherry project. One bedroom apartments, however, are filled and have a six months waiting list.

There are 44 sets of NCO government quarters. The waiting period for these depends on rank, date of rank and date of arrival at Dugway. The post also has two sets of generals' quarters and three sub-standard temporary quarters.

Most of the soldier families living off the post live in Toele, Utah, about 40 miles away. One and two bedroom apartments are available immediately, at reasonable prices. Three bedroom rentals are "not usually available."

An additional 27 families live in privately owned trailers in the government trailer court.

Applications for a Wherry unit are available by mail. Wherry rents are about $55 for one bedroom, $72 to $82 for two bedrooms and $98 to $101 for three bedrooms. These rents include stove, refrigerator, garage, water, sewage disposal, garbage collection, fire protection, street maintenance, snow removal and taxes. Occupants must pay for their own electricity and heat.

Fitzsimon AH, Denver, Colo.

WHERRY housing is available here within three months, during which it is recommended that newcomers leave their furnishings in storage. There are 98 Wherry units for officers, 99 for EM.

Rents on these units are: $79.50 for an officer's one bedroom basement apartment; $90 for an officer's two bedroom apartment; $101 to $111.50 for a three bedroom unit. Enlisted men pay $63 a month for two bedrooms, $89 for three bedrooms.

There are 80 sets of government quarters for officers (with a waiting list) and 74 sets of quarters for EM. These furnished quarters have a year-long waiting list, while unfurnished units are available in about four months.

About 350 soldier families live in the Denver area, where housing is plentiful. One bedroom apartments cost from $45 to $75 a month in Denver. Two bedroom units start at around $75 a month; three bedroom apartments and homes cost between $100 and $150.

The hospital has no trailer facilities, but there are plenty of trailer spaces in the vicinity.

The hospital has an information letter and Wherry housing application for men assigned to Fitzsimons. There is one guest house for the use of people visiting patients at the hospital.

Granite City Engineer Depot, Ill.

TWELVE officers are moving into new quarters now, six enlisted men will get new quarters during March and 28 more EM will move into new quarters next June. This should brighten the housing picture at the depot, where about 200 soldier families live in Granite City, Madison, Edwardsville, Collinsville and Woodriver, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo.

An additional 65 units of Capehart housing are in the planning stage, with completion date set (it is hoped) for 1958.

The depot does not have a guest house, although a living room and bedroom are available in the BOQ for arriving and departing officers, VIPs and guests of officers. There are no temporary quarters for EM.

The depot's daily bulletin runs lists of civilian-owned rentals in the area, but there is no organization which provides advance information to soldiers about to transfer to Granite City.

Fort Worth General Depot, Tex.

If you are being assigned to the Fort Worth General Depot, you can get some of the answers to your housing questions from the adjutant there. The post only has four sets of quarters, and all of them are occupied by officers now.

Most of the soldiers assigned here live in a Wherry unit. Housing in and around Fort Worth is available immediately. Prices start at $50 a month for one bedroom apartments and go up to about $95 monthly. Two bedroom prices start at $80 and range up to about $100. Three bedroom units start at around $90.

The depot has no trailer spaces, but there is a trailer park within one mile of the post. There are no guest houses—all temporary visits must be made in commercial facilities.

Fort Gordon, Ga.

"THE on post housing," says the PIO, "is made up of apartments constructed in rehabilitated barracks and it is not the best type of housing; however, they are clean and in reasonably good condition for the type of buildings they are."

And he adds: "Persons expecting to be assigned to Gordon should write to the post housing office if they desire on post quarters, and should stop in at the post housing office, building number 34419, at 34th St. and 5th Ave., or call Fort Gordon 86142."

The pot quarters accommodate the families of 35 officers and 149 enlisted men. There are no Wherry or Capehart units yet, but the post hopes to get 480 Capeharts by next year. Also by next year, the Army hopes to have 25 sets of new quarters for field grade and general officers.

More than 2500 soldiers live with their families in the Augusta area. An estimated 900 more soldiers would like to live in the area, if they could find places, says the PIO.

GENERALLY, civilian owned housing can be found quickly, with one bedroom apartments ranging between $50 and $60 a month. Two bedroom units are around $55 to $70 a month, three bedroom apartments start as low as $70 a month.

Gordon has 35 trailer spaces, with a small waiting list for them. The seven or eight trailer parks in the area accommodate about 250 soldier families, at an average rental of $15.

Commercial housing information is available from the Military Housing Bureau, Bell Auditorium, Augusta, Ga. For brief visits, there is one guest house for EM's families, another for officers' families.

Camp Hanford, Wash.

THERE are 202 sets of quarters at Hanford which used to be occupied by Atomic Energy Commission workers. Now they are occupied by married enlisted men, who pay $35 a month for an unfurnished three bedroom home, $39.50 for a furnished unit. Two bedroom units cost $32.50 and $36.50. One bedroom units are $30 unfurnished and $33 furnished.

These units are available to qualified EM in about two months, furnished, in about six weeks, unfurnished.

About 400 families live in the Pasco, Richland and Kennewick areas, where one and two bedroom apartments are reasonably plentiful. Rents range around $75 to $100 a month.

There are 55 trailer dwellers on the post, and the PIO says trailer spaces are always available.

The PX operates guest houses for brief visits. Private housing information is available from the Richland, Wash., Chamber of Commerce.

As a final note, the PIO warns newcomers:

Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

TEMPORARY housing in this area is expensive, says the PIO, but the general housing situation is pretty good. He advises newcomers to precede their families by about two weeks, thereby reducing the high cost of temporary housing.

There are 58 sets of government quarters for officers, 43 for enlisted men. In addition, there are 299 sets of Wherry quarters, of which 157 are occupied by enlisted men. These government quarters are available only to first three graders and senior officers.

RENTS in the Indianapolis area look like this:

One bedroom: furnished, $65 to $75; unfurnished, $50 to $60 monthly.

Two bedroom: furnished, $95 to $110; unfurnished, $80 to $90.

Three bedroom: furnished, $125 and up; unfurnished, $90 to $95.

About 130 soldier families live in trailers in the area, where trailer facilities are described as "excellent."

BOQs and a guest house are available for brief visits. Advance information is available by writing to:

Operation Housing, Billeting Officer, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis 49, Indiana.

Hot Springs, Ark.

TWO VACANCIES are scheduled to occur soon in the 13 officers' quarters at the Army-Navy Hospital here. However, the PIO says the general housing outlook on the post is not good.

There are 10 other on-post quarters for enlisted men and their families. The waiting period for all of these quarters is "indefinite."

About 85 military families live in Hot Springs, where one and two bedroom apartments are available immediately at reasonable rents. Prices start at about $40 a month, and two bedroom units don't go much above $75. Three bedroom units are scarce, and range between $75 and $100.

About seven soldiers live in off-post trailer camps, where there is plenty of room. The hospital has no facilities for trailers.

Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

"THE RENTAL situation in the San Antonio area," says the Fort Sam PIO, "is above average." He reports 6000 vacancies in the area, although many of these vacancies are below desirable standards.

The post billeting office maintains a list of off-post rentals, and newcomers are welcome to use the list at any time. Additional off-post housing information is available from the San Antonio Real Estate Board, 403 East Travis Street, San Antonio, Tex.

The quarters situation on the post, however, is not too good. There are enough quarters for about 30 per cent of the people assigned or attached to Fort Sam. The post does have a number of temporary types quarters for EM assigned to Fort Sam. These quarters are furnished, and personnel occupying them forfeit their full quarters allowance. There is no grade limitation on these temps.

EM who are willing to use the temporary type quarters can move right in. Otherwise, post housing is rugged, despite the 140 government quarters for enlisted men, plus 506 Wherry units.

Officers can expect to wait from four to five months for one of the 290 sets of government quarters or 334 Wherry units assigned to officers. No building program is in sight.

About 1000 soldiers' families live off post in the San Antonio area, where one bedroom apartments cost from $50 to $80 a month. Two bedroom units range up to $100 a month, while three bedroom units cost from $90 to $125 a month.

Although the post has no trailer parks, there are plenty of spaces in the civilian community, ranging from $13 to $25 a month.

The PX operates two guest houses, which are available by reservation. Prices range from $1 for single rooms to $2 (plus $1.50 per extra head) for family suites.

Fort Huachuca, Ariz.

"THE HOUSING situation at Fort Huachuca," says the PIO, "although tight, is fast becoming healthy with the new housing units under development." He refers to the current home building program, which in the next six months will mean:

- Five hundred Wherry units will be completed.
- Two hundred Military Construction Agency homes will be completed.
- Construction on 575 Capeharts will be well under way.

PERMANENTLY assigned officers can expect to wait from three to four months for on-post housing. Available to them are 220 government quarters and 150 Wherry units.

Enlisted men have 220 sets of government quarters and 140 Wherry units. The waiting period for a furnished unit is about four months, slightly less for unfurnished units.

SOLDIER FAMILIES living off the post generally live in Bisbee, Warren, Lowell, Benson, Tombstone, Tucson, Nogales and Douglas, Ariz. Housing is available in these areas in a couple of weeks, although larger apartments sometimes take as long as four weeks to locate.

Rents for the one bedroom apartments range between $50 and $85 a month. Two bedroom units cost between $65 and $90 a month. Some three bedroom dwellings start as low as $75, go up to $125.

The trailer situation in the area is described as "fair." A new off-post trailer park is being built now.

The post has one guest house for all personnel, another for VIPs.

Fort Jackson, S. C.

THE POST Billeting Office and the Post Sgt. Major can provide advance housing information to men being transferred to Fort Jackson.

A Capehart project already has been approved. The two and three bedroom units will accommodate 20 field grade officers, 80 company grade officers and 200 enlisted men. The post doesn't have any comparable Wherry units, but it does have government quarters for 106 officers, 336 enlisted men.

The people who live off post mostly live in Columbia, S.C., where housing is available right away. Columbia rents are:

One bedroom: furnished, $50 to $80; unfurnished, $40 to $60.

Two bedroom: furnished, $75 to $95; unfurnished, $50 to $75.

Three bedroom: furnished, $100 to $150; unfurnished, $80 to $125. There are plenty of trailer spaces in the area, but none on post. Jackson has two guest houses and eight family units for tempo-

ARTIE JONES HAS GOT IT MADE!

Artie Jones can relax now. He made an important decision—and he's got it made!

Artie's problem was one a lot of guys face when their first hitch is about over. Even though he'd seen what a great career the Army is for some men, he just happened to have other plans for the future. The thing was that those plans called for piling up just a little more of the invaluable experience he was getting in the Army. In fact, in looking over his reenlistment options, Artie found he could get a technical training course that suited his long-range plans like nothing else could.

What was a guy to do? Reenlist and get the experience he needed to make the future pay off really big... or get out and try to get the experience some other way?

That was when Artie came to an important conclusion. He realized that signing up for one more hitch didn't mean he was in the Army for good. One more hitch didn't mean he was forgetting his lifetime plans. On the contrary! One more hitch meant he'd be in a position to step into just the future he wanted.

Maybe you're faced with the same kind of decision. If so, find out about your reenlistment options and see if just one more hitch isn't your best investment in a great tomorrow.

Remember Artie Jones. He reenlisted—and now he's got it made.

TWO FAMOUS names of music and films—Crosby and Capra—have been added to the training roster at Fort Ord, Calif. Unpacking their bags are Lindsay Crosby, left, youngest son of Bing, and Frank Capra Jr., son of the movie director, who hadn't had a chance to try his nice new Army shoes when this photo was snapped. Capra was an assistant director of TV productions in Hollywood before entering service, while young Crosby was making a name for himself as a golfer.

Carson Institutes Safety Controls

FORT CARSON, Colo.—Periodic Army highway check points—aimed at reducing traffic accidents involving soldiers—will be set up on U. S. Highway 85-87 from Pueblo to Fort Carson.

Military police will check drivers at announced times to assure that they are awake, alert and sober. The check points will be set up in the vicinity where eight soldiers were killed and several injured in accidents last year.

The first of these checks was operated last week from 1 to 3:20 a. m. and 34 vehicles driven by soldiers were stopped.

A few drivers appeared sleepy and were required to get out of their vehicles and stretch, but none was under the influence of liquor.

The Colorado State Patrol, which offered its assistance in handling the check point, indicated that such action will help in keeping accidents down.

Heat's On to Improve Quality Of Reserve's NCO Leadership

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON—The Army is getting concerned over the poor quality of non-commissioned officers in Reserve units. As put by Chief of Staff, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, professional competence is more than a display of book knowledge or of the results of military schooling. A noncom must be a competent enlisted commander of troops if the unit is to be considered dependable.

Gen. W. G. Wyman, CG of Continental Army Command, has informed the Army commanders, that he "is concerned about recent reports of the inferior quality of many of our noncommissioned officer personnel. The reported deficiencies, which vary from lack of leadership qualities to lack of professional qualities, require more personal attention on our part." General Wyman's concern applies to the active duty Army and the Reserve.

Word has now gone out to individual USAR unit commanders to give this personal attention. Noncommissioned officers must not be promoted merely on the basis of time served in grade, they've been told, but for displayed leadership.

Don't be surprised if Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, now in Far East, becomes the next Army Chief of Staff. Now 57 years of age, he is considered "top field commander" of the active Army.

Myer Marker

Last December we raised the question: "Just where is the Kitty Hawk of the Army, and is there a marker to record this bit of aviation history?"

The answer is that the site of the first flight of a plane within the military was Fort Myer, Va., on Sept. 3, 1908, and there is not a marker—nor has there ever been one—to record this fact.

At the same time we asked if the site of the first military air crash which took the life of a man was marked. The answer again was no.

Thanks to the cooperation of Col. William H. Spicer, post commander, and R. Harris Wiltamuth, post executive, of Fort Myer, the exact spot has been identified. We now have drawings locating this spot.

POW Pay

HR 1172, introduced by Rep. McDonough (R., Cal.), would give every officer and enlisted man of the Regular services, who was a prisoner of war in excess of three years, the official automatic status of physical disability when retired.

This would assure the individual of the maximum retirement pay on disability, rather than the normal retirement for service.

With the green uniform now authorized for just about every officer of the Army, do you know what to wear with what? If in doubt, drop me a note and a copy of the Army Times uniform chart will be mailed you without charge. This is really a "must" for active duty and USAR officers.

Rank Race

The House has approved the bill to raise the top rank of service nurses to colonel for Army and Air Force, and to captain in the Navy. The enactment of the bill will permit the nurses to retire in higher grades and will increase the number of top grade nurses.

TWO FAMOUS names of music and films—Crosby and Capra—have been added to the training roster at Fort Ord, Calif. Unpacking their bags are Lindsay Crosby, left, youngest son of Bing, and Frank Capra Jr., son of the movie director, who hadn't had a chance to try his nice new Army shoes when this photo was snapped. Capra was an assistant director of TV productions in Hollywood before entering service, while young Crosby was making a name for himself as a golfer.

Carson Institutes Safety Controls

FORT CARSON, Colo.—Periodic Army highway check points—aimed at reducing traffic accidents involving soldiers—will be set up on U. S. Highway 85-87 from Pueblo to Fort Carson.

Military police will check drivers at announced times to assure that they are awake, alert and sober. The check points will be set up in the vicinity where eight soldiers were killed and several injured in accidents last year.

The first of these checks was operated last week from 1 to 3:20 a. m. and 34 vehicles driven by soldiers were stopped.

A few drivers appeared sleepy and were required to get out of their vehicles and stretch, but none was under the influence of liquor.

The Colorado State Patrol, which offered its assistance in handling the check point, indicated that such action will help in keeping accidents down.

Heat's On to Improve Quality Of Reserve's NCO Leadership

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON—The Army is getting concerned over the poor quality of non-commissioned officers in Reserve units. As put by Chief of Staff, Gen. Maxwell Taylor, professional competence is more than a display of book knowledge or of the results of military schooling. A noncom must be a competent enlisted commander of troops if the unit is to be considered dependable.

Gen. W. G. Wyman, CG of Continental Army Command, has informed the Army commanders, that he "is concerned about recent reports of the inferior quality of many of our noncommissioned officer personnel. The reported deficiencies, which vary from lack of leadership qualities to lack of professional qualities, require more personal attention on our part." General Wyman's concern applies to the active duty Army and the Reserve.

Word has now gone out to individual USAR unit commanders to give this personal attention. Noncommissioned officers must not be promoted merely on the basis of time served in grade, they've been told, but for displayed leadership.

Don't be surprised if Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, now in Far East, becomes the next Army Chief of Staff. Now 57 years of age, he is considered "top field commander" of the active Army.

Myer Marker

Last December we raised the question, "Just where is the Kitty Hawk of the Army, and is there a marker to record this bit of aviation history?"

The answer is that the site of the first flight of a plane within the military was Fort Myer, Va., on Sept. 3, 1908, and there is not a marker—nor has there ever been one—to record this fact.

At the same time we asked if the site of the first military air crash which took the life of a man was marked. The answer again was no.

Thanks to the cooperation of Col. William H. Spicer, post commander, and R. Harris Wiltamuth, post executive, of Fort Myer, the exact spot has been identified. We now have drawings locating this spot.

POW Pay

HR 1172, introduced by Rep. McDonough (R., Cal.), would give every officer and enlisted man of the Regular services, who was a prisoner of war in excess of three years, the official automatic status of physical disability when retired.

This would assure the individual of the maximum retirement pay on disability, rather than the normal retirement for service.

With the green uniform now authorized for just about every officer of the Army, do you know what to wear with what? If in doubt, drop me a note and a copy of the Army Times uniform chart will be mailed you without charge. This is really a "must" for active duty and USAR officers.

Rank Race

The House has approved the bill to raise the top rank of service nurses to colonel for Army and Air Force, and to captain in the Navy. The enactment of the bill will permit the nurses to retire in higher grades and will increase the number of top grade nurses.

Officers Get
At McClellan

MOBILE, Ala.—Col. Harold E. Bisbort, Army District Engineer at Mobile, announced last week that 19 housing units are to be constructed at Fort McClellan, Ala., for occupancy by company grade officers and their families, and that bids for the job are presently being accepted at his office.

The plans and specifications which have been issued to interested contractors by the engineers call for the construction of five 4-bedroom single units and seven 3-bedroom duplex units. The 4-bedroom units will each contain a floor area of approximately 1397 square feet and the 3-bedroom units will each contain a floor area of approximately 1389 square feet.

The twelve buildings will be single-story frame structures with brick veneer and wood siding combinations.

The Engineers will accept bids March 11 and then hold a public bid opening in their District offices in Mobile.

New Whittier
Port Capacity

PORT OF WHITTIER, Alaska.—Dedication ceremonies for the Army's new two-ship dock at the Port of Whittier were scheduled March 1.

Described by the Army as "the most modern dock in Alaska," the new facility will triple the capacity of the port. When the final finishing touches are completed it will have cost an estimated $4,250,000.

Col. Thomas A. Weadock, commanding officer of the Port of Whittier, said Army and Air Force officers from Fort Richardson and Elmendorf Air Force Base and Alaska Railroad officials were to take part in the ceremony.

Work on the project began in June, 1954. The steel and concrete structure was built to replace dock facilities destroyed in the Whittier fire in the summer of 1953. The new dock will berth two ships. It has on-dock warehousing, and railroad track both on the dock and through the warehouse.

First ship to tie up to the dock was the USNS O'Hara when it arrived in Alaska Feb. 23. Maj. Gen. Gilman C. Mudgett, new commanding general of U. S. Army, Alaska, was aboard.

Chaffee to Renovate 144 Barracks

FORT CHAFFEE, Ark.—The modernization of 144 troop barracks at Fort Chaffee is scheduled to get underway this spring, Maj. Gen. Thomas W. Dunn, Chaffee, commanding general, announced. This is the first major project in a series of proposed improvements since Chaffee became a permanent installation last March.

The awarding of the contract was expected within three or four weeks subsequent to the opening of the bids on Feb. 27.

It is anticipated that actual work will begin on the buildings about April 15. Renovation activities will be conducted on groups of 10 buildings at a time, with the entire project expected to require approximately one year for completion.

Because this project is so big, bidding is limited to contractors who would be able to handle the entire job, it was pointed out by Gen. Dunn. However, small contractors will participate by subcontracting for various phases of the work.

Fort Smith is expected to benefit not only from the use of local labor, and materials on this project, but also from out-of-town workers who cannot be provided for locally and who will live in the area until the renovation is completed.

THE BARRACKS, War II type mobilization buildings, are constructed of wood on concrete foundations. Their rehabilitation will

Other improvements will include painting the interiors of the buildings, new interior and exterior electric wiring, replacement of plumbing fixtures and the replacement of present wooden fire ladders and a second story fire platoon with aluminum ladders and platforms.

The renovation, according to Gen. Dunn, is part of an Army-wide plan, approved by Congress, by which War II type buildings at Army installations in the United States will be modernized to the extent that they will be made usable for at least another 10 years.

Besides the troop barracks, mess halls and bachelor officer quarters at Chaffee are also scheduled for modernization.

Nickerson Trial Opens in April

off for a reason not yet known to those conducting the test.

However, before the missile destroyed itself, "millions of dollars worth of technical information" was developed through observation and reports from telemetering devices in the missile.

The tests were so satisfactory, it was said, that the "next shoot in a few weeks" is expected to be entirely successful.

THE JUPITER as tested uses an entirely new rocket motor which was developed for the Air Force Thor, Atlas and Titan ballistic missile projects. In fact, it was said, there is little or no disagreement in the field between Air Force and Army scientists trying to develop long range ballistic missiles.

As of now, the IRBM will be composed of the Air Force-developed motor, the Army warhead and nose cone and a combination of the Army and Air Force control, guidance and fuel components in the body of the missile.

The new Air Force rocket engine seems to be a major "break-through" in rocket technology. It apparently is so designed that the problem of high heat has been overcome in the firing chamber and exhaust. However, the heat of the rocket stream is so intense that guidance of the IRBM by "conventional" means—fins or vanes in the rocket stream—is impossible because no available material can stand up under the heat. Therefore the motor itself is moved to direct the rocket jet in maneuvering the missile.

THIS BECOMES a major problem, the one that may well have prevented Jupiter from achieving the maximum range scheduled for the test last week. Using the same motor, an Air Force test of Thor, its IRBM, was a failure some weeks ago when a valve in the "plumbing" (fuel line complex) failed.

The IRBM which finally will be adopted for firing by the Air Force now will be a "marriage" of Thor and Jupiter into a single improved missile. Army, Air Force and industry scientists expressed satisfaction that the United States, as a result of the two programs and the test last Friday, are far ahead of the rest of the world in missile development.

WHETHER such details as the above will come out during the Nickerson trial, now scheduled for some time within the next month at Redstone Arsenal, where the colonel is under house arrest, remains to be seen.

Gen. Hickey directed that the general court martial be public and "only if true national security is in jeopardy will the court enter into executive sessions in the course of the court-martial."

Col. Nickerson is accused of giving out the documents cited above to at least five people: William F. Hunt of the Reynolds Metal Co.; Drew Pearson and his partner, Jack Anderson, newspaper columnists; Eric Berghaus, editor of "Missiles and Rockets" magazine; and John A. Baumann of Radio Corporation of America.

He is also charged with making false statements during the pre-trial investigation in claiming he had nothing to do with securing by Pearson and Baumann of the Wilson memoranda.

THE ARTICLES of the charges are:

"ART. 92. Failure to obey order or regulation.

"Any person subject to this code who—

"(1) violates or fails to obey any lawful general order or regulation; or

"(2) having knowledge of any other lawful order issued by a member of the armed forces, which it is his duty to obey, fails to obey the same; or

"(3) is derelict in the performance of his duties;

"shall be punished as a court-martial may direct." And,

"Art. 34. General Article.

"Though not specifically mentioned in this code, all disorders and neglects to the prejudice of good order and discipline in the armed forces, all conduct of a nature to bring discredit upon the armed forces, and crimes and offenses not capital, of which persons subject to this code may be guilty, shall be taken cognizance of by a general or special or summary court-martial, according to the nature and degree of the offense and punished at the discretion of such court."

COL. NICKERSON has retained civilian attorney Robert Bell to work with his two military defense counsels.

Some observers have predicted that this "Nickerson court-martial" will take its place alongside the Billy Mitchell court-martial in its importance to national defense and its sensational aspects.

It is expected that part of Col. Nickerson's defense will be concerned with the limits in ballistic missile use, put on the Army by Mr. Wilson. In the Nov. 26 memorandum, Mr. Wilson said that the Army was not to use missiles with a range of more than 200 nautical miles.

MOST Army missilemen, and other officials of the Army, have felt that this limitation was arbitrary and unrealistic. They felt that the Wilson order handcuffs the Army and prevents it from being truly prepared for fighting on the atomic battlefield.

Missiles experts in the field and officials in Washington say that the "missile fight" is almost entirely concerned with the use of missiles and the impact of this on development. In present development efforts, there is a high degree of cooperation as there has been for a number of years.

Ft. Ben Commissary Among 68 Approved

WASHINGTON. — The Defense Department has approved 68 commissaries to be operated at Army posts this year. The 68 are included in the list of 237 operated by all services to which Defense has given the okay.

The approved list of Army commissaries shows that three will operate this year which either began operating during 1956 or will begin in 1957, while one was closed down in 1956.

The two new commissaries already operating are at Fort Polk, La., and Camp Wolters, Tex. The latter is a "transfer" from the Air Force which operated at Wolters before the Army became responsible for its own flight training.

Approved but not yet operating is a commissary at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

Closed down last year was the commissary at Red River Arsenal, Tex.

The entire list of 68 approved commissaries at Army installations in the United States follows:

appointment in a higher step, but still within the same grade.

- Paid travel to professional and scientific meetings.
- More super grade positions.
- Government-paid advertising for recruitment of new people. The present situation puts the government at a disadvantage in competing for new talent.

THE PAY RAISE proposals include:

GS-7, from the present $4325-$5335 range to $4700-$5900; GS-8, from $4970-$5780 to $5300-$6500; GS-9, from $5440-$6250 to $6000-$7200; GS-10, from $5915-$6825 to $6700-$7900; GS-11, from $6300-$7465 to $7400-$8650; and so on until GS-18, from the present pay of $18,000 to $18,500-$19,000.

The changes are beamed at attracting and retaining needed scientists, technicians and high-powered administrators.

Officials said the in-grade appointment flexibility and the request for more supergrades require legislation. The paid travel and paid advertising proposals may be laid on soon, officials indicated. They said the civilians recommendations will not be in the same legislative package as the Cordiner ideas Defense is expected to ask for the military.

Like the military pay hike proposals, the heavy cost tag on the civilian raise plan is a major factor to be overcome. While the Cordiner increases for civilians apply directly to persons working for the Defense Department, they would of necessity have to be applied to other government workers. That's the way Civil Service raises work.

THE HIGH COST involved may cause the Administration to scrap the proposal, it is reported.

Despite the costs associated with the Cordiner Group's proposals, military and civilian, task force officials express optimism that the military proposals will go through to completion.

The big hurdle for any hikes this year is that lawmakers are talking of reducing the federal budget, not increasing it.

Defense officials will attempt to show that the proposals eventually will save the government money.

NSLI Holders:

Have You Picked Up Waivers?

WASHINGTON — The services this week fired last-minute reminders to 273,000 servicemen to cancel premium waivers of their NSLI or USGSLI insurance policies.

Policy-holders who die after May 1 without removal of waivers will leave their survivors the low VA death compensation rates in effect last year, instead of the new and higher rates provided by the Survivor Benefits Act.

Only persons with military service prior to April 25, 1951 are involved, because persons entering service after that date were ineligible for NSLI or USGSLI.

The Defense Department last week told the services that as of Jan. 1, 1957 (date of the new Survivor Benefits Act) approximately 680,000 servicemen had government insurance policies under waiver.

As of last week approximately 273,000 of that number still had not acted to remove their premium waivers. The Pentagon feels that "in the vast majority of instances it would be in the best interest of the serviceman and his dependents" to remove the waivers.

Commanders should act immediately to see that each person gets the opportunity to cancel the waiver, the services told their field points.

Death with a policy under waiver brings $69.60 per month to a widow alone. The minimum payment under the new law (with waiver removed) is $112 plus 12 percent of the serviceman's basic pay.

Persons who have not acted should execute VA Form 9-5782. VA will then advise the correct amount of the allotment to be authorized. If the individual feels he cannot afford to pick up the payments he should check item 14d of the VA form which acts to drop the policy.

'Farmhouse' for Suburban Living

THE lovely look of this home makes it welcome in the most exclusive suburban areas and brings with it the spacious comfortable air of farm and country acres.

Everything has been planned to incorporate the most modern of planning inside, as you enter from the covered porch into the welcoming foyer. The plan is the best adaptation of the center hall to ranch design.

Bedrooms are at the right, easily reached from the front hall, the playroom above or the service door through the kitchen. There is no unnecessary traffic through the living room or dining room or family recreation room. The closets are very large and have sliding doors.

A family bathroom, fully tiled, is easily reached from the foyer and the two front bedrooms and it includes a vanity and linen closet. There is also a shower-lavatory for the master bedroom.

THE PLAYROOM is more than 30 feet long with a private bath and a large closet opening to attic storage. Here the youngsters can have an area all to themselves for rainy day play indoors but out of the way of grownups.

This supplements the recreation room that opens from back porch and dining room and therefore there are two informal areas along with the distinctive L of living and dining rooms.

Note the barbecue fireplace that backs up to the fireplace in the living room.

The kitchen is a modern adaptation of the 'old fashioned' kitchen. It has a storage closet, pantry outside the door, and easy access to the cellar stairs and to the front door. A deep windowed bow is just the place for a dining nook and appliances are ranged along one wall. A dishwasher, range, sink and clothes washer are included, along with a full wall of cabinets above and a lot of counter space.

THE TWO-CAR garage takes into account the size of the new cars and opens to the side for a corner plot.

Overall dimensions: 61' 8" x 39', excluding garage.

Capehart Project Begins at Stewart

FORT STEWART, Ga.—Groundbreaking ceremonies for the multimillion-dollar Capehart housing development for military families at Fort Stewart were scheduled last week.

The contract for the $5,625,000 housing project—the first permanent housing facilities at Stewart—was to be signed Feb. 28, and construction is to begin in a few days.

At the ceremony Brig. Gen. Paul R. Weyrauch, Stewart commander, and a representative of the R. P. Farnsworth Co. of New Orleans, general contractors, were to turn the first shovels of dirt.

Included in the construction project will be 40 row apartment-type buildings, each containing eight three-bedroom units, and 34 duplex type buildings, each containing two three-bedroom units—a total of 388 units. The apartment-type units will be for enlisted men and the duplexes for officers.

ALL CONSTRUCTION will be brick veneer with conventional framing, sloping roof. Each unit will have a living-dining area opening onto a patio. All duplexes will be provided with carports and 50 percent of the row type apartment units will have carports.

There will be oak floors throughout except in the kitchens and baths, which will be tiled; also plaster walls, ceiling louvers, and venetian blinds. Heating will be

Gulf Coast's Gardens Draw Visitors South As Celebrations End

By FRANKLIN G. SMITH
Travel Editor

*With rushing winds and gloomy skies
The dark and stubborn winter dies;
Far-off, unseen, Spring faintly cries,
Bidding her earliest child arise:
March!
Bayard Taylor*

THE frogs and mocking birds are mingling their voices in a merry din around the Gulf Coast. The dragon flies are skimming over the bayous of Lake Pontchartrain.

Camelias and narcissus are giving way to the purple wisteria and azaleas on the Biloxi Peninsula. Most of the robins that hopped around Mobile Bay all winter have packed up and gone north.

Mardi Gras celebrations are panting after their recent exertions at New Orleans and Mobile. Citizens of both towns also at Natchez, Montgomery, Pensacola, Tallahassee and other river and gulf ports have turned to their gardens.

Pilgrims, afoot and a wheel, have begun to haunt the historic homes of Ole Miss. Sun bonnets are bobbing over the ancient plots of Louisiana and Alabama. White, pink, red and lavender blooms have lit up the 25-mile route that Mobile calls the Azalea Trail.

ANTEBELLUM frocks, wide hats and dainty parasols are in vogue around Florida's mossy old capital of Tallahassee. Tourists and citizens are strolling among the flowers and the shrill calls of the mocking birds rend the air with their mating urges.

More spring vacationists are lolling on the beaches, crowding the bars, fishing, boating and sniffing the tropical breezes than Florida ever saw before. Reports have it that they are sleeping in their cars in some of the more populated playtowns of the Peninsula.

Motorists are zipping by each other on U.S. 1, 41, 27, 90 and 17 as they move north and south. Both north and southbound nomads on U.S. 1 are loitering at such notable

Reservations Network Planned

A contract for the first coast-to-coast automatic reservations system to be installed in the transportation industry was signed today by Pan American World Airways and the Teleregister Corporation.

Willis G. Lipscomb, vice president traffic and sales, said that the installation will be completed by May of this year.

The electronic network will link Pan American's 30 offices in the U.S. and Canada to a completely automatic reservations availability system that will give an instantaneous answer to the most-frequently asked question in the airline business "What space do you have?"

places as St. Augustine, Augusta, Pinehurst and Williamsburg.

Now while Spring is a pleasant thing in the semi-tropical lands, it is among the people that have been hugging heaters all winter that the season means most. So it is to some of the earliest vernal manifestations.

If the members of the Ocean Highway Assn. cared to get real classical at this time of the year, they might call that beautiful strip of road skirting the Atlantic from Jacksonville to Norfolk, "Via del Flores," or the way of the flowers.

FROM NOW until people start turning from the gardens to the beaches, the Hiway (U. S. 17) will be a "primrose trail" indeed. And for troopers and civilians taking to this route for the next few weeks we will list some of the more important floral events they may enjoy on their travels:

SAVANNAH, GA. — Azalea Festival, March 15-18.

CHARLESTON, S. C. — Azalea shows and tours of historic houses, March 19 to April 14.

WILMINGTON, N. C. — Azalea Festival, March 28-31.

VIRGINIA — Statewide Historic Garden week, April 20-27.

MARYLAND — Statewide House and Garden Pilgrimage, April 25 through May.

TWA Announces Twin Debut July

Trans World Airlines' new Jetstream Starliner, the most advanced and longest range commercial airliner aloft, will make its twin debut in U.S. and overseas service starting July 1, the company has announced. The giant Lockheed aircraft is capable of flying up to 6300 miles non-stop with payload and fuel reserves, or Los Angeles-Paris with plenty of miles to spare.

The new TWA plane is recognizable by its huge wing-span — 27 feet longer than that of the Super-G Constellation. Planned with built-in versatility to meet present-day demands for all classes of service, the Jetstream will enter U.S. service as a fast coast-to-coast non-stop airliner with luxury decor. Overseas it will provide tourist-class accommodations on daily non-stop flights between New York and such European gateways as London and Paris.

NCO Starts '48 Staters' Travel Club

AMARILLO AFB, Tex.—An organization for travelers has been organized as the "Forty-Eight Staters" club by founder and president T/Sgt. John R. Marquis of the 3320th Retraining Gp. at Amarillo. The "Forty-Eight Staters" primary interest is creating an incentive to travel, foster an invisible bond and a better relationship between travelers, business and social organizations and other individuals of communities, states and countries.

One of the many benefits to a member of this club is that he will have a permanent record of his travels and acquaintances.

There are five degrees of membership in this new organization. The first step is a candidate member. The candidate category is broken down into a 'star system.' A person who has visited at least one state and not more than 10 is a one star candidate.

Thereafter, an additional star is added with every ten states you visit during your travels. After becoming a four star candidate and having traveled the forty-eight states you qualify as a member of this club and receive a Silver Membership card.

The next degree of membership is a Gold member. Anyone who has visited all of the 48 states plus certain possessions of the U.S. is eligible for membership in that status.

A Continental member is a person who has complied with the aforementioned qualifications plus a visit to any ten foreign nations.

650 Men in 4th RCT Move To Cape Cod Training Site

FORT DEVENS, Mass. — More than 650 troops from three of the combat elements of the 4th RCT—the 76th FA Bn., the Heavy Mortar Co., and the 232d Engineers Co.—are taking field training at Camp Edwards.

The units are prepping for company and battalion tests and also are readying themselves for spring maneuvers at Camp Drum, N.Y. They will train for varying periods up to 19 days.

The motorized march to the Cape Cod station involved some 175 vehicles, ranging from two and a half ton trucks, towing artillery pieces, to jeeps. The convoy, which left this post early March 4, passed through the towns of Dedham, Stoughton, Brockton, Taunton, Middleboro, Wareham, and onto the Cape at Bourne. Lt. Col. Theodore Kramer Jr., commander of the 76th FA Bn., was in charge of the movement.

THOUGH heavy mortar will coordinate with the artillerymen on some training, the outfits will be on their own as far as the bulk of the field work is concerned. However, logistical support will be directed through the 76th.

The artillerymen will train through March 19. Eighteen 105mm howitzers are being used in the firing missions. The climax to the training period will be a battalion test—a 36 hour overnight problem.

The heavy mortar company is working with the artillery on fire direction control. Capt. Fred G. Swafford Jr., commander of the unit, directed his men in the firing of the twelve 4.2 inch mortars at ranges up to 6000 yards.

The 23d Engineer Co. concerned itself with the preparation for the company test. The training will involve mine laying, bridge building, employment of the engineers as infantrymen and bivouacking. Capt. Alton Brown, company commander, will take charge of the training. The engineers will return to this post the 20th.

82d Abn. Tankers to Test 'Armor in Night Fighting'

FORT STEWART, Ga.—The 82d Abn. Div.'s 44th Tank Bn. has arrived at Stewart to undergo annual field training and then play the major role in an "Armor in Night Fighting" troop test.

The purpose of the test will be to determine the best methods and procedures for equipment, organization, and tactical employment, to include firing exercises, of an armor unit during night fighting. The test is scheduled for April 2-29.

During the test the 44th Bn. will be supported by artillery, infantry, and engineer units.

For the next six weeks the battalion will first go to the Taylor's Creek Firing Ranges to fire 90-millimeter tank guns—the primary weapon of M-48 General Patton Tanks, and .30 and .50 caliber machine guns mounted on the tanks. The battalion personnel will also fire Stewart's Tank Crew Proficiency Course, and then go to the Glisson's Pond Tank Tactical Training Area for platoon, company, and battalion-size maneuvers. Part of these maneuvers will be the battalion's annual Army Training Tests.

The Armor in Night Fighting Troop Test will be conducted in the Glisson's Pond Area under the supervision of the commanding general, Fort Stewart, as directed by Third Army and Continental Army Command.

Commander of the 500-man 44th

Tank Bn. is Lt. Col. Leo Nawn. With the arrival of his unit at Stewart from Bragg, 82d Abn. Div. troops currently undergoing annual training at Stewart approached the 2000 mark, including the 504th Inf. Regt's 3d Bn. and Btry. C, 376th FA Bn., both of which will be supporting the 44th Bn. during training here, and also three regimental tank companies, and minor support units.

Artillery Battery Goes to Panama

FORT BRAGG, N.C. — Btry. B, 319th Abn FA Bn. of the 82d Abn. Div., will be the unit in direct support of the 2d Bn. of the 325th Abn. Inf. Regt., in its assault on the Rio Hato Air Strip during the latter stages of Exercise Rio Selva in Panama in April.

The assault on the air strip will conclude the jungle training exercise to take place in the Canal Zone area during March and April.

An advance party of seven men from Btry. B accompanied the 75 fan party from the 325th AIR on March 5, to arrange for the arrival of the main body of four officers and 91 enlisted men, on March 12.

According to Lt. Arthur H. Rhoads, battery commander, the unit will attend the three week Jungle Warfare School, and then have one week of service practice during which the men will familiarize themselves with atmospheric conditions and their probable effect on artillery projectiles.

All personnel will leave Panama on April 30 to return to Bragg.

Explorer Says Studies Will Improve Arctic GI Clothing

FORT RICHARDSON, Alaska — Sir Hubert Wilkins, world explorer and geographer, looks for improvement in arctic clothing for the soldier and better camouflage techniques after observing Fort Richardson's exercise "Hard Times" war games.

The geographer, who arrived in Alaska to make a study of the combat effectiveness of the American soldier under Arctic conditions, bivouacked with Co G, 23d Inf during the maneuver.

"Better insulating boots, socks and parka hoods will make the arctic soldier more effective in time to come," Sir Hubert said.

"At the present time the Korean cold weather boot used in Alaska

'hardens' at night and is hard to step into on cold mornings. The lip which pulls over the tongue of the boot wears out fast."

Pointing to a white rubber boot which he was wearing, Sir Hubert gave the men a preview of the future.

IT WILL BE MADE of a better quality rubber, eliminate the boot lips and is an air-inflated, insulated boot. A small pump is used to force air into the boots' inner surfaces.

"You actually slide into this boot, can deflate it when feet swell and it is more comfortable than the present boot," Sir Hubert said. "However, a prototype of a still better boot is now under study. Production will not start until research is complete."

"Also a combat stretch sock with cushion soles is being developed. The Quartermaster Research and Development Command at Natick, Mass., is trying to figure out a method of keeping the sock from slipping."

Talking about camouflage, Sir Hubert said he will return to Natick with an idea suggested by an unknown infantryman of Co. G. "Camouflage white coverings for heavier weapons such as mortars and recoilless rifles should be produced," he said. "One of the soldiers suggested that it would be easier, quicker and more effective to cover weapons with some type of white material."

Sir Hubert talked with soldiers during the maneuver and filmed moving pictures for study by Quartermaster research officers.

Ft. Jackson to Hold Photo Competition

FORT JACKSON, S. C. — The Fort Jackson Photography contest will be held at the post library June 27. Winning entries in this contest will be submitted for competition in the 1957 Third Army Contest.

The contest is divided into two classes, professional and amateur. The professional class will consist of the personnel who have completed civilian or military formalized courses of training in photography, worked as, or are now assigned as photographic technicians.

The contest is open to all military personnel on active duty for 90 days or more. Any picture taken after January, 1956, will be accepted as an entry.

GI-Built Children's Hospital In Korea Running Out of $$$

By HERMA NORRIS

PUSAN, Korea. — Wherever American fighting soldiers march, children tag along. Backwash of the advance waves, the kids seem to know here are the hardest softies in the world.

War is tough for children. Nowhere was this more apparent than Korea. Our men carried, fed, clothed, adopted, and loved more abused and lost children on that bitter peninsula than perhaps any other theater where we did battle.

In rocky Pusan, a monument to the American GI's love for the diseased and crippled children of war has been clawed out of the mountains that fall straight down to the sea. The Pusan Children's Charity Hospital was first-born in a converted house of ill-repute, the idea of a captain; adopted by the Pusan Masonic Club; and beaten into being by a constantly shifting group of American service men who used, begged and scrounged from every organization that operated in Korea.

It faces disaster because Korea is no longer a trouble spot in our worried world. There aren't enough big-hearted GIs there now to keep it going.

In 1950, Pusan, formerly a peaceful city of about 250,000, was bulging with refugees from the North. As guns roared on the 38th parallel, children were the expendable baggage in the flight for safety. Wounded, diseased and abandoned, they clogged the streets.

Capt. Clifford G. McKeon decided something should be done. Impromptu orphanages were springing up in the most unlikely places but no medical facilities were available.

THUS in two Quonset huts, one of Korea's two children's hospitals was born. Using medical personnel after their regular duty hours, begging for supplies, the project got under way. Chaplain (Maj.) Mark H. Penoyer was one of the volunteers.

The first home of the Pusan Children's Charity Hospital which the children named "Happy Mountain," was an empty house of ill-fame in the worst section of the city. But two articles in a service journal sparked a fund drive that sent money and supplies pouring into the coffers, and soon a workable clinic was in operation. The children came from everywhere. Three children on one Army cot was usual—one at one end of the cot, two at the other.

MIJA was found on a street, apparently abandoned by her mother. X-rays disclose TB in one lung, but she's responding to treatment at the Pusan Children's Charity Hospital. Hospital officials will place her in an orphanage after medical treatment is completed.

As servicemen left Pusan, they carried the message to other parts of the world and home to America. Soon an organization was needed to handle the administrative affairs of the hospital. The hard core of backers were the members of the Pusan Masonic Club.

Changing duty stations had little effect. New members coming in worked as hard as old members departing—and the old members never forgot.

RECENTLY incorporated in the state of Maryland, a new organization, "Friends of the Pusan Children's Charity Hospital," has been formed to raise funds to keep the hospital operating. As American troops pulled out of Pusan, collections for the hospital dropped. Unless something drastic is done, the hospital faces death by attrition, unless this organization can provide the answer.

Staffed by Canadian Mennonite nurses, graduates of the Pusan National University Medical School whose compound it shares, Severance Medical School in Seoul, and Korean nurses aides, the new hospital needs a minimum of $2000 a month to operate.

Its capacity is 80 children bed-patients and it's full all the time. Its outpatient clinic treats as many as the staff can handle every day.

The only children's hospital in a city of over one million, and one of two such institutions in all of Korea, the "Friends" of the Pusan children's hospital would like to continue.

Powerful Tube Extends Radar Range

WALTHAM, Mass. — Military secrecy has been lifted from a new electron tube that adds might to radar's muscles, allowing these electronic devices to see targets more clearly and farther away.

Developed by Raytheon Manufacturing Co. under sponsorship of the Army Signal Corps Engineering Laboratories, Fort Monmouth, N. J., the new tube's peak power is equal to that needed to light a city of 200,000 people.

Called an "Amplitron," the new tube effectively "beefs up" the radar's performance by amplifying or boosting the energy output of the basic signal as much as eight to 14 times.

THE AMPLITRON is the only microwave tube in existence that combines high power, wide frequency range and other features that help improve radar's ability to distinguish moving from fixed targets—all essential to advanced radar systems.

The new tube is extremely valuable for use against enemy electronic jamming, and as a navigational aid for military and commercial aviation.

The Amplitron's advanced features plus its comparatively small size and light weight will make it possible to develop special-purpose radars to be carried by planes and missiles. Earlier tubes with the desired band width were too big and bulky for this purpose.

SECOND LT. John L. Charlton Jr., first chiropodist to be commissioned in the Army, makes adjustments to PFC Aaron S. Shepard's new foot support at Walter Reed Hospital, where Charlton is now assigned. Charlton entered service in March 1956 and received his lieutenant's bars last January while on duty at the Pentagon dispensary as a sergeant. The Army expects to commission other chiropodists who will be assigned to general hospitals and basic training centers.

Extra Powerful Lenses Aid Walter Reed Eye Patients

WASHINGTON—Telescopes, microscopes, and projectors are the newest types of equipment now being used in the eye clinic at Walter Reed Hospital. These optical aids are the basic tools of the "poor vision clinic" initiated at Walter Reed about five months ago.

All three instruments help to enlarge the retinal image for those patients whose vision is 20/200 or less. The telescopes, which have a magnification of from 1.5 to 3X, assist in viewing objects which are more than 20 feet away. The hand-held or spectacle-type microscopes are most useful in reading, where the working distance is about 10 inches. Projectors, likewise, with their 5-25X magnification, are especially designed for reading, and have a built-in scanning mechanism.

Walter Reed ophthalmologists explain that the optical aids are used "where vision is not correctable by ordinary means to the point where it is useful and adequate to the patient." Conception of adequacy differs necessarily from person to person. But in the case of most patients seen at the poor vision clinic, ability to read the newspaper and make out small details is usually considered adequate.

ALTHOUGH THE optical aids have been nicknamed "Magic Lenses," doctors stress the fact that there is as yet no magical solution to the problem of poor vision. One out of every five patients who are referred to the specialists in the clinic can regain functional vision with the help of these aids. Vision in the other four is usually too minute to benefit.

Although pioneer work in the use of "magic lenses" began some 30 years ago, it has only been within the past five years that real activity has been undertaken in this field and notable progress made. Specialists at Walter Reed are constantly experimenting with improvements such as the newly developed microscope caps which fit over telescopic units.

Third Army Map Exercise Tests Staffs in Airborne Techniques

FORT GORDON, Ga.—Third Army's annual command post exercise, Lucky Bravo, ended March 3 at this Georgia post for the 2100 commanders and their staffs representing Reserve, National Guard and active Army units of the seven southeastern states.

Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, Third Army commanding general, and exercise director, told participants at the final critique that he believed that the exercise had emphasized to all the important role of airborne and air transportability for troops on the modern battlefield.

"We are living," he said, "through a transitory military period. As we move from the gun to rockets, from the shoe to the flying platform, the phone to television, the truck to the helicopter, we must match our thinking with these concepts. We must realize that the battlefield of the future, with both sides possessing atomic capabilities, will require dispersal and rapid movement combined with flexible weapon systems."

GEN. HICKEY mentioned the enthusiasm he had observed in all headquarters throughout the exercise. "I believe," he said, "that we have all been made more fully aware of the tremendous amount of detailed work and planning foresight required as we tackle the 'time and space' problem of moving on the modern battlefield."

"I also think that you have seen the importance, particularly at division level, of allowing sufficient time following the issuance of an order, so that your men, using their American initiative, of which we are all aware they possess in abundance, can give the 'Old Man' the physical, spiritual, and moral support he deserves."

LUCKY BRAVO stressed the latest airborne doctrines and techniques, along with atomic and electronic warfare principles. Following the establishment of a theoretical airhead deep in enemy held territory the Third Army directed troops then had to wrestle with the logistics of expanding and consolidating the airhead.

In the meantime the Aggressor enemy, represented by the 30th and 48th Armd. Divs. (National Guard) proceeded to counterattack. Speaking for the Reserve units taking part in the 72-hour exercise, Brig. Gen. Robert Lee Watkins, acting commander of the 81st Inf. Div., with headquarters at Atlanta, expressed appreciation for being invited to participate in the exercise. He mentioned that 164 man-days had gone into the preparation for the exercise by the 81st; but felt that it was a comparatively small time for the training benefits derived while at Fort Gordon.

MAJ. GEN. Alexander G. Paxton, commanding general of the 81st Inf. "Dixie" Div., with headquarters at Greenville, Miss., represented the National Guard units.

He emphasized the importance to his unit and to all units of the detailed planning which is so important before troops may be airlifted.

Gen. Hickey thanked Brig. General J. P. Holland, Fort Gordon commander, for logistical support. He said that the presence of the Signal Training Center, under Brig. Gen. Ralph T. Nelson, played a "large role" in the successful operation of the problem.

OF THE 21 UNITS participating five were active Army: Third Army, Headquarters, Fort McPherson, Ga.; XVIII Airborne Corps and 82d Abn. Div., Fort Bragg, N. C.; 101st Abn. Div., Fort Campbell, Ky., and 3d Inf. Div., Fort Benning, Ga.

The nine National Guard units were 30th Armd. Div., Nashville, Tenn.; 30th Inf. Div., Raleigh, N. C.; 31st Inf. Div., Greenville, Miss.; 51st Inf. Div., Columbia, S. C.; IV Corps Artillery, Charlotte, N. C.; 48th Armd. Div., Macon, Ga.; 108th AAA Brigade, Winder, Ga.; 198th

FA Group, Kinston, N. C.; 215th FA Group, Columbus, Miss.

The six Reserve units were: 81st Inf. Div., 425th FA Group, and 310th Military Government Group, all of Atlanta, Ga.; the 412th Engr. Brigade, Vicksburg, Miss.; 437th FA Group, Florence, S. C.; and the 405th FA Group, Meridian, Miss.

IN EXERCISE RIO SELVA

Jungle Training Will Cover Historic Area

FORT BRAGG, N. C.—Exercise "Rio Selva" will take the 2d Bn. of the 325th Abn. Inf. Regt. to an area in Panama where, three centuries ago, jungle living, travel, and fighting were proven practical.

Spain had "impregnable" fortresses at Fort San Lorenzo and Old Panama, but Henry Morgan, the notorious pirate, pierced the "impenetrable" jungle and reduced San Lorenzo from the rear, then marched through the jungle to take the city of Old Panama.

The recently restored ruins of San Lorenzo, founded in 1575, can be seen at the mouth of the Chagres River and are now an interesting historical site.

During the period between War I and War II this area was used for training by various infantry and artillery units as well as being occupied by Coast Artillery installations.

During War II jungle survival training for Air Forces personnel was given here and the area was occupied and defended by many Army units which were also trained for jungle operation. Part of the famous Merrill's Marauders group was trained here.

IN 1953, a battalion combat team from the 82d Abn. Div. was joined by elements of the 33d Inf., 45th Recon. Bn. and 370th Amphibious Support Regt., to conduct Exercise Brush Bay between May 4 and June 4.

Problems peculiar to jungle operation are very poor visibility, unusual difficulty in maintaining communication, reduced rates of march, difficulty in terrain evaluation, and difficulty of resupply due to lack of road networks.

In unit training at the Jungle Warfare Training Center, leaders learn to meet and cope with these problems.

All problems stress the difficulty of, and the necessity for control. Tactics do not change in the jungle, but this terrain does require varying techniques.

TRAINING IS CONDUCTED at the Jungle Warfare Training Cen-

Fort Riley Units Helped by Army School Facilities

FORT RILEY, Kans.—More than 1200 men of the 1st Inf. Div. and other Fifth Army units here earned high school diplomas during 1956 by taking advantage of the Army's educational opportunities, the post education center announced last week.

Gene Oppy, director of education for the post, said the men successfully completed the Army's General Education Development (GED) test which qualify them for diplomas from their home town high schools in virtually all cases. In addition, 219 men received credit for one year of college by passing the GED test at that level, Oppy announced.

IN ANOTHER PHASE of the educational activity on the Post, 945 men completed an eighth grade education as a result of off-duty study and completion of a battery of tests. These men completed the course in an average of ten weeks, Oppy said.

Another 312 men completed such high school courses as typing, shorthand and algebra at the Army Education Center here, and 597 men completed evening classes offered by Kansas State College at Manhattan and the University of Kansas at Lawrence.

ter on four levels: individual, small unit, company, and battalion level.

The bulk of the classes are conducted for infantry rifle company personnel, but training is also included in special subjects for the heavy weapons company, heavy mortar platoon, communications platoon, and headquarters companies of the infantry regiment and its battalions.

There are also courses for a platoon of combat engineers as well as basic engineering classes conducted for infantry units.

INDIVIDUAL jungle training includes courses in jungle orientation, jungle camouflage, jungle navigation, CBR warfare, and mines and booby traps.

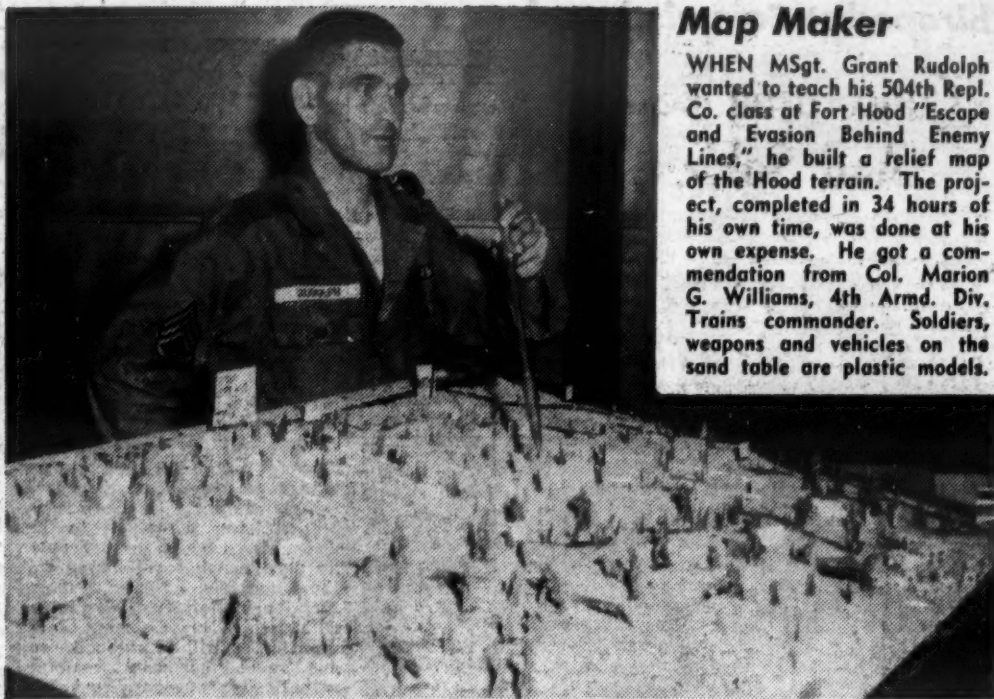

The three hour period spent in jungle orientation is a highlight of the training and includes instruction on jungle plant life, emergency food, poisonous plants, animal life, snakes and first aid for snake bite, jungle hygiene and sanitation, animal traps, and practical hints for jungle living.

When the man has completed his individual phase, he is considered "jungle indoctrinated" and ready for instruction in small unit tactics.

Highlights of the platoon training are a nine hour class in combat patrolling, and a 15 hour problem for a platoon raid.

Soldiers, weapons and vehicles on the sand table are plastic models.

Sergeant Wins Bars Via USAFI Courses

BROOKLYN ARMY TERMINAL—A mere seven years of formal education is to some an invincible handicap, but not to Sgt. Richard H. Baxter, who recently received his appointment as a second lieutenant in the Army Reserve.

Baxter, who is reenlistment non-commissioned officer for the Station Complement at Brooklyn Army Terminal, was congratulated on his appointment by Col. Robert C. Hanes, commanding officer, BAT, in a ceremony held in his office.

Entering the Army at the age of 14 before finishing grammar school, Baxter set his goals high and worked hard to reach them. In his spare time, he studied USAFI courses to complete his grammar school tests, and then moved on to high school material to earn his General Education Development (high school level) certificate. More recently, Baxter embarked upon college-level courses, infantry outfits. Volunteering for infantry duty in Korea, he was sent to Japan.

Baxter has been at the Terminal since December 1954, serving first as an honor escort with Detachment 5, then with the Headquarters Detachment.

The sergeant entered military service right after the close of War II and received his basic training at Camp Polk, La. In 1947, he joined the 17th Inf. Regt. of the 7th Div. in Korea, and then served with a military police battalion in Seoul.

IN MARCH 1948, Sgt. Baxter then headed toward another "hot spot," Trieste. There he spent 42 months, serving in both MP and infantry duty in Korea, he was sent to Japan.

In August 1952, he was assigned to the 180th Regt., 45th Div., then heavily engaged in combat with the enemy. Baxter returned with two battle stars.

Married and the father of a nine-month old boy, Richard Allan, Sgt. and Mrs. Baxter reside in the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn.

Sgt. Baxter is now awaiting his call to active duty as an officer.

Concerning Booze And Soldiers

By ELLIS ROTTMAN

A COUPLE OF RECENT news items, one from France and one from Washington, provide an interesting comparison. France has made it unlawful to sell or give alcoholic beverages to anyone under 12 years of age. The Army in Washington has ordered that no alcoholic beverages — and that includes 3.2 beer — be sold to Army Reservists or National Guardsmen under 18½ years of age who are on active duty for six months of training.

All this is indeed a sad commentary on the state of the future American fighting man. Under this edict, how can the Army expect to produce those whiskey swilling soldiers who — tradition tells us — make the best fighting men. Conditioned by a 6½-year head start, French youths will be hard-drinking Regulars before they discover which end of a rifle the bullet comes out of. It's nice to know they're on our side.

ROTTMAN

Actually, the "12-year-old law" represents a cutback in French drinking habits. Until the Gallic equivalent of the Women's Christian Temperance Union apparently poisoned the minds of the Chamber of Deputies, French children were weaned on wine. The milk in France is the same as the milk everywhere else; it's not fit to drink. In France they're just willing to admit it.

HOLLYWOOD WILL BE one of the big losers if alcoholic beverages go out of style with the GIs of the future. What will replace the standard scene that begins when a grizzled combat vet stumbles onto the local version of "white lightin'" in the cellar of some bombed-out home? After thoroughly wetting his whistle and catching up on his sleep, our hero finds that the battle is raging anew.

Armed with a handful of grenades, two light machine guns and a horrendous hangover, he sallies forth and single-handedly destroys three enemy pillboxes, all the while cursing the native home brew. This is quite an accomplishment from any angle, but it wouldn't be nearly as effective if the said soldier stoked up on milk.

Even literature recognizes the imbibing abilities of the real soldier. If memory serves, Robert E. Lee Prewett, the hero in "From Here to Eternity," gulps down two fifths of scotch on Pearl Harbor Day and then decides to leave the comforts of his girl's apartment and trek across town to return to the unit from which he has been AWOL.

He doesn't make it. But it's a bullet and not the scotch that does him in. And it's made clear throughout the book that Prewett is a 30-year man. He never would have made it down the apartment steps if he had trained under the Guard and Reserve rules.

The prohibition against serving alcohol to the young Guard and Reserve trainees is about the only concrete thing that has yet come out of the heated controversy about Guard training. It still ranks second in interest, though, to Mr. Wilson's now-famous statement.

ONE CONGRESSMAN complained about the young trainees having access to alcoholic beverages, and the Army remembered it had promised some time back to protect the morals of young Reservists. No one has yet checked to find out whether this "protection" can be extended to cover the banning of Elvis Presley movies.

The government must be wary lest this ban against drinking is applied to young men training for the diplomatic corps. That would be a real catastrophe. Our diplomats have found that Mr. Krushchev, for instance, gets downright garrulous after the seventh Moscow Mule. In fact, there's nothing quite like being able to drink the other ambassador under the table for getting state secrets.

Rare Insignia Collection

DENVER, Colo.—Reputedly the largest military insignia collection in the world is owned by patrolman George E. Hamlin of the Police Force at Rocky Mountain Arsenal here. Hamlin explains that there are larger collections of some specific types but none larger than his varied collection which includes regimental crests, shoulder patches, decorations, service medals, service ribbons, flags and pennants of 21 countries including the U.S. He estimates that his collection contains about 8000 pieces. It was started in 1932 when a friend gave him a 28th Inf. regimental insignia. The rarest in the collection is a German medal awarded in 1814 to a private for 15 years service in the Imperial German Army. The oldest, which was presented by King George II of England in 1755, is "For Bravery on the Field." The most interesting is an Austrian-Hungarian Iron Cross awarded by the Emperor and King of Austria in 1866. It was found pinned to a German flag which was captured in the battle of the Bulge in War II.

Most Perfect?

ACCORDING to sculptor Joseph Dubronyl, this 21-year-old redhead, Virginia De Lee, has the "most perfect form" imaginable. For the statistical minded, Virginia measures 35-22-35. She's married and lives in Hollywood where she was born.

Mayflower Replica

HULL of the Mayflower II, replica of the pilgrim ship that made the Atlantic crossing to America in the 17th century, takes shape in dockyard at Brixham, England. Ship will sail to the U.S. later this year in good will voyage commemorating the crossing of the pioneer settlers. As is obvious, the Mayflower was not a big ship.

the old sergeant Baseball Ain't Standard Oil

By PAUL GOOD

The Old Sarge

"IF IT happens, the National League better brace for a one-man economic sanction," the old boy growled the other day as he lumbered into the orderly room. "Meanin' me."

"What's the matter, Sarge?" I replied. "Have the Cincinnati Reds once again turned down your offer to play roving fielder for them?"

"There's some as might wind up rovin' latrine orderly on permanent status. This ain't no time for levity. This is the saddest moment for baseball since that day durin' the Black Sox scandal when the little kids crowded aroun' Shoeless Joe Jackson when he came out of the grand jury room an' yelled at him."

"Say it isn't so, Joe!"

"An' in case you still don't know what I'm talkin' about, it's the fact that it looks like Brooklyn is movin' to Los Angeles. If the league lets that happen, then I'm done with it an' baseball in general, an' in the future will concentrate on bird colonel-watchin' as my spectator sport."

"DURIN' THE LAST few years, franchise switchin' has been raisin' hob with the greatest game since men an' women was invented. They yanked the Braves out of Boston an' put them on tap in Milwaukee. In the Amerycan League, the Phillydelphia A's an' St. Louis Browns got moved from their home towns. Of course, nobody hardly knew they was there in the first place, so there wasn't much of a squawk."

"Now, the only reason for all that relocatin' was dough. Oh, a lot of owners swore on stacks of the Sportin' News that they was doin' it for the good of the game. An' I ain't sayin' that a nice thick head of brewery bucks didn't make the Braves a stronger team. The pitchers all got hops on their fast balls an'—"

"Sarge, I'll listen for as long as you want me to, but puns like hops on fast balls are too much."

"But the fact is," he continued, supremely unruffled, "that if the owners could have found a way to make more money by movin' franchises without helpin' the game as much as that midget Bill Veck hired years back, they would've moved 'em. I ain't opposed to men makin' money, sonny. Nobody independently wealthy like I am could be. But when you worry about money to the point where you forget about common sense, you get like them IBM-headed people in Washington what want to scrap old-style Arlington funerals in order to reduce the single largest item in the defense appropriations. I'm referrin' to the oat outlay, natchally."

"TRADITION CAN be a bad word or a good one, dependin' on how you use it. In baseball, tradition is at least 25 percent of the game an' mebbe more. I mean them fine old things about the game that senior citizens like me has been accustomed to for so many years—the seventh innin' stretch, outfielders tappin' bases for luck as they come in for their bats, Ted Williams spittin' at his friends in the Fenway bleachers. An' the Brooklyn club is traditional. It goes back a helluva long way an' any baseball fan worth feedin' a hotdog to gets a bang out of knowin' that the Dodgers he's watchin' today are part of other days in baseball that are good to remember."

"I see or read about the Brooklyn an' they ain't just nine fellers in monkey suits. They're a connection with old boys like Babe Herman what caught a occasional ball in his ear but a lot more in his glove. When Maglie threw his no-hitter last summer, my memory got nudged to recollect Dazzy Vance an' the one he threw before you was weaned. An' I thought about poor Whit Wyatt an' that day in Boston when Phil Masi, I think it was, spoiled his perfect game with the saddest single you ever seen after two was out in the ninth. Not to mention pitchers like Van Bingle Mungo an' that night durin' winter trainin' in Cuba when he got discovered relaxin' in a lady's apartment after curfew."

"I was only waitin' for a trolley car," Van said, an' who could argue that wasn't a good a place as any to wait."

"BUT THEY MOVE the franchise out to Los Angeles an' what do they do? They throw tradition a spitball, that's what, an' better than 50 years of good memories go down swingin'. Brooklyn fans all over the country what never got over Owen droppin' that third strike from Hughie Casey now gotta try an' get over the fact the team has dropped them."

"I can sympathize with your emotional attachment to the club," I said. "But I think you're forgettin' that everyone in baseball—players especially—wants to make money. If the owners feel more money can be made in Los Angeles they have every right to try."

"An' I think if it goes through the league is forgettin' that baseball ain't Standard Oil or General Motors, an' that people can't run it that way if they want to keep developin' fans for the future. You get fans from kids what grow up hearin' baseball tradition from their elders an' they get to love the game an' the past what's part of it. Run it like any other business an' what happens? When Charlie Wilson left GM to work for the guvament, I didn't hear any small fry in Detroit cryin'."

"Say it isn't so, Chuck."

What Life Is Like at West Point

WEST POINT TODAY, by Kendall Banning, new revised edition edited by A.C.M. Azoy. Coward-McCann, N. Y. 247 pages. $3.95.

Reviewed by BOB HOROWITZ

Paul Gallico once attended a football rally at West Point, and he wrote:

"Cheers and football songs are rather disillusioning things, when seen on paper. The cheers are arant gibberish and too absurd for words, and the lyrics of the songs are one and all trite poetry about fighting for the old school . . . or doing something to the other school, such as tearing through their line . . . You have heard or read dozens of them, and I will warrant, never found an original line or idea in any of them. But, by George, you listen to that Cadet Corps shout one in the mess hall, and I want to tell you, the thing lives. It means something. The rollicking march music of the melody stirs your blood, of course; but even the old, well-worn words come to life, and take on meaning when the straight-backed kids, with clear eyes, cry them out, or sing them at the top of their lungs.

"At such times," Gallico wrote, "the old songs are no longer old, but something new and stimulating, as each boy looks into his heart and finds there the primitives so simple, and yet so wonderful to discover—this is my school; I love it. These are my companions! I would die for them! Together we stand against the world . . . How wonderful it is to be banded here together against whatever may come . . ."

Gallico expressed, as well as anybody could, the spirit behind the buildings, rules and uniform, at the U. S. Military Academy (and at Annapolis, too). His 1935 newspaper column is reprinted in the newest edition of "West Point Today," a smoothly-written poop sheet that answers thousands of questions about the Academy.

Among the tidbits of information in the book are such items as:

There are 44 buttons on the full dress uniform.

Cadets must get a haircut every week.

A rain storm during an evening parade runs up a tailors' bill of about $700 for pressing the uniforms and for laundry.

The buttons on the front of the cuffs of the full dress uniforms were originally put there to prevent the cadets from wiping their noses on their sleeves.

West Point is the only military post in the country where the calls are regularly sounded by drum (they're supplemented with bugles and bells).

The book also has a chapter full of information aimed at the drags who report to the Academy for the weekend hops.

The British somehow seem to be the most active of the flying nations in cataloguing the world's aircraft, and authors Green and Pollinger are among the best researchers.

Both books are new editions. Both are pocket sized volumes but include text, technical data and illustrations of some 175 aircraft. Beyond the up-to-date index to virtually everything flying, the strong point of both books is the coverage of Russian aircraft. Planes like the supersonic MIG-19, the YAK 25, the long-range TU-16 medium bomber, helicopters and transports of the USSR are included in startling detail.

Both books follow the formats of previous editions—a number of clear photographs, three view silhouettes and brief descriptions of features, specifications and performance.

• Precise, complete.

of the Balkans, Dr. Lindsay Rogers, then a British army major, undertook a frighteningly risky and difficult mission; to set up medical centers for treating the sick and wounded Partisans in the wild mountains and countryside of Yugoslavia.

Odds against Dr. Lindsay's success were staggering. The Nazis hunted the doctors with fanatical fury and executed all they could lay hands upon. And the Yugoslavs were poorly trained and badly equipped.

What was worse, Rogers was snared at every turn by the tangles of Communist red tape. It was an impossible job . . . but this dedicated New Zealander did it.

Credit must be given to the magnificent help rendered by two Scotsmen, Ian and Bill. This latter pair, however, complicated matters no end by falling in love with Yugoslav girls. Perhaps more credit should be given to the sustaining energy and courage of the Yugoslavs, the peasants whose love of liberty carried them to almost unthinkable heights of sacrifice.

It is not a pretty story Dr. Rogers tells. There are grim stories of rape, torture and a great deal of murder . . . war behind the lines is not very formal and never pretty. But there is an abundant evidence of that force that gives dignity to life . . . selfish courage in the teeth of ever-present danger.

MONTGOMERY A. FAIRFAX

This superior science fiction story doesn't use or need any death ray or fantastic gadget gimmick. It is a suspenseful tale of the immediate future, and the events could, conceivably, happen to us.

At the time of the action, a virus has destroyed all of the grass in China, and then India, and then the rest of the Far East. Emergency grain shipments were sent to Asia and starvation became so widespread the grain had to be guarded by armored divisions.

Finally, the virus is about to destroy all English grasses (including grains and animal food). England, where this story takes place, faces an immediate problem.

The main characters in the novel take drastic action, and the horrors they experience will leave you with a fast heartbeat.

• Like a sprint through a nightmare.

Singer Belafonte Proves Artist Can Make Money

IT IS rare when a performer makes it commercially and artistically at the same time. One who has is Harry Belafonte. Although his talents extend far beyond calypso songs, the calypso craze has helped to make him one of the biggest names in show business today.

Belafonte has a rich, distinctive voice and the intelligence to interpret deceptively profound lyrics of folk music as well as the comic sense that enables him to put over other kinds of folk songs.

RCA Victor released 17 Belafonte records (45 rpm) this month. Some of these were originally included in the three Belafonte LPs (RCA Victor LPM-1248, LPM 1150 and LPM 1022).

Among the best of the Belafonte 45s: Danny Boy and Take My Mother Home (47-6790), Water Boy and Noah (47-6789), The Fox and Man Piaba (47-6781), Mo Mary and Lord Randall (47-6781).

GOOD CORN: Joe (Fingers) Carr and Pee-wee Hunt team up on another new LP that should have fairly wide commercial appeal (Mr. Ragtime Meets Mr. Dixie, Capitol T-763). Dozen tunes include How's Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm, Last Night on the Back Porch, Charley My Boy and Barney Google.

BANJO enthusiasts should enjoy The Big Ben Banjo Band playing "Japanese Sandman" and "Peg O' My Heart" (Capitol 3036). Records were made in London. "Sandman" dates back to 1920. It was composed by Margaret Whiting's father Richard with E. Raymond Egan. "Peg" was written in 1913.

LOVE STORY, an album by the Dave Pell Octet (Atlantic 1249) is pleasant background music but hardly qualifies as jazz, as the album notes would have it. Despite some good trumpet solos by Don Fagerquist, this is very pallid stuff. A dozen well known standards are included. Sidemen include Andre Previn, Ray Sims and Tony Rizzi.

ROBERTA SHERWOOD, who proved that fame begins at 40, sings a collection of "Show Stoppers" (RCA Victor). After a long pull in show business, Roberta, who is 43 and the mother of three, had made it big. Included in this collection are You're Nobody 'Til Somebody Loves You, Under a Blanket of Blue, Autumn Leaves and After You've Gone.

RAY ANTHONY, now regular TV performer "Plays for Dancers in Love" (Capitol T-766). Lots of old standards here. Anthony's trumpet playing will remind you of Harry James now and then.

On the Scene Cattle Tales Minus Guitar

WHY THE CHISHOLM TRAIL FORKS, by Andy Adams. Edited by Wilson H. Hudson, illustrated by Malcolm Thurgood. University of Texas Press. 298 pages. $4.50.

The author of this set of fine tales about the great cattle drives from Texas, across the Indian Territory, to the railheads at Abilene and Dodge City, Kans., was himself a more interesting character than some of the punchers he immortalized in his stories.

Andy Adams was Hoosier by birth and a Texan by adoption. The same thing could be said about the outlaw Sam Bass. But that's about the only thing these two men had in common, other than that they were both cowpunchers on the Chisholm Trail.

Andy spent 10 years, beginning in 1880, on the cattle trails, first as a cowboy and later as a herd foreman. In 1894 he moved to Colorado Springs and began to swing a pen with as much skill as he had shown with a lariat or a six shooter. He wrote seven books about the cattle-men and the cowboys and the sod-busters he had known. He didn't romanticize them very much, considering the so-called Western story a bunch of "slush." But he did depict them as they really were, good and bad, honest and kind, or mean and crooked as a bull's hind leg.

Before Adams died in 1936 he had produced what is perhaps the finest collection of writings about the cattle drives in print. Even the windy old trail-drovers swore by him.

This new book is a collection of what editor Hudson considers Adams' best yarns.—J. M.V.

Careers in Public Accounting FOR COLLEGE GRADUATES

A limited number of permanent staff positions for accounting majors are available to returning veterans. Experience is not essential; therefore these positions should interest young men who joined the Armed Forces shortly after graduation from college.

We conduct broad but intensive staff training programs. Diversification of assignments and variation of duties are emphasized. Fifty-three fully-staffed U. S. offices minimize the problem of traveling. Our salary policy is liberal.

If you are interested in an established profession offering a stable and progressive future we welcome an opportunity to talk with you. Please send a comprehensive resume of your qualifications including geographical preference and date of availability to Mr. J. Earle Bradley, Director of Personnel.

IT HAS been said that there are a good many young "jazz" singers who sing like Chris Connor who sings like June Christy who sings like (who else?) Anita O'Day.

Like most generalizations, this is an oversimplification of the matter and cannot stand close inspection. However, the fact remains that Anita's approach to a song has influenced untold numbers of so-called jazz singers, either directly or indirectly.

But there are several basic differences between Anita and her imitators and emulators, and the most obvious one is what musicians call a beat. Anita has a beat, as few vocalists—species female—do.

A good example of how Anita sounds today is to be found on an LP called "Pick Yourself Up with Anita O'Day" (Verve 4043). As is readily apparent upon hearing this record, the Chicago singer is more highly stylized than she once was (she sounds more like herself, if that makes sense) and on occasion she sounds affected. But perfection is dull, as a wise man said, and Anita is still very much of a gas.

It might be pointed out, also, that Anita is not a "jazz" singer but a jazz singer. There's a big difference. "Jazz" singers are too much with us, late and soon and especially now, but you will find it hard to name a half dozen real jazz singers (species female).

A dozen tunes make up the new Verve LP. Be sure to hear Anita's unusual treatment of Sweet Georgia Brown as well as the happy "Pick Yourself Up" with combo featuring a guitarist who sounds very much like Barney Kessel.

Other songs: Don't Be That Way, Let's Face the Music and Dance, I Never Had a Chance, Stompin' at the Savoy, Stars Fell on Alabama, I Won't Dance, Man With a Horn, I Used To Be Color Blind, There's a Lull in My Life, and Let's Begin.

DON ELLIOTT is one of the most versatile musicians in jazz. He is not as skilled on as many instruments as Benny Carter, but he does very well on trumpet, mellophone and vibes, and also plays bongos and sings. His newest record, "At the Modern Jazz Room" (ABC-Paramount LP 142) was taped on location in a Chicago club and the Elliott quartet romps through seven standards and one original with enthusiasm and a sense of fun.

The cover shows Elliott with a mellophone but he does not play mellophone on this record. He does play trumpet with a mellophone mouthpiece, though, and this stunt gives the middle and lower registers of the trumpet a fuller but less brilliant tone.

There is one vocal, on "I Only Have Eyes For You," which finds Don tossing in an amusing imitation of Sarah Vaughan along the way.

This is essentially a happy, swinging, unpretentious kind of jazz that does not seek to "prove" anything. For cool, but decidedly not cold, trumpet playing, hear "It Might As Well Be Spring." For swinging vibes, hear "But Not For Me," the popular Gershwin melody which is taken up here.

The Barracuda—Tiger of the Sea

ALL HEAD and sharp, sturdy teeth—that's a barracuda. The starry-eyed "tiger of the sea" has been hooked, but he'll put up a good fight before the angler gets him up and out of his shallow water habitat. Light tackle did the trick, but there will be a long struggle before the angler finally hauls him in. Pictures were taken in the waters of the Bahamas. The barracuda is one of the toughest foes a fisherman has to meet.

FISHERMEN, if you want some fast and furious action, go after the barracuda. The 'cud is often called the tiger of the sea and not without reason.

The fish has a mouthful of snaffly, needle-sharp teeth, cold, calculating eyes and the curiosity of a cat. It is a patient stalker and a past master at effacement.

Sometimes it will allow a bait or artificial lure to graze its nose without the slightest flicker of a fin.

But when a 'cud decides to strike it does with flashing speed and an exploding boil of white foam. If hooked on heavy tackle, the fight is brief. But snag one on spinning gear or plug casting tackle and you'll have a long and vigorous struggle to haul it in.

To give a barracuda an even break the angler should hunt for it in shallow water, preferably over a white sand bottom. Such an ideal spot for the 'cud fisherman are the waters of the Bahamas.

There the fish often move into creeks or onto banks lightly covered with water. In such places they can be stalked on foot or from a cliff.

In the pictures here, made in the shallow waters of the Bahamas, an angler plays a 'cud on foot.

Red Cross Makes Annual Report

WASHINGTON.—The American Red Cross performed hundreds of thousands of services for the Armed Forces, veterans and their families at a cost of $35,780,563—31 percent of its entire budget in the year ending June 30, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Red Cross president, said last week.

Among the major items was the maintenance of a full-time staff of 2100 at domestic and overseas military installations, hospital and recreation centers; the cost of providing services to families by the 3700 Red Cross chapters; the operation of the Red Cross telecommunications system which, through the military communications network, circles the globe; and the assistance in the form of loans and grants to meet basic and emergency needs of service personnel and their families.

In a typical month last year, an average of 102,400 servicemen at military installations and hospitals were given assistance with personal and family problems; approximately 14,000 veterans or their surviving dependents received help in applying for government benefits; some 147,500 cases and requests from servicemen, veterans and their dependents were handled by Red Cross chapters throughout the country and about 41,900 volunteers worked in military and VA hospitals and military installations.

Novel Things for Modern Living

• Aluminum Cot weighing five and three-quarter pounds is described as the lightest cot designed. Standing eight inches high, it is six feet long and 25 inches wide. The entire unit can be rolled into a carrying case. (Morsan Tents, 10-27 50th Ave., Long Island City, N. Y.)

• Shirt Bagger uses a roll stock of polyethylene film. Transparent covers for shirts or sweaters can be tailored to size at the laundry or dry cleaner's. The machine is designed to package more than 3000 shirts in eight hours. It can also make re-usable film packages to widths up to 20 inches. (Mehl Mfg. Co., Sydney-Thomson Corp., 2057 Reading Rd., Cincinnati, Ohio).

• Bait Maker for the do-it-yourself fisherman is a kit that can be used to make dozens of soft, pliable and wiggly fishing lures. An aluminum mold is filled with liquid plastic, heated, hook added, and then quenched in water. Six different kits are available with choice of lures and colors. (Clinton Sales, Inc., 9627 Clinton Rd., Cleveland 9, Ohio).

• Retractable Hydrofoil made of epoxy resins lifts a 15½ foot outboard motorboat above the water at 15 miles per hour. The hydrofoils are reinforced with a glass-fiber cloth. The two main foils, now being made for one type craft, are attached to the hull on either side of the driver's seat. At 30 miles per hour, they can carry a total weight of 1360 pounds. (Dynamic Developments, Inc., Babylon, N. Y.)

• Car Tray-Table designed for a roadside snack folds up for easy storage under the car seat or in the trunk. Built on aluminum legs, the tray can also be used at the beach or at home. It is sturdy enough to hold a typewriter or adding machine. (BBC Engineering, 4040 Del Ray Ave., Venice, Calif.)

• Oven Thermometer is designed so that it can be hooked, hung or stood up on the oven rack. It features a horizontal scale against a black background so the mercury indicator is easy to read. (Taylor Instrument Companies, 95 Ames St., Rochester, N. Y.)

• Slide Copier permits amateur and professional photographers to copy, crop or correct their own 35 mm slides. Duplicates can be made in black and white and color or duplicates of negatives on spare negatives. A special reflex housing version permits the use of the device for most 35 mm cameras. (Royal Photo Distributors, 78 W. 47th St., New York 36, N. Y.)

• Events Recorder can be used to show the operator, when and for how long a machine was in use. Inkless, the recorder is a drum that rotates at speeds from four to 24 hours per turn as desired. A stylus records the information on a paper graph. (Gorrell & Gorrell, Haworth N. J.)

West opened the four of spades, and East held the first trick with the queen. East returned the ten of spades, and South won with the king.

Declarer next led a diamond to the king and returned a heart to finesse the queen. West won with the king of hearts and returned a spade, forcing out the ace.

When the hearts failed to break, South could make only two tricks in each suit. This gave him only eight tricks, one short of the contract.

South could have made the contract by playing low diamonds from both hands on the first round of that suit. He could win the spade return and lead his other diamond. Dummy would then be able to win five diamond tricks, and South would win two clubs, two spades, and one heart to make his contract.

SOUTH pointed out that he would have made his contract if the king of hearts had been in the East hand or if the hearts had broken 3-3. These two chances were just about as probable, when combined, as the chance that the diamonds would break 3-2.

This was true, but it was still proper to try for the diamonds. If it turned out that the diamonds broke badly, South could take the ace and king of diamonds and then try the heart finesse. He would make his contract if East held K-x of hearts. This chance would give him three heart tricks, together with two tricks in each of the remaining suits.

This extra chance was slight, but it was enough to tip the scales.

good way to have enemies is to be one. Our enemies are our friends who do not understand us.

The bad blood had been circulating between these two people for some time. Both were lawyers. One, however, was a girl lawyer.

SUDDENLY the man lawyer had an idea, he would send his enemy some hearts. Because hearts are symbols of emotions and stand for sentiment, I hope you get me.

And so he forwarded to the lady lawyer a pair of heart pictures like you see here with NBC television actress Jolene Brand.

On receipt of the heart pictures, the lady lawyer was knocked off her perch, so to speak.

INFO of interest if and when you are stationed in New Mexico:

• Taxes — A state sales tax of two percent is imposed. Property owners have a personal property tax and there is also an income tax for residents.

• Autos — Home state licenses and tags are honored. Same for dependents, unless they are employed in the state in which case they will need New Mexico tags and licenses. But tags and licenses must be from the same state. Fees for tags vary according to weight, year and model of car and licenses are $1. Car insurance is required ($5000-10,000-1000).

• Trailers — Trailers must be licensed the first year even if parked and used as residences. They must also be tagged if hauled. Fees are $15 for the first axle and $20 for two axles. Liability insurance is also required.

• Schools — Students are required to complete one semester in a New Mexico high school before graduation. No special fee concessions are made to servicemen or dependents in state colleges.

• Marriage — Marriage age in the state is 16 for women and 18 for men with parental consent (18 and 21 without). No blood tests or other physical examinations are required and there is no waiting period.

• Hunting and Fishing — Game laws in New Mexico allow state-based servicemen to hunt and fish the tracings just as the pattern specifies. Next tie the reins on the bridle and cowboy's hand and your picture is completed. Copper may be used rather than wood, if you prefer to work with copper.

He'll Just Keep On Spending...

By H. R. BAUKHAGE

PITY the lame duck President!

Congress showed no mercy to his Middle East Doctrine, nor to his demands on Israel. This week it also leapt upon his economic policy. Democrats and Republicans alike. And, according to the financial editor of the New York Herald Tribune, Donald Rogers, business has broken with him, too!

Congress held exhaustive hearings on the economic message and seized upon Mr. Eisenhower's suggestion that labor and industry voluntarily limit wages and prices, respectively. Indirectly at least, the lawmakers likewise charge him with passing the buck on inflation.

What the businessman is supposed to be angry about, is the threat of price controls, if prices get out of hand.

Labor doesn't seem to be worried enough to complain. The businessman says simply: if wage rates climb throughout industry, prices should rise in a normal reaction.

"THE BUSINESSMEN know," says Mr. Rogers, "that it would be political suicide to evoke controls on wages while it would not be so politically unpopular to invoke controls on prices. Thus, as practical men, they realize that they may be in for a tough time."

So much for the Wall Street view. Back here on the Potomac, the Congress, not anxious to discuss any kind of controls, much less actually handle such a hot potato, naturally seize upon inflationary dangers in the Administration budget. The Government should spend less, they say.

Of course they don't say spend less on what, or at least don't agree on specific items. We have heard some cavalier remarks about "cutting two billions or so" from somewhere, here or there.

Some have even had the temerity to question, say, such an item as "military construction." Why build a new Air Academy, right now? (if you have mostly Army men and women in your constituency); or if your Navy constituents are small or on sea-duty at election time, how about forgetting this multi-million dollar athletic field at Annapolis?

SPENDING is always quite a problem, whether you are a housewife, house owner, a Government agency or a corporation. Skipping over the first three suggested spenders, take a corporation. In our most prosperous year in history, 1956, the poor corporations had to spend so much that their profits were lower than they were in the year before. Something like two-fifths of all net earnings were set aside to build new plants and buy new machines.

Well, he'll keep on spending whether he has or not. There seems nothing to do, whether we like it or not, but to pass the buck right back to Ike.

Insurance Payments On Upgrade

NEW YORK—Every 24 hours during 1956, on the average, life insurance companies paid to their policyholders and beneficiaries in this country $16,100,000, according to the Institute of Life Insurance.

The year's aggregate benefit payments were $5,878,200,000, up $495,500,000 from the year before and more than twice the payments of ten years ago.

"Living" benefits, going to policyholders themselves, totaled $3,459,200,000 or 59 percent of the total, the Institute said.

Millions of families were on the receiving end of the policy payments, death benefit claims alone numbering 1,739,000 and the "living" payments running to even larger proportions.

"Life insurance policies are paying out to American families today $3,000,000,000 more than just ten years ago," Holgar J. Johnson, Institute president, said. "This is a reflection of the tremendous increase in family financial protection which our families have set up as a result of their own initiative and self-reliance."

Sidelights on Business

S. WALDO COLEMAN, president of Commonwealth Investment Company, announced this week that its Board of Directors has declared the Company's 97th consecutive quarterly distribution to shareholders. This distribution, amounting to 8c a share from investment income and 3c a share from capital gains, is payable March 25, 1947 to stock of record March 7.

This distribution brings the total paid per share during the past twelve months to 31c from investment income and 31c from capital gains. This compares with 30c and 29c from the same sources paid in the previous year.

JOHN W. THOMPSON has been appointed General Sales Manager for the Caldwell-Wright Division, Curtiss-Wright Corporation at Caldwell, N. J. and for the newly established West Coast Plant of the Division located in North Hollywood, it was announced this week by Frank Le Man, General Manager of Caldwell-Wright.

Thompson joined Caldwell-Wright in 1955 and served as Sales Manager before assuming his present duties. Before joining the Division, he was a consultant for the firm of Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Hall and MacDonald of New York City. Prior to that, he served as Works Manager for the Pacific Air Motive Corporation in Linden, New Jersey.

APPOINTMENT of William P. Ferree as Los Angeles district publicity manager for United Air Lines is announced by W. M. O'Hern, director of publicity.

Ferree joined United in 1953 as Los Angeles district publicity representative. He is a former Los Angeles newspaperman. In his new position, Ferree succeeds O'Hern, who headquarters at the company's Chicago executive offices.

A native of Los Angeles, Ferree is a World War II veteran and attended the University of Southern California, majoring in journalism.

APPOINTMENT of A. W. Roat as applications engineer, controls sales section, of the Fulton Sylphon Division of Robertshaw-Fulton Controls Company, was announced this week by George L. Ogden, Jr., general sales manager.

Roat formerly served on the sales staff of the Company's Fielden Instrument Division. Prior to that he was in instrumentation sales with another controls manufacturer.

THE National Labor Relations Board has cleared Piasecki Aircraft Corporation of unfair labor practice charges brought by the Bellanca union in New Castle, Delaware.

Bennet F. Schauffer, Regional Director of the NLRB, has notified local 840, AFL-CIO, that he is refusing to issue a complaint against Piasecki Aircraft Corporation.

Schauffer reported that the case in which the union charged violation of Section VIII of the NLRB act has been carefully investigated and considered. The investigation, he said, did not develop sufficient evidence of violation to warrant further proceedings. The union has 10 days in which to appeal the case to Washington, D. C. for review.

Frank Piasecki, internationally known aircraft pioneer and founder of the firm said, "Removal of these charges will enable us to go ahead full scale with plans to develop the Delaware division of Piasecki Aircraft Corporation."

Lt. Alters Cans Into Sunbursts

SEATTLE ARMY TERMINAL, Wash. — An artist, someone once said, sees beauty in all things.

That being the case, 1st Lt. Thomas A. Shallbetter, assistant logistics officer here probably just couldn't stand seeing those shiny tin cans thrown out at the Fort Lawton mess halls.

Since he is not merely an artist but an ingenious one, Lt. Shallbetter has confiscated (he would undoubtedly say "liberated") a few dozen cans of varying sizes which would be doomed to the dump. What he does with them is a revelation.

EQUIPPED ONLY with a pair of tin snips and a pair of needle nose pliers, Lt. Shallbetter snips, folds and curls the cans into six-pointed stars, and bolts together four or five layers, plus several lacerated lids, into a three-dimensional hobbie that resembles a sunburst. In the center of the completed ornament he affixes a colorful piece of costume jewelry.

Some speculation has arisen among fellow officers at the SAT battalion as to the method used by the lieutenant to procure the cans, but he emphatically denies "fascinating" a neighboring goat for possession. He also views dimly the rumor that he has connections with the city's garbage disposal. "They come straight from the officers' mess," he says.

HE CALLS his hobby "a stylized version of the Mexican peasants tin art."

Already he has plans for the next three or four ornaments, which would be made for the officers' club at Fort Lawton to complete the decor in the new "stein room."

Lt. Shallbetter's artistic talent also finds outlets in the fields of music and portrait painting, with a bit of wood sculpturing thrown in. But for sheer creativeness, the salvaged cans provide the most fascinating hobby of all.

CANNED ART is Lt. Shallbetter's specialty. Here he proudly displays four examples of "sunbursts" which were fashioned from assorted tin cans.

Bullfighting . . . GI Style

BAYONET-CHARGING Pvt. Robert Stewart, right, plays the bull to "foreador" Pvt. Gerald Valenta, also of Co. D, 22d Inf. Regt. in this "exhibition" of bullfighting-made-easy. No bull.

Ft. Lewis Pvt. Is Veteran Of Mexico City Bull Rings

FORT LEWIS, Wash. — In 1953 a 20-year-old American traveled into Mexico "just to visit some friends and see the country." He returned three years later as one of the most promising young bullfighters in Mexico City.

In those three years Pvt. Robert Stewart, Co. D, 22d Inf. Regt., had between 45 and 55 novilleros, or novice, bullfights and in his last appearance fought in a Gran Corrida at Mexico City's Plaza de Toros before 80,000 people.

Stewart became interested in bullfighting after watching fights around Mexico City, where he became acquainted with many bullfighters. After showing an interest in the sport, he was given the opportunity to actually enter the ring at one of Mexico's many training ranches.

"THE RESULTS were something less than sensational," Stewart said. "Of the 20 minutes I was in the ring, 19 if them were probably spent on the ground."

Immediately after this Stewart began training at the Guerillmo Camacho Ranch near Mexico City. The most arduous part of his training was learning to use the cape.

"There are a total of 123 holds and maneuvers that can be executed with the cape, and bullfighters spend their entire careers perfecting these movements," Stewart said.

He also learned the technique of jumping over a wall to escape the bull (a roll method similar to high jumping is used) and also was trained on using the sword and cape together.

DURING THIS training, Stewart, who fought under the name of Roberto do los Gitnos (Robert of the Gypsies), began his novice fights in Juarez, Matzalan, and Guadalajara.

"I was called 'Robert of the Gypsies' because I could never be found when somebody wanted me," Stewart confessed.

"The pay is low for these fights, but it is the only way for a new bullfighter to enter the sport and find out whether or not he has what it takes. The highest purse for any novice fight is $300 but compared to the expenses, this is small."

THE UNIFORM of the bullfighter is his most expensive item and most gladiators have many of them. The first suit that Stewart bought was second hand and cost $45. His newest suit was made of satin and set him back $280. These expensive costumes are also heavy. The dress coat, called the "suit of lace" because of its design, weighs about 15 pounds and the capes as much as 35 pounds.

Stewart, currently enrolled in the field wireman's school, plans to return to Mexico and bullfighting upon his release from service in 1958.

Carson Officer Gets Six ASNs in 10 Years

FORT CARSON, Colo.—First Lt. Wilbur A. Middleton, 39th Inf. Regt. aviation officer, has an unusual 10-year service record.

During that time he had six different serial numbers; took basic training with two branches, and held the rank of warrant officer while undergoing basic training . . . six years after he was inducted!

He got ASN No. 1 as an EM when he joined the Army Air Corps in 1946. When the Air Force was established in 1948, Middleton sported his second serial number. He was separated from the service in 1949, then enlisted in the Army. That gave him number three.

Seven months later, Middleton reupped for six years. This changed his enlisted serial number to RA, giving him his original ASN with an RA prefix.

While serving in Korea in 1951 he was appointed as a warrant officer and gained serial number four. Later that year he applied for OCS, but his application was held up until he completed basic training. So, WO Middleton spent 16 weeks at Fort Ord fulfilling this requirement.

He graduated from Fort Benning OCS in December, 1952, and sported ASN No. five. One year later he was commissioned in the RA.

And that's how he collected six serial numbers!

I'm Still Waiting for that Extra Eighth...

Maybe you recognize him.

He's the man who buys a stock at 32 say, and watches it climb all the way to 40.

Then he decides to sell, take his profit and reinvest in another $40 stock that seems to offer much better opportunities for continued growth.

So far, so good. But then he starts to think:

"After all, if the stock went all the way to $40, why don't I wait for it to hit 40 1/8, 40 1/4, even 40 1/2?"

Now that's tempting, true. But over the years, we've watched any number of investors wait for that "extra eighth" . . . seen too many of them finally have to settle for $38, $36, $35, instead.

That's why we feel there's not much point in waiting, once you think the facts indicate that you should sell—or buy.

Where can you get the facts?

Our Research Department will be happy to tell you all that it can about any stock of interest to you . . .

Or carefully analyze your entire portfolio . . .

Or outline a complete investment program for your funds and objectives.

There's no charge, no obligation, either. Simply address your letter to me.

Foreign Students Give Impressions of U.S. in Contest

Photography Credited With Aid To Eisenhower's 'People' Plan

By JACOB DESCHIN

PHOTOGRAPHY has scored a beat on a national scale in providing the means for the first implementation of President Eisenhower's plea of last September for ideas to work his People-to-People Program. The event was the Foreign Students' Photo Contest sponsored by the Photographic Society of America, with the cooperation of Life Magazine.

The theme was "My Impressions of the U. S. A." and entries were limited to foreign nationals enrolled in recognized colleges and universities in the United States.

Nineteen received prizes. The top award of a round trip flight from the winner's American college residence to any city in this country served by Trans World Airlines, plus $100 cash, went to Shin Koyama of Tokyo, Japan (a student at Augsburg College in Minneapolis), for a picture of a group of men standing about idly.

Deschin

The winning prints along with others make up an 80-print selection from the entries now hanging in the reception center of Time & Life, 9 Rockefeller Plaza, New York City. The opening of the show was marked by a reception attended by foreign dignitaries. The pictures on display were by foreign students representing 26 countries and attending 43 educational institutions in the United States.

Norris Harkness, chairman of the photographic committee that conducted the contest for the P. S. A., announced at the opening that the idea would be repeated next year, but with a new theme, "Portrait of America."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS: Edward J. Heckinger, Wisconsin National Guard, writes for information about obtaining photographs of outstanding military and civilian personnel for a "sort of Spot of Honor" in a new armory. "Although photographs are seen many times in magazines, newspapers, etc., we have not been able to locate any place where they can be purchased. At present this unit is trying to obtain photos of Col. Lindbergh, General MacArthur, President Roosevelt and President Eisenhower. Can you furnish any information as to where we might attempt to purchase the above?"

The best place is the picture agency, and the most likely sources for your requirement are: Harris & Ewing, 570 Fifth Avenue; Ewing Galloway, 420 Lexington Avenue, and Underwood & Underwood, 3 West 46th Street, all of New York City.

Fred B. Herman (USN) has a 35mm miniature camera and is using Ektachrome color film exclusively, but is having some "trouble on hazy or cloudy days." He wants some literature to help him on his way.

There are two 35-cent Kodak booklets that should do the trick. One is "Kodak Ektachrome Film," the other is "Better 35mm Snapshots," though the latter is concerned only with black-and-white. It has lots of data that can be used in color as well.

Robert E. Meyer (USAF): "I have a question concerning home developing of Ektachrome, 35mm film with the E-2 process. I know that the pint size E-2 kit will develop 620 picture rolls. The question is how long can those chemicals be stored after they are mixed? Also, how should they be stored?"

The answer is on page 9 of the booklet, "Kodak Ektachrome Roll Films, Process E-2," a copy of which I am sure you can get free from Sales Service Division, Eastman Kodak Company, 343 State Street, Rochester 4, N. Y. Here is the recommendation:

"For the very best results, the processing solutions should be mixed just before use, although unused solutions can be kept for two weeks in full, tightly stoppered bottles. Partially used solutions should not be stored for more than one week."

"JUST WHERE is the catch light to be found in a good, sound, technically correct portrait?" asks James L. Shaffer (USN), who cites an authority who is quite convinced that it should be "small, round, and just under the upper lid."

"Am I right in thinking that if perhaps you would take the first ten portraits now within reach you would find this rule or suggestion most out of place?" continues Mr. Shaffer.

Personally, I don't like rules of any kind; but in any event, all rules should be interpreted by the photographer to suit his own purposes. What the authority had in mind, I believe, was that the placement of the catchlight "just under the upper lid" indicated the position of the main light, that is, at an angle of about 45 degrees to the base of the subject. This is normal procedure, though it can and has been changed to suit the photographer in special circumstances, or for special effects.

The reference to a "small, round" light (though on occasion

FIRST prize winner in the foreign students' contest is this shot, "Time Out," by Shin Koyama of Japan. He is attending Augsburg College, Minneapolis, Minn.

CAMERA

the catchlight might be a squared-off shape, such as when the light source is a window, a bank of studio light, etc.) has perhaps this significance: If the catchlight were too large (its chief purpose is to get some life into the eyes) the eye itself might lack character and be subordinated to the light source, which of course is the cause of the reflection on the eyeball that we know as the catchlight.

A NEW MODEL of the Exakta has been announced by the Exakta Camera Co., 705 Bronx River Road, Bronxville 8, N. Y., the importers. Probably the best known in its field, the camera is notable for several exclusive features, to which new ones have been added in the latest edition, the 1957 Automatic Exakta IIa.

Among these is the noiseless slow-speed knob (for up to 12 seconds' shutter timing automatically) and delayed-action mechanism. The flash synchronization has been improved to provide contacts (on the front of the camera) for all types of modern flash, M and F for flash bulbs and X for electronic flash.

The new Exakta now has 27 shutter speeds, plus time and bulb; a rotary dial to indicate the kind of film in the camera; a rotodial which revolves as the film is being transported; a self-adjusting film pressure plate to assure that the film is lying flat against the camera film window; a larger and wider take-up spool (with spring-loaded shaft) with one end tipped in blue for quick identification; and a new camera back.

The Automatic Exakta IIa, equipped with the Penta Prism eye-level viewfinder and split-image rangefinder, varies in price from $299.50 to $399, depending on the lens selected.

PHOTOGRAPHERS WHO have missed the former convenience of sending their rolls of Kodachrome directly to Eastman Kodak Company and having the finished slides returned to their homes, are now offered this service by the Technicolor company through its Paveille Color Division in New York City.

A STUDENT at Bobson Institute, Mass., Pedro Julio Meyer of Mexico City, Mexico, earned eighth place with this shot of a classmate at work in a filling station. The contest, open only to foreign students, offered the photographers a chance to show their impressions of the U.S.

Technicolor has a red Direct Mail Processing Bag for 35mm Kodachrome film, which you may buy from dealers at the same time you get your color film. After exposing the roll, slip the roll back into the can and the latter into the bag, address the label and send it on to Technicolor as indicated. The finished job will be mailed back to you direct by first class or air mail.

Gordon Reopens First Showplace EM Club Under 3d Army Program

FORT GORDON, Ga.—Third U.S. Army Special Services architects and decorators believe they have effected the most distinct transformation ever made in the standard "SC-3" building, long in use by clubs throughout the Army.

It's Fort Gordon's Service Club No. 1, formally opened Feb. 26, by Maj. Gen. P. E. Gallagher, post commander, after a $50,000 renovation.

The first major unit to be completed in a long-term Third Army program for beautifying and modernizing dayrooms, service clubs and theaters, the club was made a prototype for the application of the newest ideas in furnishing, as well as in outside and inside design.

Next to be finished, a Third Army spokesman indicated, probably will be similar clubs at Fort Rucker, Ala., and Fort Stewart, Ga., both of which attained the status of permanent Army forts last spring at the same time as Gordon.

THE PROGRAM, in progress since last summer, has resulted thus far in more than 100 company dayrooms being torn apart and put together again in line with contemporary design ideals, Special Services reported.

The idea behind the program is to adapt to Army use (and budgets) the utmost resources of today's designers and decorators in affording pleasant surroundings for men to congregate in.

"The fact that they're for men is paramount in the decor," said one of the authors of the scheme, now a soldier but an architect before that. "Permanence, solidity, functionalism."

The dayroom phase is well under way, and the service-club phase is being auspiciously launched with the Gordon, Rucker and Stewart operations. "We haven't quite got into the theater business yet," he added, "but that's about due."

ENLISTED MEN have been assigned to carry out the program, working on a temporary-duty basis at the various posts. The three instigators have now left the service. They were PFC Orman Kimbrough, formerly and now a decorator at the Lord and Taylor store in New York; PFC Robert Knapp, an architect associated with the firm of Pereira and Luckman and now assigned to its Boston Back Bay project, and SP3 Frank Gehry, a classmate of Knapp now returned to post-graduate study at Harvard.

Two more architects now in service, Pvs. Arthur Johnson and Carl Hakewessell, are carrying on the work. "We could use more," Johnson said, "but we don't get them every day. So far, on the whole, we think we've made a fortunate beginning."

Those who joined a "preview inspection" group heartily agreed.

AN OUTSTANDING FEATURE in the club's decor is a series of four two-story screens of oak-framed stained glass panels in the main lounge—which, as before serves as a ballroom on party occasions.

"It's a reflection of a growing contemporary trend," said Johnson, "towards the use of stained glass for other than ecclesiastical purposes."

The multicolored screens form a background for four groupings of Widdicomb and Dunbar furniture which act as space-dividers without impeding the periodic use of the room for dancing. Eames "stacking shell-chairs" are provided for occasional use.

OTHER NOTABLE features are hand-rubbed oak paneling on the upright supports around the dance floor; exploitation of the two-story chimney and its two fireplaces as centers of visual attraction; plywood paneling arranged to act as receivers for silver-threaded draperies in the stage area; a compatible-color TV installation in a separate room, with 35 Herman Miller swivel-armchairs; a writing room where a "forest" of pillars has been made into semi-cubicles for privacy; a pool-and-pingpong room finished in vertically striated fur-plywood, equipped with "captain chairs" for spectators, and four music rooms.

Dix Estimates Dental Care Costs $2-Million

FORT DIX, N. J.—Nearly $2-million in dental care was performed by the busy corps of Fort Dix dentists during the past 12 months, the post dental service noted on the 46th anniversary of Army dentistry March 3.

Col. Edmund H. Van Dervort, post dental surgeon, described dental "care" as being "anything from a routine examination to equipping a soldier with a complete set of dentures." He said that the $1,862,015 in dentistry performed here over the year period was based on the equivalent of local civilian dental fees.

"It is shocking how many young civilians fail to exercise proper care of their teeth," he said. "Every week we see dozens of young recruits, in the prime of life, who are risking their health because they are strangers to tooth paste and dentists."

"Many of them, whether they know it or not, may be eating steak 10 years from now with their own teeth because they entered the Army in sufficient time to save their molars from the spoils of neglect. Many of these dental delinquents were too lazy or too unconcerned to visit their family dentist regularly before coming into the Army."

WITHIN 72 HOURS after he arrives at Dix, a new recruit receives a dental examination. Periodically, as he continues his Army service, he undergoes further check-up and treatment to stay the ravages of oral disease.

In his "birthday statement," Col. Van Dervort also noted that the new 18-chair dental clinic now being built on post is expected to be completed next month. "With this to supplement our other dental facilities, we'll be well-equipped at Dix to handle virtually every kind of dental problem which mankind is heir to," the colonel said.

Post-Basic Travel Pay Is Urged

WASHINGTON — All enlisted men would get travel pay for their first leave after basic training under a bill introduced by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D., N. Y.).

The bill was referred to the Armed Services committee, which sent it to the Department of Defense for a report. The committee will take no action on the bill, HR 4368, until Defense's position is known.

Under the bill, the youths would get transportation costs to their homes and back to their next duty stations. It would apply only to first leave. A man would be eligible after 60 days on active duty.

Last Special Staff Course Ends

FORT MONMOUTH, N. J.—The last Army area special associate command and general staff school to be held in the country ended this week at Fort Monmouth. Originally begun in 1948, the two-week course has now had its functions taken over by Army Reserve schools.

The course is so planned that the Reserve officer, usually holding ranks of major and higher, over a period of three years will complete the equivalent course of instruction offered in the 13-week Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

Because this is the last such course conducted, Reserve and National Guard officers came from every Army area in the country, except the Fourth. The students ranged from home states of California, to Massachusetts, to Mississippi. Ten arms and services were represented.

Among the 38 reserve officers attending was Maj. Gen. Reginald Maurer, commanding general of the Massachusetts National Guard.

WITH THE PURPOSE of preparing qualified officers for duty as principal staff officers of combat divisions, the actual class work consisted of a series of map exercises emphasizing the employment of airborne, armored, and infantry divisions. During the exercises, the Reserve officers acted as division staff officers and made decisions and recommendations to the division commander.

Commandant of the school was Col. Harry E. Besley, a reservist of 26 years and in civilian life a professor of agricultural engineering at Rutgers University.

Col. Emanuel M. Kline was assistant commandant of the school.

Transportation Units Set To Train 10,000 Reserves

FORT EUSTIS, Va. — A pre-camp conference last week will pave the way for the training of nearly 10,000 reservists and cadets during Army reserve annual unit training with the Transportation Training Command for 1957.

More than 30 representatives of reserve units from across the country were on hand for the meeting. The USAR representatives participated in discussions on personnel, administration, logistics and other problems that may arise during their units' encampment here this summer.

Of the reservists expected, 1900 will train at Fort Story, the remainder will receive their active unit training here.

Five of the six Army areas will be represented by the 168 Reserve Transportation Corps units expected for this summer's encampment. In addition 600 cadets from the United States Military Academy will receive a four-day orientation on the Transportation Corps during a visit here, and 450 ROTC cadets will undergo six weeks training during June and July.

Summer training for Reserve units will emphasize practical instruction no higher than basic unit training. Individuals will be given an opportunity to qualify in their MOS through MOS schools, and Reserve units will be able to participate in on-the-job training with like units of the TTC.

The ROTC cadets, from colleges and universities throughout the Second Army area, will receive basic Army indoctrination during their six-week stay with the TTC. They will receive training in leadership, drill, exercise of command, marksmanship, and other military skills. In addition they

59 Soldiers Earn College Degrees In Florida University's 'Bootstrap'

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—Fifty nine soldiers have earned college degrees at Florida State University, under the do-it-yourself "Operation Bootstrap" plan. The college predicted that 100 men a year soon will be graduating under the program.

Reporting to president Doak S. Campbell on seven years of "Operation Bootstrap," in which FSU courses are made available to men at several military bases, Dean Charles S. Davis, of the college of arts and sciences said 59 Bootstrapers now have obtained their degree after six months of FSU residence work.

"The grade point average of this group was 3.4 as compared with 2.9 for all seniors, including Bootstrap students," Dr. Davis said. A grade point average of 2 is C, 3 is B and 4 A, or a perfect grade.

The Bootstrap program, pioneered by FSU in 1950, provides for training on the base by FSU teachers. All Bootstrap students, however, must spend six months in residence to complete requirements for a Bachelor's degree. Dean Davis' report continued:

"TEN Bootstrap students received their degrees in January, and a total of 35 additional students have applied for admission in the current spring semester. They will complete their work this summer and receive their degrees at the August commencement. This will give us a total of 45 graduates in the academic year 1956-57. It is contemplated that this number will continue to rise in the next several years to perhaps 100 Bootstrap graduates a year.

Approximately 2760 men in the armed services are taking FSU

Bootstrap courses during the spring semester in bases strung all the way from South Georgia and West Florida to the Canal Zone, Cuba and Puerto Rico.

Dr. Robert O. Lawton, assistant director of Operation Bootstrap at FSU, said new Bootstrap programs have just been started for the spring semester in Cuba and Canal Zone.

At the naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, 240 students will study under the direction of FSU Prof. Thomas R. Lewis, and at the Army, Navy and Air Force installations in the Canal Zone another 450 will study this spring under the direction of Asst. Prof. Calvin J. Billman.

While Fire Raged, Friends Appeared

By SFC IRA E. SIMPSON

FORT MONROE, Va.—“We’ve learned something we’ll never forget. The world is full of people willing and eager to lend you a helping hand when you really need it.”

These were the words of MSgt. and Mrs. Johnnie P. Johnson who, with their eight children, lost their Fort Monroe home and all their possessions in a fire the night of Feb. 3.

“While our home was still burning,” Sgt. Johnson said, “people from throughout the Virginia Peninsula began coming to see us, bringing gifts of money, food, clothing and all kinds of household furnishings. And,” he added wonderingly, “here it is the end of the month and we’re still getting calls and visits from kind civilians and military people.”

The fire which cost the Johnsons their home started from undetermined origin at about 5:15 in the evening. The sergeant and six of the children were in the living room watching a kiddie show on television, while Mrs. Johnson and an older child were in the kitchen preparing dinner.

Their oldest child, 16-year-old Don, was not at home.

“WHEN THE FIRE started, we all got out of the building in a hurry with the exception of one of the younger children,” Mrs. Johnson related. “My husband ran back into the house for her, and since she was near the television, Johnnie scooped her up, grabbed the TV set and ran outside again.”

“And so,” Sgt. Johnson smiled ruefully, “that was the only thing we were able to save. But we’re not complaining,” he added quickly. “We all got out of the burning building safely, and that was the main thing.”

Word of the Army family’s misfortune spread almost as quickly as had the fire, which consumed their home in minutes.

WHILE THE HOUSE, a temporary wooden building, was still burning, relatives and friends volunteered food and lodgings for the night for the entire family. Two children were taken into the home of MSgt. and Mrs. J. M. Hill of Fort Monroe. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Hamrick of Buckroe Beach, grandparents of the children, took two youngsters in for the night.

Sgt. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson, with their remaining three children, went to the home of Johnson’s brother, MSgt. Leroy W. Johnson, who is assigned to Fort Monroe as first sergeant of Hq. Co., Continental Army Command.

On the evening that the fire occurred, Capt. Benjamin H. Miller, commanding officer of Johnson’s unit, Monroe’s garrison, together with enlisted men of that organization began collecting linens, canned goods and other food. Then they worked most of the night cleaning and setting up unoccupied quarters behind the post theater for the Johnson family.

“The day following the fire, we moved into our new quarters,” Mrs. Johnson said, “and immediately the gifts began to flow. There was no organized drive in our name; people just began coming of their own accord.”

In the hustle and bustle of caring for seven children and of setting up their new home, Mrs. Johnson was unable to keep a list of “all the wonderful people who were so good to us,” she said, but she recalled numerous names of donors and gifts they had brought. Among these were included the following:

A $100 cash gift from the Fort

Monroe Red Cross Chapter and over $1000 from officers, civilians and enlisted personnel from post and Continental Army Command units and sections.

“In regards to cash gifts,” the Johnsons said, “we’d also like to mention the Alpha Sorority made up of Fort Monroe’s teen-age Army daughters. They had $112 in their treasury, and they gave us all of it except $12.”

Additional donors whom Sgt. and Mrs. Johnson praised warmly were members of the Bachelor Officers Quarters, Fort Monroe, who gave the family four beds, seven chairs and two tables; MSgt. and Mrs. J. M. Hill, Fort Monroe, who donated a bedroom suite, SFC and Mrs. Lloyd Meekins, Fort Monroe, a living room suite, Maj. and Mrs. John H. Cochran Jr., Fort Monroe, a sofa bed; Mrs. H. W. Chilcote of Hampton, a set of silverware; and the Fort Monroe Officers’ Wives Club, numerous dishes and cooking utensils.

Also, the Salvation Army, Phoebe, two dressers; the Army and Navy Masonic Lodge, Fort Monroe, a washing machine; the Fort Monroe Thrift Shop, clothing for the seven children; the NCO Wives Auxiliary Club and the 56th AAA Missile Bn., cash gifts; and SFC and Mrs. L. W. Phillips, Fort Monroe, a baby bed.

“Council Members of Job’s Daughters No. 13 of Hampton

Sondra Keeps Her Promise

Army Wife Will Play Her Koto In Tokyo Early This Spring

CAMP WHITTINGTON, Japan. —Sondra Kotler Lowell, wife of the 8th Cavalry Regimental surgeon, Captain Edward H. Lowell, believes in making romantic ideas come true.

While being processed at the New York Port of Embarkation, before sailing to Japan, she saw the Japanese film "Jigoku-Mon," and fascinated with the eerie mood music played by the koto, or zither, she promised herself that she'd master it as soon as she joined her husband overseas.

To Mrs. Lowell, a concert musician and dancer since the age of six years, this was no idle promise.

She joined her husband, now stationed at Camp Whittington, and began inquiring about the instrument. Kyoto, she was told had the best. During one of her short trips to Kyoto, she spied one in an old curio shop, and much to her husband's amusement, purchased it.

It needed repair, but she knew

Mr. Haruo Hoshiyama, a Kumagaya school teacher, who is an accomplished player. He helped her with the maintenance and repair and gave her elementary lessons as well.

After her part-time teaching duty hours at the Kumagaya Girls' High School, she began to practice, and because her progress was so unusual, Mr. Hoshiyama advised her to study with Mrs. Ayano Ichimura, one of Tokyo's outstanding koto radio and TV stars.

Mrs. Ichimura, amazed by her pupil's progress, considers her ready for a Kumagaya City recital and a concert in Tokyo early this spring.

The concert stage is nothing new to Sondra Kotler Lowell. Beginning her musical career as a pianist at the age of six, she studied at New York's famed Juilliard School of Music and has won the National Federation of Music Club's contests two years in succession. She auditioned for radio and TV, and was heard once over the NBC network as a pianist. TV saw her in several dance recitals.

MRS. EDWARD LOWELL, left, wife of the 8th Cavalry Regimental surgeon at Camp Whittington, Japan, practices on the koto. She is accompanied by Mr. Ichimura on the Japanese flute, and Mrs. Ayano Ichimura on the samisen. Both are well known Japanese radio and TV stars. Mrs. Lowell is preparing to give a koto recital in Kumagaya City.

Her interpretive dancing led to her joining the Radio City Music Hall Rockettes.

Believing that her career would benefit by more advanced schooling, she enrolled in the Carnegie Institute of Fine Arts in Pittsburgh, where she majored in dramatic arts. During the Pittsburgh civic light opera season, she accepted various roles as a dramatic dancer.

Mrs. Lowell confesses that Kabuki dances excite her, and plans soon to study this ancient but still modern dance form.

The universality of the arts may be a glib phrase to some, but to Mrs. Lowell it means an unparalleled opportunity to learn.

Glamour Clinic Sparks Wives At Fort Meade

FORT MEADE, Md. — Officers' wives at Meade are getting in shape. Stretching and bending under the direction of Mrs. Lipscomb, wife of Col. A. A. Lipscomb, they are getting ready for summer-time playclothes and bathing suits.

One of the programs planned by the Officers' Wives Club, the Glamour Clinic, as the group is called, has already proven its worth. Diets recommended by Mrs. Lipscomb have taken off 10 pounds in 10 days. Consultations with hair stylists and fashion commentators have given new spark to the appearance of those taking the course. In spite of a few sore muscles here and there, every one feels better for it.

An associate of Mrs. Gladstone Williams of Washington, Mrs. Lipscomb has been a high fashion model for several years with the Elizabeth Arden Salon, and a fashion moderator on TV and at privately sponsored showings.

Classes are held in the Officers' Wives workshop on post. The current group includes Mrs. H. H. Towler, Mrs. Farmer Edwards, Mrs. J. R. Koenig, Mrs. F. E. Wilson, Mrs. Paul Hayne Jr., Mrs. A. A. Hill, Mrs. A. A. Rich, and Mrs. T. A. Dorrrough Jr.

ARMY TIMES 41

DATE LINE:

Washington

By Carol Arndt

TWO Army brats stole the cat show at Fort Myer, Va., last Sunday. The Cat Fanciers of Washington, Inc., selected the gym at Fort Myer for this championship show, which drew some 300 entries. Felines, representing service families, were entered in various classes.

Karen, 9, and Chris, 8, whose father is Maj. G. N. Hultzen, commanding officer of the 588th Engineer Bn. at Fort Belvoir, Va., showed Chotto and Chop-O, a couple of well-mannered Siamese who have taken prizes in the past.

Karen, wearing a large apron appliqued with big black cats, and Chris, sipping a Pepsi, handled their cats with poise. They entertained visitors to the cages with some amusing stories about their pets, and unlike other owners, these two permitted cat lovers to pat their regal charges.

Maj. Gen. (Chief Signal Officer) and Mrs. James D. O'Connell are off on a two-week vacation. They plan to motor through Florida and spend some time in Fort Lauderdale. But before they left they hosted a party honoring the Chief of the Greek Signal Corps, Maj. Gen. Michel Mantzos, at the Officers' Club at Fort McNair.

All the general officers and their wives of the Corps turned out to greet the visitors from Greece. They included the commandant of the Greek Signal Training Center, Maj. Gen. John Manousis, and the Greek military attache, Maj. Gen. Demetrios Gerogiannopoulos.

After a round of official calls here in Washington, the visitors went off on an 18-day tour of inspection beginning at Lexington Signal Depot, Ky. From there they'll go to Fort Knox, Fort Monmouth and Fort Gordon, returning to New York en route home the first week in April.

Once the calendar faces the fact that spring is about to appear—regardless of what the weatherman says—you can't keep a good woman from seeing a fashion show if there's one within driving distance.

Hang any label on it—"The New You," "New Spring You," "A Prettier You," "The Capital Look" or just plain "Fashion Show"—add the attraction of some very VIP guests and you have the makings of a successful club party.

That's what the Army Medical Service Woman's Club did this week. They called it "The Capital Look" and presented it at Walter Reed Army Medical Center's Officers' Club.

Guests of honor were Mrs. Wilber M. Brucker, wife of the Secretary of the Army; Mrs. Howard McC. Snyder, wife of the personal physician to President Eisenhower; Mrs. Silas B. Hays, wife of the Surgeon General of the Army, and Mrs. James B. Cooney, wife of the deputy Surgeon General.

Also finding out what to wear where and when were members of the Women's Club at Fort Myer. At this affair, Nina Parrish, head of the Academy of Fashions in Arlington, presented the "New Spring You."

The demonstration, however, was not limited to clothes and accessories. Mrs. Parrish made suggestions and gave many helpful hints on the "Art of Self Improvement."

Why Can't a General Be a Lady?

Camilla Mays Frank, national president of the Women's Army Corps Veterans Association, thinks it is high time the Army's leading lady be made a general.

At a recent news conference here, Mrs. Frank came out in favor of making the director of the WAC a general. She is now a colonel. "Letting women in the WAC rise to higher rank is a sure way of building esprit de corps all down the line," stated Mrs. Frank.

Well, we'll see.

'Frank Smith' Is King For a Day

BEN ALEXANDER, who plays Frank Smith in the Dragnet series on TV, arrived at Sandia Base, N.M., last week to talk to the Women's Clubs. After two weeks of replacing Jack Bailey on "Queen for a Day," he felt like a king among all the ladies. Meeting him at the train were Mrs. David Kyzer, left, program chairman, and Mrs. M. C. Falck, 1st vice president of the club.

Crowder Fetes New Commander

LT. COL. AND MRS. WILLIAM J. E. KEISH were feted at a reception given in their honor at Fort Crowder, Mo. Col. Keish replaced Col. Arthur L. Selby as commanding officer of the fort and commandant of the Branch U.S. Disciplinary Barracks. Since his arrival at Crowder in 1956, the colonel has been very popular with the post.

NEWS FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN

Rucker Wives Hold Hat Contest; Mrs. Wyman Visits Riley Club

FORT RUCKER, Ala. — Everything from fresh cabbage leaves, dustpans and clothes lines to helicopter blades and wind socks adorned the heads of the crazy hat contestants at a meeting of the Women's Club here.

Winners were Mrs. Firdin J. Baye, whose hat of layers of pink and white tulle holding a miniature violin and accented with varicolored pipe cleaner musical notes was judged the prettiest and Mrs. Edward J. Raff who received the prize for the most original hat made of a blooming potted azalea bush atop a rectangular box covered with packets of flower seeds.

A prize for the craziest hat was awarded Mrs. Walter A. Baer whose mammoth lampshade covered with fish net was adorned with numerous hooks, sinkers and fishing bait.

Mrs. Wyman Feted

FORT RILEY, Kans. — Mrs. Willard G. Wyman, wife of the U.S. Continental Army Commander, was feted at a coffee held in her honor by the Women's Club here.

Mrs. Wyman, who accompanied her husband on an inspection visit, greeted old friends and met the Fort Riley ladies. In the receiving line with Mrs. Wyman were Mrs. Van H. Bond, Mrs. Frederick W. Ellery and Mrs. Ira Walker.

Mrs. Van H. Bond and Mrs. Frederick W. Ellery made arrangements for the coffee.

Fashion Show Held

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kans. — For its Spring Fashion Show, the Women's Club turned the Officers' Mess into "The Glided Cage Tea-room." Arresting decorative features were huge simulated bird cages which held high-style fashion exhibits.

Mrs. Ward S. Ryan, president of the club, called the winners of prizes of merchandise credit. They were Mrs. Harvey Short, Mrs. Donald E. Eastlake, Mrs. Francis H. Wilson, Mrs. Justus R. Riek, Mrs. Byron M. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. James M. Morris.

Models for the fashion show were: Grace Howard, Margaret Vinson, Robbie Craig, Jessie Siefert, Helen Gettings, Inez Chavez of Chile, Esther Cook, Leslie Cason, Vicki Walker, Billy Neely, Jerry Tittle, Carey Smith, Ellen Hesse, Kathy Hamilton, Tom Reese, Joyce Spragins, Margaret Camp, Del Schraeder and Ann Giese.

Mrs. Joel B. Stephens directed the show and acted as moderator.

On March 15, Mrs. Ward S. Ryan will do her light-hearted take-off on the living problems, moves and everyday situations of "The Army Wife." Repeated again this year by popular demand, with a cast of ladies from the club, this production is the high point of the season.

Choral Group Sings

FORT LEONARD WOOD, Mo. — Wives of the 2d Training Regt., Basic, were hostesses at the monthly luncheon of the Officers' Wives Club.

A music and dance program was presented after the luncheon. Under the direction of Mrs. A. J. Schoepflin, the wives' club choral group performed. Students of the Bonnie Hain school of dance also were on the program.

Mrs. John A. Mohler was chairman of the decorations committee. Committee members included Mesdames John F. Bradbury, James C. Moore, Donald Munro, Theodore L. Beasley, Robert K. Seed, Eric E. Rodewalt Jr., and George A. Alexandridis.

NCO Wives Club officers were the guests of Mrs. William C. Baker Jr., wife of the post commander.

SURVIVOR BENEFITS

Some States Pay Bonuses Plus Educational Grants

STATE BENEFITS

Many states have passed laws providing certain rights, benefits, or privileges to surviving spouses and children of deceased service personnel. These include bonuses, educational aid, employment preference, and tax exemptions. Detailed information may be obtained from the nearest state agency for veterans' affairs.

TRAVEL OF DEPENDENTS AND TRANSPORTATION OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS

Dependents, household goods, and personal effects of any person in active service who is officially reported as dead, missing for a period of 30 days or more, buried in a neutral country, or captured by the enemy, may be moved (including packing and unpacking of household effects) to such location determined in advance or afterwards approved.

If no immediate destination is known, temporary storage of household goods and personal effects may be authorized for not to exceed six months. In lieu of transportation by the government, the Department of the Army may authorize the payment in money of amounts equal to commercial transportation cost for all or part of travel for which government transportation is not furnished.

In addition to weight allowance authorized for "household and personal effects," one privately owned motor vehicle may be shipped at government expense when the vehicle is located outside the States.

Arrangements may be made with the transportation officer located at the installation concerned.

UNITED STATES SAVING BONDS

If it is thought that the deceased had bonds with the Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C., a request for information should be addressed direct to that department.

RAILROAD RETIREMENT DEATH BENEFITS

If the decedent was employed in the railroad industry after 1936, an inquiry should be made direct to the nearest Railroad Retirement Board field office of the Railroad Retirement Board Hqs., 944 N. Rush St., Chicago, regarding any benefits due under the Railroad Retirement Act.

The Social Security number of the decedent, if available, should be supplied to help in identifying record of service.

THIS IS the seventh in a series of articles outlining your survivor benefits if you are married to a soldier. These excerpts are taken from an official Army publication, No. 20-15, "For Your Guidance."

We ask you to remember that dollar amounts of benefits mentioned are based on rates now in effect in typical cases. They may change by law or circumstances.

SIX MONTHS' GRATUITY

When a soldier dies while on active duty, active duty for training, or inactive duty training, there will be paid a death gratuity equal to six months' base pay (plus special and incentive pays) in amount not less than $800 or more than $3000. This gratuity will be paid to the individual first listed in the order below.

- (1) Spouse.
- (2) Children (without regard to their age or marital status) in equal shares.
- (3) Parents, brothers or sisters (including those of halfblood and those through adoption), when designated by deceased.
- (4) Parents in equal shares.
- (5) Brothers and sisters (including those of halfblood and those through adoption) in equal shares.

If a survivor dies before he receives the amount to which he is entitled, that amount will be paid to the then next living survivor or survivors as listed.

SOCIAL SECURITY

• The Servicemen's and Veterans' Survivors Benefits Act of 1956 extends coverage of the Social Security System to all members of the uniformed services on a permanent and contributory basis, with coverage computed on the basis of basic pay.

• Application for Social Security benefits is made at the same time and on the same form as application for Veterans Administration dependency and indemnity compensation payments.

• Application may be made at either Social Security field offices or VA offices; it is not necessary to apply at both places. The postmaster in most areas can give the address of the nearest office.

• Since the law permits retroactive payment of 12 months at most, prompt action should be taken to file application. Actual payment of benefits normally will begin one to two months after application is made.

McPherson NCO Wives Adopt Family Aid Program

FORT MCPHERSON, Ga. — A family aid program has been adopted by the NCO Wives Club to assist newcomers and to help households in times of emergencies.

To implement the program, a hospitality committee has been organized by Mrs. Anthony Sanavitis, Wives Club president, and Mrs. A. M. Ditommaso, committee chairman. The group will work to aid families in four principal ways.

The committee will furnish newcomers with pamphlets containing current information on post regulations, Post Exchange and Commissary hours, nursery facilities, chapel services, scouting and other community organizations.

Boxes of kitchen utensils and bedding will be available for new arrivals until their household goods arrive.

Newcomers will receive a personal visit and welcome from committee members, who will offer their services in helping families get settled in their homes.

In times of sickness, death, financial and other crises, families will be contacted by members of the committee, who will render such services as caring for children when a parent is hospitalized and providing meals when there is a death or sickness in the home.

Coffee Break

With Karla Edwards

MY husband is not what you would call handy in the kitchen, but he can and does make the most delicious to-sed salad I've ever tasted. I'm never sure just exactly what all the ingredients are (he claims the recipe is a closely guarded secret of the trade), but we like it, and he is as proud as any Chef of the Waldorf.

• I had some plain off-white lamp shades on my pride-and-joy brass lamps from Japan. Those shades defied being attractive. But, given a quick spray with gold paint, they now match the lamps and add much personality to our living room.

I know the only reason I keep my copper-bottom pans so shining is because they hang out in such plain sight.

Last week my husband and I caught that contagious and fatal disease known as "new car fever." We hadn't planned to buy a new car at all, but when he went to buy a tire wrench he drove a new model and was exposed. There was really nothing wrong with our old car except the tires. We had to decide between new tires and a new car. A few hectic days later we were the proud owners of a new Ford.

I'm glad it's wintertime, if only because the candles on my dining table have stopped drooping precariously to one side.

My children sang "Happy Birthday" at the top of their lungs in the car on the way to a little friend's party the other day, only to clam up when the proper time came. Guess who sang the traditional refrain as the pretty, lighted cake was brought in . . . of course, the five Mommies present.

Can you believe it? My husband's favorite dessert is apple pie ala mode. Yes, but ala mode chocolate ice cream!

• I like to add a little atmosphere to our occasional spaghetti dinners with a red checkered tablecloth, red candles stuck in old Chianti bottles (with wax dripping down the sides), and brown 'n' serve French bread. It makes that budget stretcher, hamburger, a little less conspicuous at the end of a particularly long month.

I cannot imagine how my mother and grandmother kept house without sponges. I have a specific job for each of the several colors.

Well, the coffee is gone and the children need a referee, so that's it for today. Anyone for boxing?

Chaffee's Activity Program Fits All Tastes and Talents

FORT CHAFFEE, Ark. — Name your interest and it's a good bet it's included in the activity program of the Fort Chaffee Officers' Wives Club.

Engaged to Wed

COL. and Mrs. Herbert B. Murman of Palo Alto, Calif., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Margaret Lee, to Lt. James Kieth (USMC), son of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Miller of Viola, Ill. The wedding is planned for March 16.

The club offers more than a dozen different activities to guarantee that its members can make good use of their leisure time.

The chorus offers those who are musically inclined, an opportunity to use their talents.

A ceramics group holds three monthly meetings at Chaffee's craft shop. A six-week beginners' course in ceramics is now in the planning stage.

A project of the painting group is the decoration of the post nursery.

Meeting four times monthly, the dressmaking group holds its session at the sewing machine center, where both beginners and advanced classes are conducted.

Eleven members are enrolled in the knitting class, which meets twice monthly.

Spanish is taught in weekly sessions at the Officers' Club.

For the sportswomen, the golf group meets at the post course once each week. It has access to instruction and a driving range. Bowlers meet weekly at a downtown bowling alley.

In addition to these activities, the club has opened a thrift shop so that military personnel may buy and sell used articles of clothing and other small articles. Proceeds go to support the post nursery.

Chairmen of these activities are: Mrs. Marvin T. Schmidt, chorus;

SOCIAL SCENE AT FORT BENNING

Greenawalt Cited at Dinner Party; Daughters Revive Frontier Days

FORT BENNING, Ga.—A dinner dance was given by officers of the Infantry School's Airborne-Air Mobility Department in the Main Officers' Mess.

Lt. Col. Gordon K. Smith, chief of the department's Abn. Training Group, was in charge of arrangements for the event.

Col. W. E. Ekman, director of the department, presented a Certificate of Achievement to Maj. Howard A. Greenawalt, who has received an assignment in France.

Farewells were bade to the Greenawalts and Lt. Col. and Mrs. Conway L. Ellers. Col. Ellers has been assigned to Fort Hood, Tex.

Among the guests were Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Herbert B. Powell, Col. and Mrs. W. H. Billings, Col. and Mrs. Frank E. Ball, Lt. Col. and Mrs. J. L. Low, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Wesley C. Noren, Maj. and Mrs. Robert Slepian, and Capt. Leon McCall Jr.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Bayard W. Hart, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Smith, Lt. Col. and Mrs. John W. Marr, Capt. James C. Murphy, Lt. and Mrs. Fritz Bernhausen, Lt. and Mrs. Elliott P. Snyder Jr., and Lt. Robert M. Garrison were welcomed to the group.

Rolling frontier antics set the theme for the Army Daughters '49er party held in Benning's Main Officers' Mess.

The Dixiecats played for the charity event.

The "Silver Dollar Saloon," "Mile Long Bar" and "Wheel of Fortune" added to the '49er atmosphere. Assisting Lt. Col. and Mrs. John D. Coney in directing games were Lt. Cols. James W. Hungate Jr., Marion F. Felt and Jonathan E. Adams Jr., and Maj. and Mrs. Frazier and Anthony J. DeSanto.

Lovely cigarette girls, costumed in black with bright satin ribbons and long black stockings vied with the gaming tables for the customers' attention. They included Mrs.

MRS. NANCY GREENAWALT, right, outgoing Girl Scout leader at Fort Benning, Ga., receives a Certificate of Appreciation from Col. Albert N. Ward, center, post Youth Activities Club president. Capt. James C. Blackford, left, YAC custodian, also received a certificate. The citations were presented for their outstanding work with Benning youths.

Roger J. Olson, Mrs. Richard I. Paul, Mrs. Morton S. Jaffe, Mrs. William V. Ochs Jr., Mrs. James L. Guion Jr., Mrs. Donald E. Rosenblum, Mrs. C. L. Stark, Mrs. Hugh H. Pattillo and Mrs. William R. Gillingham.

More than 200 persons donated their time and talent to insure the success of the party. Professional dancer, Rosalie Gilmore, directed the cancan line. Mrs. Lester L. Wheeler and Mrs. Charles F. Leonard Jr., were in charge of arrangements.

Col. and Mrs. Charles F. Leonard Jr., and Col. and Mrs. William E. Harrison were honored at a reception and dinner dance given by officers of the Infantry School's Weapons Dept.

In the receiving line were the honorees, Lt. Col. and Mrs. D. B.

Porter Jr., and Col. and Mrs. Winter.

Farewells also were bade to Maj. and Mrs. Thomas LaPatka, Capt. and Mrs. W. E. Crist, Capt. and Mrs. Humphreys, Capt. and Mrs. W. D. Barnes, Capt. and Mrs. R. W. West, Capt. and Mrs. J. R. Although the tape recorder won't bring your husband home any sooner, it will help fill a big part of the loneliness just being able to hear his voice every day. I think you will agree that anything that helps in that department deserves three loud cheers.

Actress Sends Roses To Husband's Office

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD—Dana Wynter's fan mail is a surprise even to her home studio, 20th Century-Fox. "I recognized her beauty and education," a top executive told me, "but I underestimated her acting ability and her sex appeal. This girl has everything! I wish I could find another 'View from Pompey's Head' for her."

Dana made a big stir on Hollywood's social scene when she captured the town's top bachelor, Greg Bautzer. When I arrived for tea at their modern home in Bel Air, she was arranging a bowl of white orchids.

"Greg sends me flowers every day just as he did before we were married," she explained, "and every day, I send a red rose to his office."

"My husband has fastidious tastes and it is a pleasure to please him," she said, as she poured my cup of tea.

Dana was wearing a high neck, black, jersey sheath with a single white rose close to her throat. I complimented her on being nominated one of Hollywood's best-dressed actresses.

"I love clothes," she confessed. "When I was just starting my career in London, it was a challenge to look smart with a limited wardrobe. I designed a simple, black velvet evening dress which I wore to all the premieres. I was usually photographed, and I managed to look different in each picture by wearing an unusual stole of stiff taffeta. I kept a variety of these in lovely pastel shades. I pulled the threads at the end of the stoles into a fringe and was able to give such a contrasting appearance that no one suspected my tricks."

"It is so easy, in this climate to be casual and to wear play clothes everywhere, but when I take time to dress carefully I find people appreciate my making the effort. No matter where a person lives, dressing neatly and becomingly as she can is basic politeness to those who must look at her," Dana went on.

"I think we often change more than we realize and for this reason we should analyze our type. As a child I was told I was old for my age. When I first came to New York I wore my hair long and sleek on top. This became a keynote to my clothes."

"One day my mother saw me on TV and immediately wired me to cut my hair and look my age. I went to a beauty salon and had my hair cut and styled. It was amazing how many people told me after that what a change this made and how much younger I looked. Long hair is for teenagers unless a person wears it in a chignon or a butterfly-twist."

The Printed Hat

PRINTS add a colorful touch to the winter scene. Here Sally Victor shows one that is good now and for the months ahead. The stitched brim of multi-colored material, turned back at a jaunty angle, gives this hat its chic appearance. Comfortable to travel in.

THIS YOUNG, fresh-looking roller in pale chartreuse textured cotton has a little geometric figure in soft orange. It gives the effect of straw. The crown is trimmed with flowers. Daisies are used here to accentuate the "spring look."

SOME of the prettiest hats for late winter and early spring are interpreted in prints. These may be cottons or silks. All shapes and sizes are used. Here a black and white printed silk foulard is draped into one of the fashionable new turbans.

Expert Gives Beauty Tips

THE WOMAN'S CLUB at Fort McPherson, Ga., saw a demonstration of proper make-up, posture, poise and grooming at its monthly meeting. Miss Jane Lambert, left, instructor from the Patricia Steven's Charm School in Atlanta, conducted the program. Here she gives a tip on eyebrow grooming to Mrs. J. L. Picchietti, one of the officers' wives who assisted in the program.

Mabel S. Peck, 76, Retires At McPherson Ceremony

FORT MCPHERSON, Ga. — One career is enough for most people, but Mrs. Mabel S. Peck will end her second when she retires here after 15 years of government service.

This civil service work began after the end of her first career as the wife of Col. Robert H. Peck, a former post commander of Fort McPherson, and after she had raised five children.

Mrs. Peck, who will be an agile 76 years old this month, has been a typist with the 3d Machine Record Unit since 1946. She began her civil service career in 1942 with the Signal Communications Center here.

Traveling to Army posts in various parts of this country and overseas is common with Army wives and Mrs. Peck is no exception. In fact, career number one as a wife and mother, began in the Philippine Islands.

The Pecks were married on the island of Leyte in 1907 and embarked on a month-and-one-half long wedding trip. It took them to such places as Kobe and Yokohama, Japan, Hong Kong, Canton, and Port Arthur, China and to Korea.

The retirement ceremony for Mrs. Peck was held at the Machine Records Unit, where Col. Forrest J. Agee, Third Army Adjutant General, presented the retirement certificate.

Aberdeen Ladies Meet for Bridge

ABERDEEN, Md. — Material Training Ladies held their monthly luncheon at the Main Officers' Club. Games and bridge followed. Co-hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. J. Foulkner and Mrs. M. I. Fogel.

Wives of officers of the Student Officers' Detachment's 902-7 class entertained the new 902-6 class wives at coffee.

Mrs. Carroll H. Deitrick was the honored guest at the Development and Proof Services Ladies luncheon. A motif of mixed spring flowers decorated the tables. Co-hostesses for the luncheon and bridge that followed were Mrs. G. B. Jarrett and Mrs. C. A. Schnarr.

Officers of the 902-6 class of the SOD, prior to the TOS sponsored dance at The Chesapeake, gathered at the Main Club for cocktails and dinner. Mrs. R. E. Styles served as hostess.

Cheese in Meals

Cheese is an ideal meat substitute in planning Lenten menus. It also fits into meal plans for soups, salads and desserts.

To get your copy, send a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for Cheese Leaflet.

Chinese Recipes From Carlisle Barracks

Booklet Tells Tricks of Trade

CARLISLE BARRACKS, Pa.—Enthusiasm for Chinese food and its easy adaptation for family and party meals prompted members of the Home and Garden group here to treat fellow members to an authentic Chinese luncheon. Each acquired her skill while in Formosa or had Chinese cooking lessons Stateside.

The luncheon was held at the home of Mrs. Edgar C. Doleman. Mrs. Wing F. Jung, whose husband is a student at the Army War College, prepared the menu and served the food. A menu booklet containing the recipes was given each member as a souvenir.

If you are looking for the ultimate in good eating, just keep reading. Remember that rice is always served with Chinese food.

CHICKEN WITH ALMONDS

By Shirley Luthi

- 3 chicken breasts (double)
- 4 T sherry, 1 t salt, 1 T cornstarch
- 4 T Wesson oil, 1 T Accent
- 1 C almonds (blanched-split in half)
- ½ box frozen peas
- ¼ C diced green peppers
- 3 C chicken broth
- 2 T cornstarch

Remove meat from bones. Place bones and skin in 1 qt. water and boil for broth. Cube raw chicken. Mix chicken with 4 T sherry, 1 t salt and 1 T cornstarch. Let stand at least 1 hour. Cook chicken in 4 T Wesson oil until it turns white, stirring constantly. Do not brown. Remove from skillet. Sauté green peppers, using a little more oil if needed. Remove. Sauté almonds. Put chicken and green peppers back in skillet with almonds. Add broth, Accent, peas and salt to taste. Mix 2 T cornstarch with a little cool water and add to mixture. Cook over medium heat for about 20 minutes. Serves 8.

FRIED BEEF WITH GREEN PEPPERS

By Gladys Hill

- 2 C beef tenderloin
- 1 C green peppers (sliced 1" to 2" long)
- 2 T ginger, 2 t soy sauce
- 1 C green onions (1" pieces)
- 10 T chicken broth, 2 t baking powder
- 2 t salt, ½ t sugar, 2 t cornstarch
- 1 t Sesame oil (olive oil or Mazola)

Mix as marinade: 6 T broth, 2 t soy sauce, sugar, 1 t salt, 2 t baking powder, 1 t cornstarch.

Mix as gravy: 4 T broth, 1 t salt, 1 t cornstarch. Slice beef paper thin and 1" to 2" in length; ½" wide. Pour marinade on beef and work in with fingers. Add oil. Drop beef in hot fat and fry about 1 minute. Drain. Add pepper, ginger and onion. Fry 1 minute.

Return beef to this mixture. Add gravy, cook for 2 minutes and serve.

HAMBURGER WITH STRING BEANS

By Mary Lemmon

Sauce: 1 package frozen French style green beans. (Do not defrost.) 1 lb. hamburger.

Combine: 4-5 drops Sesame oil, ¼ C soy sauce, 1 t (heaping) fresh ginger root (chopped fine), 1 large clove garlic (chopped fine).

Mix, put aside: 2 T cornstarch, ¼ C water.

Place hamburger in skillet, fry, medium to high heat. Keep stirring. Do not allow to stick, brown or lump. When it is cooked through, lower heat and add Sauce.

Army Times Cooking Party

Mrs. Frank H. Baker, c/o Lt. Frank H. Baker, 143d Armd. Sig. Co., APO 99 New York, N.Y., is this week's winner of the Army Times Cooking Party. Each week my Army wife wins a check for $5. These recipes should be typical of the section of the States in which is now stationed, of a foreign country—or be a family favorite.

If possible, please mention where the recipe was discovered. Name and address should be printed clearly on each entry and addressed to: Army Times Kitchen, 2020 M St., N.W., Washington 6, D.C. No recipes can be returned.

BEEF ROULADEN

- 4 pieces round steak, ¼ inch thick
- 4 strips of bacon
- 1 dill pickle
- 1 cup chopped onion
- salt and pepper

At one end of beef, place strip of bacon, slice of pickle (quartered lengthwise) and ¼ cup chopped onion. Starting at filled end, roll meat tightly and secure roll with tooth picks. Salt and pepper to taste.

Place rolls in skillet and brown on top of stove in hot fat. After sufficiently browned, add two to three cups of water, cover skillet and place in 350 degree oven for one and a half hours.

When finished, take rolls from liquid and add a paste consisting of ½ cup flour and 1 cup water to the liquid. This makes a thin gravy. It may be necessary to add more water to liquid in skillet when making the gravy. Salt and pepper to taste. Put meat back into gravy and simmer on top of stove until ready to serve.

"This recipe has become a regular standby in our menu planning. Rouladen are delicious and economical and they can be held on the stove indefinitely," says Mrs. Baker.

me oil mixture and cornstarch mixture. Stir. Add frozen block of green beans. Cover, allow to cook 5 minutes. Remove cover and if beans are not thoroughly melted, break up with fork. Mix beans into meat. Allow to cook 5 minutes. Serve by dividing meat mixture over portions of hot rice. The beans should be bright green and crunchy, not fully cooked. Serves four.

100 Wives Visit Nike Site, See Army's Deadly Missile

FORT LAWTON, Wash.—By foot and by bus, 100 women inspected one of the Nike Ajax installations that surround Seattle in a ring of steel. They were given a close-up introduction to the Army's deadly guided missile, an AA defense weapon.

Other women's groups will be given the same opportunity to meet the most mysterious, inconceivable, breathtaking "woman" in Seattle, a "woman" with the kiss of death. She is named for the goddess of victory of Greek mythology.

The tour was at the invitation of Artillery wives of the 26th AA command. Mrs. Gilbert N. Adams, wife of the commanding officer, was the hostess. Included were wives of district engineers and other Army men closely associated with Nike Ajax.

The women gathered at the Officers' Club and were driven to Btry. A, 28th AAA Missile Bn., which is near Seattle. While they sipped cocoa in the mess hall, they watched a Douglas Aircraft Co. film that showed Nike being fired. Then they inspected the administration area, quarters and recreational facilities for the men who are on 24-hour duty, 365 days a year. The visitors trudged to the radar area for a demonstration and then boarded the buses again for the fueling and launching area, several miles away.

Seattle's AA defense is under the command of the 26th AA group. It is commanded by Col. Gilbert N. Adams.

Fort Polk Wives Meet at Parties

FORT POLK, La.—Officers' wives of the 91st Armd. Field Arty. Bn. held a coffee at the Officers' Club. Mrs. Bretches and Mrs. Herley were co-hostesses for the coffee.

Those present included the Mesdames Holland, Ryberg, Schaub, Mosely, Lang, Donadio, Hetzel, Pynes, Wilson, Dunn and Walston.

Fourteen wives of officers of the 634th Armd. Field Arty. Bn. attended a luncheon in the Fiesta Room of the Officers' Club.

Mrs. Dalton, wife of Maj. C. H. Dalton, was hostess for the occasion.

Combat Command A wives were hostesses at a meeting of the Officers' Wives Club. The many activities inaugurated by the club in the past year were reviewed.

Wives of officers of the 1st Combat Aviation Co. held their monthly luncheon in the Fiesta Room of the Officers' Club.

Mrs. George Moeller, wife of the company commander, welcomed new members. They were Mrs. Royce Smithson, Mrs. James Ford and Mrs. Richard Tracy.

WEDDING BELLES

LIDLAW-MACKINTOSH

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N. M.—Miss Lois Barbara Laidlaw, daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. W. E. Laidlaw, became the bride of 1st Lt. Robert Hugh Mackintosh, son of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Hugh Mackintosh of Washington, in Post Chapel on Feb. 23.

Chaplain (Maj.) Harry Hand officiated at the candlelight ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown made by her mother, of Chantilly lace over satin fashioned with a fitted bodice. It had a high neckline and long sleeves. The wide skirt of pleated tiers of lace and tulle fell into ruffles at the chapel train.

Carol Bartels Is One Young Lady Who Likes to Wear Her Glasses

FORT RILEY, Kans. — Carol Elaine Bartels took her first look at the world in the hospital here last September through beautiful blue eyes.

Soon the Bartels made a chilling discovery. There was something wrong with Carol's eyes. She seemed unable to bring them into focus and appeared to be constantly searching, trying to pick up a point of vision, trying and failing.

Bartels, a career medical soldier with nearly 16 years of service, knew no baby as young as Carol has "normal" vision, but he also sensed that she needed immediate attention. The Bartels bundled their daughter up and took her to the Fort Riley hospital, where she was examined by Maj. Edgar Irazary, hospital ophthalmologist, and his staff of optometrists.

The verdict: Carol must have glasses to correct a serious condition which, without correction, could become progressively worse, known as hyperopia, far sightedness. She might become permanently incapable of focusing her eyes and in time would become cross-eyed.

The Bartels were shocked by the thought of a tiny baby wearing glasses. Maj. Edgar Irazary and his staff at the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Clinic gently explained the alternative and the decision was made.

Carol Ann was to be fitted with glasses at the age of six months.

Now after many examinations, tests, and measurements with delicate instruments taken down to the last millimeter, Carol Elaine Bartels has become the youngest patient ever fitted with glasses at the clinic, and perhaps one of the youngest in the world.

Neither Maj. Irazary nor his two Army optometrists, Lts. Harry C. Smith and Richard Peoples, had knowledge of a similar case. They approached the case of their tiny patient from the viewpoint that the experiment could do no harm, and would almost certainly give her normal vision with the aid of glasses for the rest of her life.

Almost from the moment that the tiny spectacles were fitted to Carol's eyes the searching movement which had given evidence of condition, disappeared.

To the pleasant surprise of the hospital staff and her parents, she has accepted the glasses as a matter of course. She never touches them, but when they are removed she vocally objects. When the glasses are replaced, her blue eyes regain their sparkle, and she bubbles happily with the natural charm of all six-month-old girls.

"IT'S A LOVELY WORLD," Carol Elaine Bartels seems to be telling her mother. Carol, six-month-old daughter of Sgt. and Mrs. Leland Bartels, is the youngest patient ever fitted with glasses at the hospital at Fort Riley, Kans. She will wear them to correct a serious hyperopic condition, known as far-sightedness.

How's the Housing At Your Next Post?

Camp Leroy Johnson, La.
SOLDIERS reporting to this New Orleans post are advised to leave their families behind until firm housing arrangements are made. Housing is available, but it is critically short in the more desirable areas. Few of the rental homes are independent units—most of them are duplex and triplex.

The post has only 18 sets of quarters, and all of them are for officers. The waiting period for these quarters is indefinite. If the post—now temporary—becomes a permanent one, a housing area will be considered.

About 500 families live in the nearby civilian community. Rents range from $30 a month for the lications when Knox reported to Army Times in February. There are plenty off-post trailer courts.

The PIO advises newcomers to write well in advance of arrival to: "Post Billeting Officer, U. S. Army Armor Center, Fort Knox, Ky." Listings of off-post housing are available from the billeting office in Bldg. 1110-A, Room 200-A, as well as from the Red Cross and the Chambers of Commerce of Elizabethtown and Louisville, Ky.

Temporary accommodations for officers are available at Yeoman's Hall on the post. Officers and enlisted men can get accommodations at two guest houses for not more than three days, provided reservations are made in advance.

Camp Irwin, Calif.

"THERE is a continued lack of sufficient housing" in the Irwin area, reports the post public information officer. He says permanently-assigned officers who eligible for one of the 64 on-post housing units can expect to wait at least 60 days, while enlisted men can anticipate a nine-month delay. There are 136 on-post units for enlisted men.

Irwin has no Wherry or Capehart housing of its own. Limited Wherry housing is available at the Marine Corps Supply Depot at Barstow, Calif. Bids have been sent out on 173 family units to be built at Irwin under the Capehart program, but nobody can even guess when any of these will be available.

Housing in Barstow is available right away. One bedroom units cost from $50 to $85 a month, two bedroom apartments range up to about $100. Three bedroom homes and apartments cost between $75 a month (unfurnished) to about $125 a month (furnished).

There is a six month period for on-post trailer housing, but spaces are available right away off the post.

Says the billeting officer: "It is advised that enlisted personnel with large families and those not of the first three grades not cheapest one bedroom apartment to $200 a month for a furnished, three bedroom house.

About 10 families live in trailers, all off post. There are numerous trailer parks within five miles of the post.

The guest house at Leroy Johnson is available to officers and enlisted men, for not more than seven days at a time.

Fort Knox, Ky.

A BIG CAPEHART project of more than 2000 units will not radically change the housing picture at Knox, where more than 7000 military families live off the post.

Knox has 424 sets of government quarters for officers, 944 for enlisted men. There are 684 additional Wherry units for officers, 816 for EM. Field grade officers can anticipate a 30-day wait for government quarters, company grade officers can expect to wait for about six months. Permanently assigned officers must get on a small waiting list for two bedroom Wherry units and a three month waiting list for three bedroom Wherries.

Enlisted men eligible for on-post quarters must wait about six months for a furnished apartment, two months for an unfurnished unit.

bring families upon assignment." There is no guest house available on the post, so families who do accompany their sponsors will have to stay in Barstow hotels and motels until housing is found. Advance information is available, upon request, from the Billeting Officer, Camp Irwin, Calif.

Lexington Signal Depot, Ky.
THIS depot has only 15 sets of government quarters, and all of them are for officers. The waiting period for these quarters is indefinite.

About 21 soldier families live in the Lexington area. Plenty of housing is available in Lexington, at prices starting at $75 a month for one bedroom apartments to $100 to $125 monthly for three bedroom units.

The depot has one set of quarters for visitors.

SOLDIERS who move to the Louisville, Ky., area can expect to find civilian-owned housing right away. One bedroom apartments range between $50 and $75 a month. Two bedroom units cost from $60 to $90; three bedroom units cost from $70 to $135 or more a month.

There are 148 families living in trailers on post. There is no waiting list for officer trailer spaces on the post, but the enlisted trailer area had a waiting list of 39 ap-

Army Promotes Spiritual Retreat Participation

WASHINGTON.—ZI commanders were told that they had a "responsibility to familiarize themselves with the religious retreat facilities locally available to members of their commands" and that they are "encouraged to grant passes or leaves for individuals desiring to attend spiritual retreats."

This explicit extension to continental U.S. of the Army's policy about participation of its members in religious retreats while serving overseas appears as DA Circular 165-2.

THE POLICY arises from that of the government to "encourage and promote the spiritual and moral development of military personnel," the circular says. It points out that religious retreat facilities have been established by the Army in Europe, Japan, and Korea.

Commanders are expected not only to inform themselves of retreat facilities locally available but are to inform members of their command of them.

Military considerations are to govern the granting of passes or leave. But they are to be given "to the maximum extent possible consistent with military requirements," the circular says.

DECORATIONS

NAMES of decoration winners are published by Army Times as they are approved for publication in General Orders, and in some cases, as presentations are made. This list appears periodically, as names and awards are received from the Adjutant General's Office. Only names of men still on active duty or posthumous awards are listed.

LEGION OF MERIT

BOGART, Brig. Gen. # Ord and Sill Win Area Mitt Titles, All-Army Boxing Tournament Opens

All-Army

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky.—Eight teams, representing the six Stateside commands, the Far East and the Pacific, are slugging it out in the All-Army boxing tournament here this week.

All-Army champions will go on to meet the top men in the other services in the Inter-Service tournament at Newport Naval Station, R.I., March 14-15.

Last year the Third Army team won the All-Army title. Gunner Lowenstein of Fort Bragg, again coaching the Third Army team this year, went on to lead the 1956 All-Army boxers to the inter-service championship. In 1955 Lowenstein was coach of the winning Fourth Army team.

Lt. Pete Rademacher, who won the All-Army heavyweight championship last year and later the Olympic championship, is not competing but is here as OIC of the Third Army squad. The other 1956 All-Army winner who also became an Olympic champion light-heavyweight Jim Boyd, is also not competing this year.

Early All-Army Boxing Results

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky.—Sixth Army's Roscoe Elliott, 1954 All-Army middleweight now a light-heavy, was eliminated by Second Army's Moses Walker on a unanimous decision during the opening round of the All-Army boxing tournament here this week. In other bouts:

Heavyweight Allen Hudson (Third Army) knocked out Cleo Banner (USARPAC) in the first round.

Light-heavy Aaron Porter (Third Army) sent Bobby Byrd (USARPAC) through the ropes and out of the ring for a first round knockout.

Featherweight Robert Nichols (Third Army) scored third round TKO over Hector Rodriguez (Far East).

Lightweight Carmie Price (USARPAC) scored second round TKO over Theodore Marquez (Fourth Army).

Flyweight Leon Shufford (Far East) decisioned Eugene Jenkins (First Army).

Bantam Leon Thompson (First Army) won unanimous decision over Ralph Manami (Sixth Army).

Light-middleweight E. H. de Mathis (Sixth Army) decisioned Ralph Harris (USARPAC).

Welterweight James Perry (Second Army) decisioned Jacob Lowman (USARPAC).

Light-middleweight Joe Wilson (Third Army) won split decision over Marvin Gordon (Second Army).

Light-welterweight Howard Moore (Third Army) won unanimous decision over Gary Dryden (USARPAC).

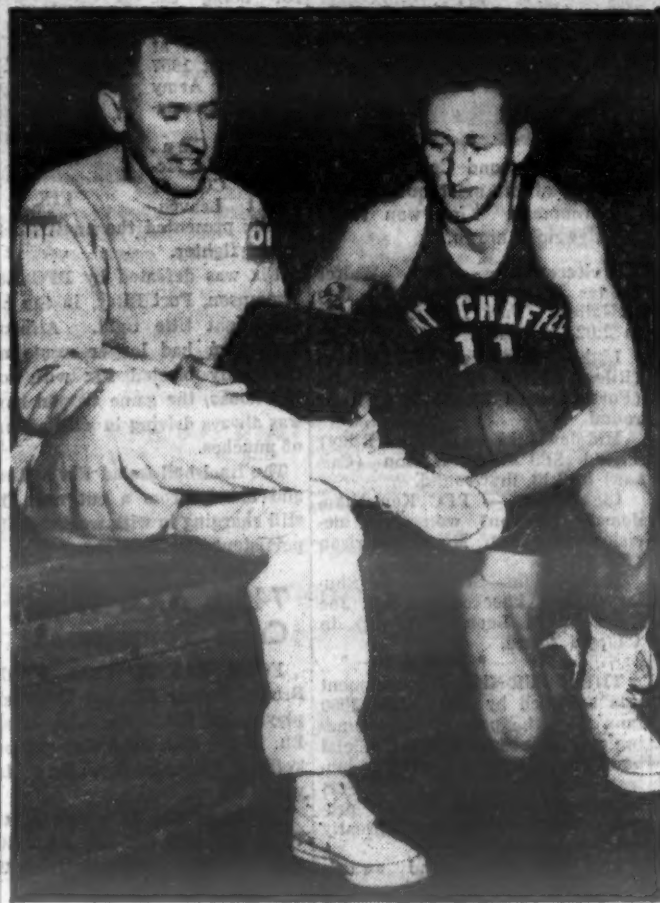

Middleweight James Harrison (Second Army) decisioned George Moore (First Army).

Middleweight James King (Fifth Army) won split decision over Theodore Meeks (USARPAC).

All-Army Defenders

MAPPING strategy for the defense of Fort Chaffee's All-Army basketball crown, Coach Bill Reyenga goes over plays with his scoring ace, Arnold Short, former Oklahoma City All-American. The Chaffee team has no players back from the squad that won the All-Army title last year. Before qualifying for All-Army competition at Fort Dix, N.J., this month, Chaffee will have to win the Fourth Army title at Fort Sill, Okla. The Fourth Army tourney opens March 11.

Cravath Stars, Campbell Wins 3d Army Wrestling

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky.—The 101st Airborne Division wrestling team, representing Fort Campbell, won the Third Army wrestling tournament here last week. The week

All-Army Wrestling On Tap at Bliss

FORT BLISS, Tex.—The six Stateside commands as well as the Far East command have entered teams in the All-Army wrestling tournament here, March 10-15.

All-Army champions will go on to compete in the National AAU championships at Waynesburg, Pa., April 2-6. The Army will enter two eight-man teams in the AAU event, one Greco-Roman team and one freestyle team.

before Campbell won the Third Army boxing title.

Campbell wrestlers won six first place gold medals and two second place silver medals. Tom Hall, Don Wem, and Clayton (Tiny) Cravath, members of the 1956 All-Army team, were among the winners for Campbell. Cravath, a heavyweight, won his second round match in 10 seconds and his final match in 20 seconds.

Final results:
Flyweight: Keith (Fort Campbell) runner-up unopposed.
Bantamweight: Logan (Campbell) runner-up unopposed.
Featherweight: Hall (Campbell) runner-up McGroarty (East Mecklenburg).
Lightweight: Thompson (Fort Rucker) runner-up Newman (Campbell).
Welterweight: Arnold (Redstone Arsenal) runner-up Mullins (Campbell).
Middleweight: Wem (Campbell) runner-up Bohn (Rucker).
Light-heavyweight: Maltwood (Campbell) runner-up Tinsant (Fort Stewart).
Heavyweight: Cravath (Campbell) runner-up Robinson (McPherson).

(Fifth Army boxing tournament results are on the next page. Results of other command boxing tournaments were published in previous editions of Army Times.)

4th Army

FORT POLK, La.—Fort Sill fighters came from behind to win the Fourth Army boxing title from Fort Polk's defending championship team by the score of 26-25 here last week.

Only two of Polk's six men in the finals came through with victories while Sill boxers took four of their five final matches.

A crowd of 3000 saw two defending champs from Fort Sill retain their crowns, another defending champ fall by the wayside, and a third fighter come back to retake the Fourth Army title he held in 1955.

Bantam Tony Burciago of Fort Sill retained his title with a TKO over Fort Hood's Joe Belleau in 2:30 of the third round.

The other successful defense was made by Sill's Dillard Jackson, light-middleweight champ. His opponent, Fort Polk's Roland Waddell, couldn't answer the bell for the second round.

Johnnie Trahan of Fort Bliss took the light-welterweight title away from Fort Polk's Artis Ware. It was a good scrap with both men taking hard body punches. The crowd liked this one. Ware was down once in the second round before losing the unanimous decision.

THE COMEBACK champ was flyweight Joe Magnuson of Fort Bliss, who opened the final card with a first round KO over Fort Hood's Rafael Garcia. Magnuson put Garcia flat on his back with a sizzling right to the head in 1:18.

Magnuson went into the finals by defeating Ronald Ige of Fort Polk, defending champ, on a split decision. Ige won the 1956 title from Magnuson on another split decision. Magnuson was 1955 champ.

Lightweight Ted Marques and middleweight Walter Irby added the important winning points for Fort Sill. Marques stopped Fort Chaffee's Johnnie Kitchens on a TKO in 2:40 of the second round, while Irby and Fort Polk's Elijah Murray gave the crowd a real show. Both men connected with good punches. The split decision in Irby's favor gave Sill a 23-20 lead. Based on the scoring system of five points for a winner and three for a loser, Polk, with one fight remaining, could not repeat.

CHARLIE LANCASTER of Camp Wolters, a welterweight, was named the tournament's outstanding boxer by the team coaches. He won a unanimous decision over Fort Polk's John Purnell in the finals. Lancaster had Purnell on the deck and the count had reached four when the bell rang ending the second round.

Light heavyweight Willie D'Antignao, also of Camp Wolters, won a unanimous decision over Sammy Sykes of Sill.

Fort Polk's only winners were featherweight Clark O'Brien and heavyweight William Arch. O'Brien took a unanimous decision over Fort Hood's Jimmy Gilliam.

Arch also won a unanimous decision, over Fort Hood's Jack Winslow, but it was a tough fight. Short, stocky Arch's ability in close told the story but Winslow got in some solid long range punches.

Winners received boxing trunks, robes, and engraved wrist watches.

6th Army

FORT LEWIS, Wash.—The Fort Ord boxing team walked away with Sixth Army tournament honors by winning seven of the ten weight divisions. The Fort Lewis team, with two champions, was second.

Boxers from Dugway Proving Ground, Fort Huachuca, Camp Irwin, Fort MacArthur and Presidio of San Francisco also competed.

Former All-Army middleweight champ Roscoe Elliott won the light-heavy title with a TKO over Gene Larson of Fort Lewis in the second round.

Another highly rated Ord fighter, heavyweight Curley Lee, lived up to expectations by knocking out Jimmie Morrell of Fort MacArthur to win the title. In the preliminaries, Lee decisioned Carles Johnson of Fort Lewis.

In other championship bouts:

Flyweight—Rogelio Rojas (Fort Lewis) scored TKO over J. C. Adams (Fort Ord) in one minute, second round.

Bantamweight—Marvin Stevens (Fort Lewis) scored TKO over Jose Montoya (Camp Irwin) in 2:58 of the second round.

Featherweight—Hilton Smith (Fort Ord) decisioned Arcadio (Fort Huachuca).

Lightweight—David Brown (Presidio) decisioned Claude Jones (Fort Lewis).

Light-welterweight—Chet Latimore (Fort Ord) decisioned James Duncan (Fort Lewis).

Welterweight—Lewis Stewart (Fort Ord) decisioned William Hohney (Fort Lewis).

Light-middleweight—Ted Mathas (Fort Ord) decisioned William Bolin (Fort Lewis).

Middleweight—Sam Isabell (Fort Ord) decisioned James Griffin (Fort Huachuca).

Army Ski Team Finds Competition Rugged

ANDERMATT, Switzerland.—Hampered by an injury and mishaps, the Army's military ski team did not fare very well in international ski competition here last week.

In the International Individual Military Ski championship, which found 49 men competing, top man for the U. S. was PFC Frederick M. Beck who finished 32d. In the International Military Ski Patrol Championship, one of the two Army teams was forced to withdraw when patrol leader 1st Lt. Selwyn Presnell sprained his ankle, and the other team finished 16th among 18 teams even though MSgt. Stanley T. Walker was forced to make most of the distance on only one ski because of a mishap. Walker was praised by all for his competitive spirit.

Sweden won the team championship with Finland second and Norway third. The Army skiers have been training at the Mountain and Cold Weather Training Command, Fort Carson, Colo.

Losers in the finals won travel clocks.

In the final standings, Hood and Bliss tied for third. Camp Wolters and Brooke Army Medical Center tied for fourth, and Fort Chaffee and White Sands Proving Ground followed in that order.

Riley Wins 5th Army Boxing

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kans. — Fort Riley, Kans., won the team championship at the Fifth Army boxing tournament here last week. Six of the ten Fifth Army champions are from Riley.

The championship team scored 30 points. Fort Carson, Colo., was second with 22 points. Four Carson fighters won titles.

The two most impressive fighters in the tournament were PFC Jim King, middleweight from Riley, who scored two first round TKOs, and Cpl. George Manabe, flyweight champ from Carson, who upset Riley's PFC Morris Hines in the title bout.

KING IS extremely fast, a good boxer, and has power with either hand. He was the 1956 Kansas City Golden Gloves champ and also won Golden Gloves titles in Milwaukee (where he was a four-letterman and all-state in high school football) and Columbus, Ohio. Manabe is the 1957 Pueblo, Colo., Golden Gloves champ.

Flyweight—Manabe won a unanimous decision over Hines.

Bantamweight — PFC Leon Thompson (Riley) unanimous decision over PFC Tom Fix (Carson).

Featherweight — Pvt. James Floyd (Carson) unanimous decision over PFC James Hutchison (Riley).

Lightweight — SP2 Obie Vann (Carson) KO'd Cpl. Richard Jackson (Riley) in 1:33, 2d round. Jackson was leading on points when Vann caught him with a solid short right which put Jackson out completely.

Light-welter — SFC Fred Byrd (Riley) unanimous decision over PFC Robert Hudson (Carson).

Welterweight — Pvt. Walter Dolder (Riley) TKO'd PFC Ron DeGallery (Fort Leonard Wood) in 2:02, 3d round.

Light-middle—Pvt. Cliff Wilson (Riley) TKO'd PFC Artis Watts (Fort Leonard Wood) in 2:08, 3d round.

Middleweight — King (Riley) TKO'd SP3 Allen Watson (Carson) in 2:13, first round.

Light-heavy — PFC Ken Nikodemski (Carson) won close decision over Pvt. Moses Harrison (Riley).

Heavyweight—SP3 Lonnie Shuler (Riley) knocked out Sgt. Joe Estes (Fort Leonard Wood) in 1:17, 2d round.

THE FOUR-NIGHT tournament was attended by more than 3000 fans from the post and surrounding area. Mixed in with the official bouts were nine flea-weight contests between members of the Fort Leavenworth youth boxing program. These matches were greatly enjoyed by the fans.

Trophies, prizes and awards were presented to the winners by Maj. Gen. Lionel C. McGarr, CG of Fort Leavenworth and commandant of the Command and General Staff College.

Tom Fix Named Meet's Most Courageous

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kans. — In a newly-conceived award, PFC Tom Fix, bantamweight contender from Fort Carson, Colo., was given a trophy for being the most courageous fighter at the recent 1957 Fifth Army boxing tournament.

Maj. Gen. Lionel C. McGarr, CG of Fort Leavenworth, presented the award to the young fighter.

Fix was defeated by PFC Leon Thompson, Fort Riley, in the bantamweight title fight. Although Thompson had longer range and constantly blasted Fix with long left hooks, the game Carson boxer was always driving in with a flurry of punches.

The final bell found Fix battered and bloody from a cut nose, but still charging in with weakened but persistent combinations.

740th AAA Wins Cage Tournament

FORT BAKER, Calif. — Hubie Brown, former Niagara University player, led the 740th AAA Missile Bn. to the 30th AAA Group's basketball championship here last week.

Brown scored 22 points as the 740th defeated the 9th AAA Missile Bn. 66-51 in the finals of the tournament.

The 740th will represent Northern California's six AAA battalions in the 6th AA Regional Command tournament March 18-23.

Jax Ends Regular Slate With Undefeated Record

FORT JACKSON, S. C.—Closing out their schedule by defeating the Parris Island Marines at the field house last week, the Eagles entered into their record books a 27-0 count on the season.

The Jaxmen put on one of their best performances this year against the Marines. Darrell Floyd, hitting a deadly 45 percent of his shots, was high man for the winners with 25 points.

Mickey Harrington and Millard Harris combined under the boards to pull in a total of 23 rebounds. The team had 56 rebounds in all. Wally McCarvill, former Iona College star, stole the game scoring honors by meshing 28 points. His efforts were in vain, however, as the Eagles closed out the contest 97-84.

Earlier in the week, a strong Clemson College freshman team invaded the field house and gave the Eagles a good battle. The halftime score was 33-32 in favor of the frosh. But Jackson's depth proved too much though, and the second half told the story. Final score was 79-65.

Rolls Perfect Game

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Lt. Col. Herman N. Reil bowled a perfect game, 300, at the Sugar Bowl Lanes here last week on his birthday. Col. Reil is Director of Administration at the New Orleans Army Terminal. He is a member of the Camp Leroy Johnson bowling team and will compete in the Fourth Army bowling tournament at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., which begins March 26.

Divarty Cage Team Wins Ft. Benning Championship

By SEYMOUR REUBEN

FORT BENNING, Ga.—Divarty's team called "Desire" reigned as Fort Benning's regimental basketball champions after breezing home an easy 81-68 winner over the 29th RCT, thus ending one of the most exciting basketball races in Fort Benning history.

It was a sweet victory for the Divarty team which blew a golden opportunity to win the title on the last day of the regular season by losing to these same 29th RCT eagles, throwing the league race into a three way deadlock and necessitating a double elimination playoff series.

After whipping the 29th RCT and The School Brigade on successive days, Divarty's title hungry team put the frosting on the cake with the final win over the Commanders.

Divarty started with a rush and at one stage early in the game held a 20 point lead. But early in the second half, 29th RCT fought back and tied the score at 48-48. It looked like a replay of the final game of the season.

However, behind the brilliant

3A Basketball At Fort Bragg

FORT BRAGG, N.C.—Top Army basketball stars from throughout the Southern states are here this week for the annual Third Army basketball tournament.

Nine soldier teams and five WAC teams will compete for Third Army championships.

Third Army posts which will have male teams entered are Fort Bragg, Fort McPherson, Ga., Fort Campbell, Ky., Fort Jackson, S.C., Fort Gordon, Ga., Fort McClellan, Ala., Fort Rucker, Ala., Redstone Arsenal, Ala., and Fort Stewart, Ga.

The five WAC teams will represent Bragg, Gordon, Jackson, McClellan and McPherson.

The Fort Jackson squad is considered the team to beat in the male division. Led by former All-America Darrell Floyd, Jackson enters the tournament with an undefeated record. Floyd, who won national fame at Furman (S.C.) University, is Jackson's leading scorer.

Bayonet Track League

WITH 7TH DIV. IN KOREA.—Four track teams will be fielded in the 7th Inf. Div. this spring. The Bayonet track league consists of teams from the 17th, 31st, and 32d Inf. Regts.

shooting and rebounding of Bill Mannon and Bill Range. Divarty was not to be denied. Mannon broke the tie with three straight field goals and from that point on it was a breeze.

HANNON WAS the game's leading scorer with 23 points. Range, formerly of Seton Hall, chipped in with 17.

Oliver Elders, 29th RCT, was again excellent in defeat. The former Harlem Magician star was a thorn in Divarty's attack all evening as he ripped the cards for 22 points to go along with his fine floor game. Fred Byerly, player coach of 29th RCT, netted 20 points.

SIX of the ten players on the Fort Benning team taking part in the Third Army basketball tournament this week at Fort Bragg, N.C., were members of the Divarty team: Bill Range, Don Close, Lonnie Jackson, James Atkins, Bill Mannon and Lloyd Black.

The other four berths are filled by Leslie Robertson, Support Command, and Oliver Elders, John Bernard and Fred Byerly, all of the 29th RCT. First Lt. George Davis, Divarty coach, is coaching the Benning team.

Banard and Byerly were added to the team after the original choices, Lou Sawchik and Tom Flynn of School Brigade could not compete due to other commitments.

Devens Wins 1st Army Wrestling

FORT DEVENS, Mass.—The six man Fort Devens team won the commander's trophy in the First Army wrestling tournament held here last week. Fort Dix, N.J., finished second.

Both teams tied for first place with 16 points each but Devens had three runner-up points as opposed to one for the Dix team, enabling Devens to win the trophy.

Fort Banks, Mass., was third with eight points and Fort Jay, N.Y., had one point.

THE FIRST ARMY champions who will go on to the All-Army wrestling championships at Fort Bliss, Tex., March 10-15, are: Bantamweight—Carlo Giovannetti, Fort Devens.

This is the most fantastic way of making money you ever heard of. That's because you do all your "selling" BY MAIL, to one customer—the U. S. Government! Uncle Sam will buy all the old junk jewelry you send in at $35.00 AN OUNCE for the gold it contains. Just follow my Plan and you can pick up gold on any street in your town. I show you where to find it, what to pay, how to test, and how to mail to Uncle Sam for cash. I'll teach you the secrets by which I made $20,000 a year. No charge for facts. No salesman will call. Send no money—just your name, address on postcard. Circle 1023

IBM growth creates openings like these

FOR ENGINEERS: Before his recent promotion, this man was a member of a small "team" (two M.E.'s, an E.E., and a model maker) IBM's Poughkeepsie plant. His specific project involved the creation of the "ultimate package" in printed circuitry. His group "brainstormed" the project in continued sessions, putting the results in model form.

FOR PHYSICISTS: Promoted a short time ago, this man directed Quality Engineering in the Poughkeepsie plant. He was responsible for the performance of IBM's giant electronic computers. "The problems of Quality Control are fascinating," he reports. "You may be concerned with anything from transistors to magnetic inks. There's always something new."

FOR MATHEMATICIANS: Now promoted to a management position, this man spent two years as an Applied Science Representative. During that period, he "consulted with the executives of many companies—advising them on the use of their IBM data processing computers... analyzing their scientific and technical problems for solution by IBM."

Which one could you fill?

Due to IBM's terrific rate of expansion, career opportunities like these are continually available at IBM. If you're an engineer or scientist—or possess equivalent experience—you may qualify for a number of positions. Openings also exist in the following areas:

• Computer systems planning • Numerical analysis and programming • Electronic circuit design and packaging • Electrostatic phenomena • Real time systems engineering • Photo and magnetic device memory • Semi-conductor research, development, and manufacturing • Manufacturing process control • Computer systems testing • Test equipment design

Economic experts rank the electronic computer with automation and nuclear energy in growth potential. It is estimated that by 1960, more than 10,000 electronic computers will be in operation. Why not find out what these predictions mean in terms of your professional career?

For the facts about an engineering or scientific career with IBM, just write, outlining your background and interests, to: R. A. Whitehouse, Manager of Engineering Recruitment, Dept. 1818 International Business Machines Corporation, 590 Madison Avenue, New York 22, N. Y.

Where would you like to work for IBM? IBM plants and laboratories are located in:

FROM Frankford Arsenal in Philadelphia comes news that should be welcome to service rifle competitors. For the first time in more than 10 years, the arsenal has resumed manufacture of .30 caliber match ammunition.

Brig. Gen. Joseph M. Colby, Frankford CG, says that under terms of a recent order for 21 million rounds, this super-accurate ammunition will now be supplied to the Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force for use in national and international matches.

It is the first time in history that all branches of the Armed Services will receive their rifle match ammo from a single source. For many years, Frankford produced it only for the Army.

The Frankford announcement didn't say when the first distribution would be made. But it is expected to make its appearance on the line during all or some of the Army area matches this spring, and at the All-Army matches in June.

In recent years, match ammunition has been chosen from production runs on a selective basis. Col. Berkeley R. Lewis, chief of the Frankford ammunition group and one of the prime movers in development of the new ammunition, says it "will be tailor made for the job."

Looking Ahead

in the right direction toward U.S. recovery of its supremacy in the shooting field.

Another is a drive, led by Lt. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, National Rifle Association executive director, to make international match shooting as important here as it is in other countries. Gen. Parks believes that lack of sufficient emphasis on this type of shooting has contributed to our losses in the Olympics.

Almost every other nation competing in the Olympics fires the international course year in and year out. Americans fire it only in the years in which there is International Shooting Union, Olympic or Pan-American competition. They do well, but not well enough.

NRA plans to take the lead in developing and promoting more matches built around the international course of fire. Gen. Parks has talked to Army and Marine Corps officials who have promised support.

The Army already has in operation at Fort Benning the finest truly international-type ranges in the country, and provides the intensive training that the best shooters must have in order to win today.

SFC CLIFTON H. MILLER, of Fort Richardson, shows the hunting trophies he's collected during the past three years in Alaska. They include a mountain sheep, grizzly bear, moose, mountain goat, seal and fox, shown here, plus four caribou and a lynx. Lynx and fox were trapped, the rest shot. For the big game, Miller used a .300 Weatherby Magnum.

The Marine Corps is building such a range at Camp Matthews, Calif., and is working toward facilities at Quantico, Va. The Navy has created a permanent marksmanship unit to train its national and international competitors.

By starting now, the NRA believes we should have a better chance of victory in the World Championships in 1958 and the Pan-American matches in Cleveland in 1959.

Bonus Bird Season

Hof Game Bird Farm, which counts a number of Army hunters from the Pentagon among its regular season visitors, sent in a reminder this week that the farm will be open the rest of March for pheasant hunting. For those who didn't rack away their guns at the close of the regular state season, this means almost three more weeks of shooting at this nearby Virginia preserve.

The farm, run by Helene and Francis Omlor near Vienna, includes guide, dog and lunch in its moderate daily hunting fee, with a guaranteed minimum of three pheasants. For information and reservations call Francis Omlor, DUNKIRK 5-8619 (D.C. phone directory) or write, R.D. No. 1, Oakton, Va.

Report All RAs In Hq. Cos. of 60th Regiment

FORT CARSON, Colo. — There isn't a draftee in all three headquarters companies of the 60th Inf. Regt.'s battalion here.

That's a most uncommon situation in this day when the Selective Service System accounts for the bulk of nearly any Army unit.

But every member of the three companies is in the Army because he wants to be, it appears. Each one enlisted, in any case, and has a regular army prefix to his service number.

Now the trio of units is talking about how each is "RA all the way." That's a slogan reserved for the more enthusiastic Army outfits.

OBITUARY

Col. John C. Wade

ARLINGTON, Va.—Burial services for Col. John C. Wade on March 1 at Arlington Cemetery. He was 71.

A native of Muscoda, Wis., he was commissioned in the Corps of Engineers in 1918. Prior to War II, he served on the Mexican Border, the Philippines, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. During War II he served in various capacities with District Engineers in the States and also in the Southwest Pacific theater.

Survivors include his widow, Katherine E. Wade; a daughter, Mrs. John W. Thompson, and a brother, Charles A. Wade.

Col. R. G. Jenks

WASHINGTON—Col. Royal G. Jenks (ret.) died at Walter Reed Army Hospital on Feb. 28. He was 75.

Born in 1882 in New Orleans, he joined the service in 1917. One of the original group of Finance officers when the department was established, he later served with Gen. MacArthur during the historic evacuation from the Philippines. Col. Jenks was credited with keeping Army funds and finance records out of the enemy's hands during the escape to Australia.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ruth Herring.

Mrs. L. M. Read

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kans.—Mrs. Lillian M. Read, 80, widow of the late Col. Beverly Allen Read, and daughter of the late U. S. Sen. Hernando Money of Mississippi, died on Feb. 23 at the Army Hospital here.

She is survived by a son, Col. H. M. Read; daughter, Mrs. Langston Moffett; grandson, Lt. Col. Beverly M. Read; four grandchildren, and five great grandchildren. Interment was held at Lexington, Va.

Col. I. S. Dierking

HOUSTON, Tex.—Col. Irwin S. Dierking (ret.) was buried at Zachary Taylor National Cemetery on Feb. 22. He was 62.

He was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry in 1917 and served in France during War I. He transferred to the Quartermaster Corps and served in Hawaii from 1930-35. He was later assigned to duty in Europe.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Frieda Dierking; a son, Irwin S. Dierking, Jr., and three daughters, Mrs. Thomas T. Currie, Mrs. Roy M. Taylor, and Mrs. James A. Butler.

W. E. R. Bosch

SAN FRANCISCO—Lt. Col. William E. R. Bosch (ret.), a native of Boston, Mass., died here on Feb. 14.

Survivors of his family include his widow, Mrs. Ethel B. Bosch, a son and three daughters. Interment services were held Feb. 18 in the San Francisco National Cemetery.

Mrs. M. T. Burger

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Mary T. Burger, 53, wife of Brig. Gen. Vonna B. Burger, died at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Feb. 25. She had been air evacuated to Walter Reed from Okinawa.

Beside her husband, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. T. H. Westbrook. Funeral services were held in Lawton, Okla.

Gen. W. C. Baker

WASHINGTON—Maj. Gen. Walter C. Baker (ret.), 79, former Chief of the Army Chemical Corps, died here on Feb. 19.

A native of Chester, Pa., he served with the Pennsylvania National Guard in the Spanish-American War. He was commissioned in the Coast Artillery Corps in 1902 and later transferred to the Chemical Corps in 1920. He was awarded the DSC for his War I service.

He is survived by his wife, the former Frances Champion Bradley.

Non-combat list of Regular Army and AUS deceased commissioned officers, warrant officers and retired officers for period ending 13 February 1957.

All About STAMPS

By BILL OLCHESKI

UNITED NATIONS issues are back in the news with the announcement of a four-cent airmail stamp and a four-cent airmail postal card slated for issue on May 27. The same design will be used on both the card and the stamp.

The stamp depicts the concept of flight through the medium of a globe set within an airplane wing. Superimposed on part of the wing is the UN emblem. Basic color is maroon. The design is based on the work of W. W. Wind of Israel. It was awarded first prize in the UN International Stamp Design Contest held in 1952.

In other UN news, there is a first day sale report on the World Meteorological Organization issue of January 28. Covers cancelled amounted to 376,110.

Another printing has been made of the two-cent regular UN issue. The second reprint, like the first, is without control numbers.

Other UN reprints announced also can be identified by the lack of control numbers on the new version of the stamps. These include the 15c, 20c and 25c regular stamps and the 15c and 25c airmail stamps.

The regular 10c stamp has been reprinted for the third time. The third reprint, like the second, lacks control numbers.

Procedure to be followed in obtaining first day service on the UN Emergency Force Stamps has been announced. The stamps are the three and eight-cent issues and will appear on April 8.

First day service is given only at UN headquarters in New York. Payment must be in U.S. currency. First day cover requests go to the UN Postal Administration, United Nations, New York. The outside envelope must be marked "First Day Covers UNEF."

Remittance to cover cost of stamps to be affixed can be in either money order or certified check. Personal checks are not acceptable. Neither are postage stamps.

The number and denomination of stamps desired should be marked in pencil on the inside envelopes.

Requests for marginal inscriptions will be filled when possible. Normal purchase requirements to obtain a marginal inscription are waived for this issue. No position orders can be honored.

Orders for mint stamps must be sent separate from orders for first day covers.

CANADA. Canada plans to issue a silver dollar in 1958 commemorating the centennial of British Columbia. A design contest has been held and the winner is to be chosen March 31.

SWAP LIST. To get on the TIMES list send your name and interests to the Stamp Editor, this newspaper. To contact anyone on the list, send the number of the person you wish to contact TOGETHER WITH A STAMP FOR EACH PERSON TO BE CONTACTED to the Stamp Editor, Army Times Pub-

Offer Trust Aid To Two Groups

FORT RILEY, Kans.—A search for widows and orphans of deceased regular Army personnel from the state of Illinois or former members of the 1st Inf. Div., who need financial assistance, is being instituted by the Army Relief Society.

Trustees of the Robert R. McCormick Trust have made $10,000 available for assistance to those two groups. No information on individuals in the two categories needing assistance is presently available, but the Society feels there are deserving persons who could put the grants to good use.

In a recent letter to Fort Riley officials, the Relief Society indicated it would like to see the funds put to immediate use.

Anyone having knowledge of widows or orphans falling into one of the two categories who need assistance should notify the Army Relief Society in Washington, D.C., or the Army Emergency Relief office at Fort Riley.

The $10,000 grant is a portion of the estate of the late Colonel McCormick who also left his farm home near Chicago, Ill., to be converted into a 1st Inf. Div. Museum.

AT YOUR SERVICE

WAIVER ACCEPTABLE

Q. Years ago I enlisted below the eligible age. Later the enlistment was allowed to stand, and I have been on continuous active duty ever since. May my length of service be dated from the original enlistment for retirement purposes?

A. It is our understanding that if the Government waives the fraudulent enlistment and allows it to stand, the accepted service becomes as legal as that of any other enlisted man.

TAKE ODS ALONG

Q. I am alerted for overseas in the near future. Am I required to take my OD Army uniform with me, as it will soon become obsolete?

A. Headquarters advises that you take it with you. There is no reason why an overseas commander may not require its wear, despite the option usually granted to use the new green uniform after October 1st.

P. K. QUARTERS PAY

Q. What were the inclusive dates some years ago when enlisted men serving in Puerto Rico were entitled to $1.50 per day for quarters?

A. From April 1, 1951 to Jan. 31, 1952 — if in receipt of "saved pay" under the Career Compensation Act of 1949, provided quarters were not supplied.

MOS CAN BE CHANGED

Q. May the Army change an enlisted man's military occupational specialty (MOS) without his consent?

A. Yes. Occasionally, certain MOSs are eliminated altogether, and men are given others not too far removed in job pattern. Also in event of overstrength in any MOS, men may be shifted to other jobs with other classifications.

RED CROSS SERVICE

Q. May former service of a W.A.C. as a Red Cross Nurse be counted toward longevity for basic pay purposes?

A. No, it may not be credited for that purpose. (See AR 35-1110, par. 9.)

DEPENDENT TRAVEL

Q. Is concurrent travel of dependents to Alaska authorized for enlisted personnel?

A. Yes, but advance application must be made. (See AR 55-47, Appendix I.)

RETURN FOR OCS

RETURN FOR OCS
Q. (1) If an enlisted man serving overseas applies and is accepted for OCS, will he be returned to the ZI, or will he have to complete his overseas tour? (2) When do classes start for OCS Infantry and Artillery?

A. (1) If he meets qualifying criteria and is accepted, he is returned immediately. (2) Infantry OCS (Fort Benning)—March 18; Artillery OCS (Fort Sill)—Feb. 25.

RETIREMENT CREDIT

Q. I was told that for retirement purposes a soldier could credit a half year as a full year and thus retire on completion of 19½ years of active duty. Is that possible?

A. No; after completing 20 full years of active duty, an additional half year or more counts as another full year of service in computing retired pay. This may have led to the misinformation you received.

EARLY RELEASE

Q. Does the Army now have an early release for returnees from overseas?

A. AR 635-205, Par. 7, provides early release up to 90 days for certain groups of overseas-returns.
